NEW DILLINGER HUNT ON; SHOTS HALT POLICE CAR

Fleeing Bandit Fires on Chief.

A gunman identified as John Dillinger, desperate fugitive outlaw from Indiana, escaped capture last night by riddling a pursuing police car with machine gun bullets in Schiller Park.

If the gunman was Dillinger, this was the closest encounter with the law he has had since he bluffed his way out of the county jail at Crown Point with a toy pistol last Saturday morning. He has been reported to have been seen since, however, in various parts of Chicago.

Dillinger Scares Rifle.

The Schiller Park shooting capped a night of varied Dillinger scares. Earlier the desperado had been reported sighted by an Evanston motorist. Then he was said to have appeared with confederates in front of 2440 Lake Shore drive and to have stolen a Lincoln sedan. It was there that the robber was identified as Dillinger and it was in this Lincoln that he was supposedly sighted in Schiller Park.

Police Chief Robert Christian of Schiller Park, whose car was shot up in the chase, was cruising about alone and in uniform in Irving Park boulevard when he saw two sedans speeding northwest. One he believed to be the stolen Lincoln sedan. He pursued the two machines and at Mannheim road drew up to within 10 feet of the large sedan when a gun was thrust through a side window.

Bullets Riddle Police Car.

There was a roar of shots, and bullets crashed all about Christian, smashing his windshield, puncturing his tires, and hitting the motor. Christian's car came to an abrupt stop and the two cars he had been pursuing sped away. They turned toward Bensenville in the hunting grounds once controled by the now broken up Touhy gang. Eleven bullets struck Christian's car.

"I can't say it was Dillinger in the car," said Chief Christian, "but I'm sure that the man firing at me used a machine gun. It was just pure luck I wasn't hit. The bullets whizzed all around me."

On the supposition that the fugitive he saw was Dillinger, and that the two or three men in the two cars were Dillinger's pals, Chief Christian broadcast an alarm. It was indicated that perhaps the Dillinger gangsters have established contact with the remnants of the Touhy gang.

Identified as Dillinger.

The Lincoln automobile stolen from in front of 2440 Lake Shore drive belonged to Mrs. Pauline Stern, 5490 South Shore drive, widow of Herman Stern, investment broker. She was visiting her son, Herbert L. Stern, at the time, and her car was being guarded by her chauffeur, James Gaskin, 5432 Kimbark avenue. Gaskin positively identified pictures of Dillinger as those of the man who took the car.

Gaskin was sitting in the car when a gray sedan containing three or four men drew up on the other side of the street. Two alighted and walked over to him. One opened the right hand side door, and said: "Have you a match, buddy?" Gaskin looked at the man, and suddenly recognized him as Dillinger, he told police later. Gaskin tried to open the door at the left but the second man blocked him with a gun.

The two then got into the car, and made Gaskin get into the back seat. Dillinger, Gaskin said, sat up in front with a machine gun across his lap while the other man drove. Occasionally they turned to make sure their companions in the gray sedan were following. They ejected Gaskin from the car at Orchard and Clark streets, but first took his chauffeur's hat.

Reported Seen Several Times.

Last night's chase added to the growing jitters concerning the roving desperado. Throughout the day there were reports he had been seen in a dozen different places, although thus far there have not been any real clews as to his hiding places.

Along with wild reports as to Dillinger's whereabouts have arisen startling speculations. For instance, some investigators profess to see a connection between his escape and the murder of "West Side" Frankie Pope. Their theory is a complicated one which has caused snickers among

HITS AT TIE-UP OF POLITICS AND OFFICE HOLDING

Creates "Vacancies" That Nobody Fills.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 9.—[Special.]—Because he is holding both a government and a party office in violation of President Roosevelt's new policy of divorcing the two, Postmaster General James A. Farley is on his way out as chairman of the Democratic national committee.

President Roosevelt himself made this announcement today. It climaxed a series of party resignations, all produced by the White House attitude, which divested three high governmental officials and three political lawyers of their party rank.

As soon as some one can be found to lead the hosts of Democracy Postmaster General Farley, who engineered the smashing Roosevelt election, must lay down his title as chairman of the national committee, the President said, confirming a statement made some time ago by Farley himself.

Two Members Left.

Retirement of Farley, who has been the outstanding example of a man holding both public and party offices, would cap the Roosevelt drive to split apart the ranking personnel of the party and the government.

With Farley's resignation in, only two Democratic national committeemen would remain on the government roster—W. W. Howes, first assistant postmaster general and committeeman from South Dakota, and W. A. Julian, treasurer of the United States and committeeman from Ohio.

Three committeemen have resigned because of their government jobs—Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, director of the mint and formerly committeewoman from Wyoming; Frank Walker, secretary to the emergency council and formerly committee treasurer, and Jed C. Adams, member of the board of tax appeals and former committeeman from Texas.

Deem Ousters Meaningless.

Three others have quit the committee because they were practicing law here—Arthur Mullen, retiring committeeman from Nebraska; Robert Jackson, resigned committeeman from New Hampshire, and O. Max Gardner, formerly committeeman from North Carolina.

None of the vacancies created by resignations has been filled on the committee, and critics of the administration are beginning to argue that the resignations are meaningless unless the resigned member is actually replaced at the leadership of the state party by some one else.

SEN. A. A. HUEBSCH STRICKEN WHILE ADDRESSING BAR

State Senator Arthur A. Huebsch [Rep., 7th] of Brookfield became suddenly ill last night while addressing the Du Page County Bar association in the Medinah Country club at Itasca.

Dr. Martin Heidgen of Elmhurst, who was at the club, treated Senator Huebsch, and shortly afterward summoned Dr. A. B. Jones of Wheaton and Dr. Thomas C. McDougal of La Grange for consultation. It was reported that the senator had suffered a stroke, due to cerebral hemorrhage, but Dr. Heidgen said at midnight that this was not definitly determined. He described the condition of the patient as favorable and said he probably would remain at the club through the night.

Senator Huebsch, an attorney, is former village president of Brookfield.

WOMAN GIVES UP HER CAR, BUT HER PURSE, NEVER!

Mrs. Elmer Ostrom, 3230 Belden avenue, was putting her automobile in a garage at 3250 Palmer street last night when she was met by two robbers.

"Give us your purse," said one of the men, showing her a pistol.

"Indeed I won't," retorted Mrs. Ostrom.

"Well, let us have your car," said the man.

"All right," she replied. "That's insured."

With everybody satisfied, the bandits drove away with the car and Mrs. Ostrom reported her experience to the police.

Flyers Find 'Lost City' of Queen of Sheba

[Copyright: 1934: By the Associated Press.]

PARIS, March 9.—In the blistering sands of ancient Arabia two French flyers believed today they had found the long sought capital of the wealthy queen of Sheba.

"We discovered the legendary city of the queen of Sheba; twenty towers or temples still stand," said the terse message Capt. Corniglion Molinier and Andre Malraux sent the French air ministry.

Malraux, famous as an author and archaeologists, indicated that the place, which was called Mariaba by the ancient Greeks and Marib by others, was covered by sand, but that aerial photographs revealed well preserved vestiges of its former glory.

1,000 Miles from Jerusalem.

The exact location was not given, but was said to be near the Persian gulf and about 1,000 miles southeast of Jerusalem—at the northern edge of the huge waste called the Arabian desert or Ruba el Khalil.

Once the region flourished and was prosperous because of busy trade routes and vast irrigation projects, but when the Sabean tribes disintegrated near the end of the sixth century the desert once more claimed it.

Archaeologists and Biblical scholars have long been interested in the queen of Sheba's city—wealthy with gold and jewels and spices and luxuries.

Bible Is Quoted.

The Bible says of it:

"The second lot came forth to Simeon, even for the tribe of the children of Simeon, according to their families; and their inheritance was within the inheritance of the children of Judah.

"And they had in their inheritance Beer-Sheba, and Sheba, and Mol-A-Dah.

"And when the queen of Sheba heard of the fame of Solomon she came to prove Solomon with hard questions at Jerusalem, with a very great company, and camels that bore spices, and gold in abundance, and precious stones; neither was there any such spice as the queen of Sheba gave King Solomon.

"And King Solomon gave to the queen of Sheba all her desire, whatsoever she asked beside that which she had brought unto the king. So she turned, and went away to her own land, she and her servants."

Wide areas of the Arabian desert are still no man's land, even to the inhabitants of its sparse oases.

The French airmen made a hazardous flight across these trackless wastes, where they said a landing would mean sure death. Before he left on Feb. 22 Malraux told friends if his airplane were forced down in the desert death from hunger and thirst was inevitable.

Flew in Borrowed Plane.

Their dispatch telling of the discovery was sent from Djibouti, French Somaliland, across the Gulf of Aden from Arabia. Malraux started the flight from Djibouti, intending to explore Yemen and in search of the lost capital of Sheba. He presumably flew across the desert to its northern limit.

Malraux, whose life has been colorful in the extreme, began archaeological work at the age of 20 in Indo-China. He wrote books on his experiences and researches, and once won the coveted Goncourt prize for literature. His departure from France last month was secret, and in a plane borrowed from a friend.

Forty Gunners Get Lesson in Hunting Crows

Forty sportsmen, armed with shotguns, went to the Chicago Silver Fox farm in Downers Grove township, three miles southeast of Naperville, to wipe out a huge rookery of crows last night.

For weeks the Downers Grove and Lemont areas have been plagued by twenty or thirty thousand of the birds. Several days ago Peter Thanasulas of Oak Lawn, an investigator for the state department of conservation, devised a plan for wholesale exterminations. The campaign began Wednesday night. Eighty hunters were invited. They killed nearly 4,000 crows on the John Case farm near Naperville and on a farm in Frankfort.

The second attack was scheduled for last night. Under Thanasulas' leadership 40 gunners from Chicago and suburbs assembled. A. R. Kelsey and Herschel Jones were the guides. Reconnoitering during the day they had discovered a large rookery in two trees on the silver fox farm.

At 7 o'clock the hunters began to close in on the two trees. At a signal, when all were ready, it was planned to have the 40 hunters turn loose their shotguns and blast the sleeping birds from their roosts. It was figured such a barrage would dispose of perhaps 4,000 crows.

The main body of hunters was less than 50 feet away from the roost when an overanxious hunter fired his shotgun into the trees. There was a thunder of flapping wings and the crows escaped, warned away by the premature shot. Investigator Thanasulas announced that he would enlist a new group of hunters tonight.

CLUBMEN'S LOSS IS JUST SO MUCH PAPER ON A WALL

One of the private dining rooms of the Union League club is to be decorated with some unique wall paper. It will be covered with worthless stocks and bonds belonging to members and it will be dubbed "the Million Dollar Room, or the Folly of 1929."

Harry Doherty, club manager, and Dayton Keith, chairman of the house committee, originated the plan. Doherty said yesterday that he believed club members would find a good bit of satisfaction in bringing their stock brokers to luncheon in the room when it is completed.

The private dining room is located on the eighth floor and overlooks the La Salle street financial district.

3 PLANES WRECKED AS SENATORS DEBATE BILL

Two Pilots Perish in Flaming Ship in Wyoming.

Four more army flyers were killed yesterday while flying mail planes as the senate debated a bill to return mail contracts to private lines. This brings the total deaths of flyers to ten since the army began carrying the mail 13 days ago.

Cheyenne, Wyo., March 9.—(AP)—Two army flyers, Lieuts. Frank L. Howard and Arthur R. Kerwin Jr., were burned to death tonight in the crash of their army mail plane against a power line at Cheyenne airport. They were on a night trial flight from Cheyenne to Salt Lake, Utah, but were not carrying mail.

The accident occurred about 150 yards from the Cheyenne airport. Witnesses said the ship appeared to develop motor trouble soon after taking off.

The two flyers circled over the city once after they took off from the field and then headed west. Their motor sputtered and the men circled again, apparently attempting to head back to the field.

Buried 3 Feet Deep in Earth.

The plane struck the power line, turned a loop, and crashed almost nose first into the ground. It made a hole three feet deep in the earth.

A huge ball of fire burst from the ship and in a second it was a mass of flames. The flyers were burned before aid could reach them. The flames drove back rescuers. After the fire subsided the two bodies could be seen in the cockpits, but they were burned beyond recognition.

Lieut. Howard, whose home was in Shreveport, La., was piloting the ship, with Lieut. Kerwin, formerly of March Field, Cal., as a passenger. It was an observation plane with an open cockpit.

FALLS IN FIELD

Cleveland, O., March 9.—[Special.]—Death claimed another army pilot near here today. Otto Wienecke, flying the mail from Newark, N. J., to Cleveland, crashed to his death in a cornfield northwest of Burton, O., just before dawn.

A sudden snow flurry and an uncertain engine in his military plane were believed to have collaborated in causing the crash. The plane was destroyed, but the ten bags of mail in the ship were salvaged and brought to the Cleveland postoffice.

Pilot Wienecke was 32 years old and received his pilot's license in 1925. He was a first lieutenant stationed at Mitchel field, New York, and rated as one of the army's crack flyers. He was flying an open cockpit observation plane.

Safety Belt Still Hooked.

Witnesses reported that Wienecke apparently had no opportunity to save himself. His safety belt was still hooked when John Hess, tenant of the farm on which the pilot crashed, reached the plane.

Philip Pease, Geauga county coroner, said the ship's altimeter showed a reading of 600 feet. The body was taken to a funeral home in Chardon, where a preliminary examination revealed that Wienecke had died of a broken neck.

Hess was about his chores when he saw the ship's headlights through the heavily falling snow.

"I heard the engine sputtering," Hess said. "The crash followed a Tragedies Are Laid to Administration in Hot Tilt.

BY JOHN HERRICK.

Washington, D. C., March 9.—[Special.]—Introduction in the senate of legislation embodying the President's program for a revised air mail system was the signal today for a new flare-up of the partisan air mail war.

Chairmen Kenneth McKellar [Dem., Tenn.] of the senate postoffice committee and Hugo L. Black [Dem., Ala.] of the special air mail investigating committee were the sponsors of the administration measure under which it is proposed to clean up the air mail system, restore carriage of the mail to commercial lines, and eventually place air mail subsidies and routes under regulation of the interstate commerce commission.

Submission of the bill touched off Senator Simeon D. Fess of Ohio, loudest of the Republican critics and chosen defender of Walter F. Brown, former postmaster general under President Hoover.

Renews Responsibility Charge.

With the deaths of two more army mail flyers as his text he renewed the Republican charge that the President and Postmaster General Farley were responsible for the eight deaths and the numerous crashes which have marked the air corps' transportation of the post. [Tonight two other mail flyers were killed.]

The Ohio senator's attack was the signal for the Democrats to take up arms in retaliation. The debate verged on the personal. Reference was made to Senator Fess' "interest" in the air companies whose contracts were canceled, recalling inferentially that the senator's son, Lehr Fess, had been paid between $3,000 and $5,000 by United Aircraft for lobbying for the Watres air mail act in 1930.

Senator Fess pointed to the deaths of the army aviators.

"The responsibility for that has to go to the President," he shouted; then preparatory to elaborating his argument added: "Now why do I say that?"

Exchange Retorts on Floor.

"One never knows," interjected Senator J. Hamilton Lewis [Dem., Ill.].

"Why didn't the Ohio senator, instead of this parade of theatricals, write a letter to the President stating his complaint?" Senator Lewis inquired.

"Any letter of mine would not fit in with the Democratic smearing campaign," Senator Fess retorted.

"Of course," Senator Lewis conceded, "the President is a wise man and would not pay attention to some people."

He denounced the Republican's charges as an "assault and slander" upon President Roosevelt. He gave the name of "brigands" to the air mail operators whose contracts were canceled a month ago today on the ground that they had been obtained through fraud and collusion.

Calls It "Un-American."

That cancelation was "un-American," replied Senator Fess.

"The meanest criminal in the land is given his day in court while these men were not," he declared, then went on: "And this new bill is just a bit of face-saving legislation, because you can do everything it attempts to do under the present laws."

The McKellar-Black bill as introduced follows, specification by specification, the policy outlined in the President's letter of last Wednesday. Briefly summarized, it provides as follows:

The postmaster general may award air mail contracts for not over three years to the lowest responsible bidder. Rates are not to exceed 20 cents per mile for the first 300 pounds of mail, and not to exceed 5 cents per mile for each additional 200 pounds of mail or fraction; in no case shall the rate exceed 40 cents per mile.

Rates Lower Than Maximum.

Present air mail pay rates call for a maximum of 40 cents per mile on the first 225 pounds and a possible maximum of $1.25 above that poundage. Actual rates at the time of the cancelation were far lower than the permitted maximum, due to successive cuts both under the previous and the present administration. The maximum rate in effect was 45 cents a mile and the average for routes throughout the country was between 36 and 37 cents.

No contract is to be sold, assigned, or transferred. An operator may receive only one route extension and that of not more than 100 miles. Routes shall be designated as primary and secondary routes; the former shall include three transcontinental routes, each of which may be flown by one or several companies. Successful bidders are to be given six months, under bond, to qualify.

A Beautiful PORTRAIT OF ST. PATRICK IN FULL COLOR Suitable for Framing FREE WITH TOMORROW'S SUNDAY TRIBUNE Also ★ ★ ★ ASTROLOGY READINGS Forecasts of the Future By WYNN Renowned Astrologer

Within six months of the expiration of the contracts, and in any case not later than the passage of the act, the interstate commerce commission is to determine the public convenience and necessity for all air mail routes and determine future reasonable rates of compensation. The provisions of the act of 1916 relating to adjustment of rates for carriage of the mails by railroads are to be applicable to the transportation of air mail.

Bill Seeks Re-Organization.

Following these provisions the bill hits even more directly at the present companies whose contracts were canceled. Its admitted purpose is to force them to reorganize in order to become eligible to bid, the reorganization including the ousting of any officers who took part in the now famous conferences called by former Postmaster General Brown in May and June, 1930.

No company is to be eligible which has, or any officer of which has, an interest in any other company engaged in any phase of the aviation industry. No company is to be eligible which asserts a claim against the United States.

Hits at Closed Bidding.

The bill then continues:

"No person shall be eligible to bid on or hold an air mail contract if such person, through its officers, has entered into any combination to prevent competitive bidding for carrying the mails, or has made any agreement, or given or performed or promised to give or perform any consideration whatever to induce any person not to bid for any such contract, or who has employed any senator or member of congress or government official or officer of any political party to seek to influence the awarding of contracts, or has, as an officer or director, any person who has heretofore entered into any combination to prevent the making of any bids for carrying the mails, or which pays any officer, director and/or employé as a salary and/or bonus and/or commission, or other compensation whatsoever, a sum in excess of the rate of $17,500.00 for a calendar year for full time service."

Attacks All Consolidations.

The holder of a contract on a primary route shall hold no other contract, nor may competing contractors merge or enter into an agreement looking to consolidation.

All bidders are to be required to furnish complete information concerning their financial set-up, and all holders of contracts must submit to audit by the postoffice department. Mail pay may be reduced if the books show too great a profit.

Provisions of the bill follow which will make the postmaster general no longer the exclusive arbiter concerning specifications, and which link the commercial aviation service more closely to the plan of national defense.

To Form Specifications.

The secretary of commerce, in consultation with the secretaries of war and the navy, is to draw up the specifications for bidders, but these shall relate only to speed, load capacity, and safety features and devices. The secretary of commerce is also to prescribe the flying hours required of air mail pilots, their minimum pay, safe operation methods, and may approve any plan for pilots' retirement or annuity benefits.

Contractors will be required without extra compensation to carry as co-pilots, pilots of the army, navy, or marine air service or of the reserve corps. Commissioned officers detailed for such duty shall receive their service flying pay and a subsistence allowance. Companies must grant a month's leave for training to civilian pilots in the reserve.

Air mail routes may be extended not more than 150 miles across the Canadian border.

Enacts Stiff Penalty.

Then the following is provided:

"The postmaster general may cause any contract to be canceled for disregard or failure by the contractor to comply with the provisions of law herein contained and for any conspiracy or acts designed to defraud the United States with respect to such contracts. This provision is cumulative to other remedies now provided by law.

"Whoever shall enter into any combination to prevent the making of any bid for carrying the mail under this act, or shall make any agreement, or give or perform or promise to give or perform, any consideration whatever to induce any other person or concern not to bid for any contract pursuant to this act, shall be fined not more than ten thousand dollars or imprisoned for not more than five years, or both."

And lastly, the present air mail postage rates of 8 cents for the first ounce or fraction, and 13 cents for each additional ounce, or fraction, are to be restored to the rate of 5 cents for each ounce or fraction.

Force House Adjournment.

The air mail controversy also broke out in the house, where a single woman Republican was able to force adjournment when Democratic leaders refused to give consideration to a resolution which she offered.

Representative Edith Nourse Rogers [Rep., Mass.] sought unanimous consent to take up a resolution declaring it the "sense of the congress that the carrying of mail by the army air corps be discontinued immediately and until such time as its transportation shall be resumed by commercial lines."

Democrats objected to her request, whereupon Mrs. Rogers proceeded to object to all unanimous requests with such persistency that Majority Floor Leader Joseph W. Byrns [Dem., Tenn.] adjourned the house in exasperation.

Offers Substitute Plan for Private Air Mail Operation

Proposal of a five-fold plan designed to end alleged abuses but would restore the federal contracts for carrying air mail to the commercial transport companies was made yesterday by Ernest R. Breech, president of North American Aviation, Inc. The proposed plan was offered as a substitute for the legislation outlined by President Roosevelt on Tuesday to restore the mail contracts to the private concerns.

Breech, in prefacing his suggestions, charged that the President's general recommendations as made public in letters sent to the house and senate postoffice committees, offered no constructive plan for continued development of air transport. He alleged that if the President's proposals were enacted into legislation they would "result in the greatest possible confusion."

The Five-Fold Plan.

The alternative suggestions made by Breech, in brief, called for:

1. Restoration of all contracts canceled on Feb. 19.

2. Placing of air mail regulation under a federal supervising body similar to, but separate from, the interstate commerce commission, which can set up rules for the regulation of any abuses.

3. Payment to contractors carrying mail on a fixed pound-mile basis, an amount representing receipts from the sale of stamps as heretofore determined by the house postoffice committee as being .2 mills per pound-mile, thus eliminating direct subsidy.

4. Granting of direct subsidy, if desirable, to those air mail carriers who could not operate without losses on the above payment method because of small volume over their routes.

5. Immediate reduction of air postal rates to five cents per ounce for letters and the creation of a three cent lettergram and a two cent postcard.

Cites Fault in Program.

Breech charged that President Roosevelt's outlined program, "recognizes none of the equities and experience of the companies and their stockholders and the individuals who have spent the best years of their lives in building up this industry with full faith in the government that it would carry out its part of a contract which apparently was made in good faith."

Referring to the President's demand that interlocking directorates of competitive transport companies be prohibited, Breech asserted that such a taboo was desirable.

Defends Industry Tieup.

Another section of the President's outline which would disqualify an air transport company from carrying mail because a manufacturing company owns stock in the transport concern, brought this response:

"The three important developments of transport airplanes in this country during the past year were made by transport companies directly affiliated with manufacturers.

"It is a well known fact that the technical progress and advancement of the industry were practically nil in the period after the war up to 1930, the date of the enactment of the Watres act under which the recently canceled contracts were made. At that time sufficient capital was regimented into the larger companies to enable them to spend large sums in development work in coöperation with air transport companies to carry on the cost of such developments."

LINDBERGH AT CAPITAL; POSSIBLE MEETING AT WHITE HOUSE IS SEEN

Washington, D. C., March 9.—(AP)—The possibility of a meeting between President Roosevelt and Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, sought for weeks by mutual friends, was on Washington tongues tonight following the unexpected and somewhat mysterious arrival of the famous flyer in the capital.

Such a meeting, if it takes place, would be the first between the two since the White House reproved the aviator for making public a letter to the President criticizing cancelation of the air mail contracts before the chief executive had received it.

As early as Feb. 24 Will Rogers, long a friend of Col. Lindbergh, suggested to him in New York that a personal conference between the flyer and President Roosevelt would go far toward adjusting the air mail situation.

The White House tonight said Col. Lindbergh had made no appointment, but indicated clearly that if he should seek one he would be entirely welcome.

Mrs. Lindbergh accompanied the colonel, who flew from Newark airport to Bolling field in a chartered plane. They retired to an apartment hotel upon their arrival.

CRASHES IN WOODS

Daytona Beach, Fla., March 9.—[Special.]—Private Ernest Sell of Indiana, Pa., was killed today when an army bombing plane in which he was flying with United States mail crashed in a tangle of woods soon after it had taken off for a run to Miami. Lieut. W. M. Reid, Albany, Ga., a reserve officer on active duty, the pilot, and Private Floyd M. Marshall, Lincoln, Neb., the others of the plane crew, were injured. Lieut. Reid was seriously shaken and Private Marshall suffered a broken arm.

The skull of Sell, who was co-pilot and mechanic on the plane, was crushed in the forced landing. He was 29 years old. His widow and child reside at Hampton, Va.

Some weakness of the twin motors of the big bomber caused the accident. The ship had not gained much altitude when they failed. The crash occurred only two miles south of the Daytona airport. Four sacks of mail, all the plane carried, were saved. The plane was a Keystone bomber.

KILLED BY HEATER FUMES.

Mrs. Minnie Esar, 58 years old, employed as a housekeeper, was found dead last night in the kitchen of the home of Mrs. Theresa Runnel, 1836 North Central Park avenue. Death was attributed to fumes from a hot water heater.

Cut Rate Milk Station Is Bombed on West Side

Damage estimated at several hundred dollars was caused late last night by the explosion of a heavy bomb in the rear of the Blue Ribbon dairy, a cut rate concern at 3659 West Harrison street. A portion of a wall was torn away and windows of several adjoining buildings were shattered.

O'BRIEN, TARIFF CHIEF, SUPPORTS ROOSEVELT PLAN

Hoover Appointee Shocks Fellow Republicans.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 9.—[Special.]—Another of the administration's big guns boomed today in the campaign to wrest tariff control from congress and vest it in the hands of President Roosevelt.

Chairman Robert Lincoln O'Brien of the federal tariff commission, a Republican appointed by President Hoover, brought before the house ways and means committee an endorsement of the administration tariff proposals no less enthusiastic than the praises voiced yesterday by the Democratic secretaries of state, commerce, and agriculture.

To Republican members of the committee, Mr. O'Brien wrapped himself in a cloak of political heresy with his emphatic support of the plan to give the President power to juggle tariffs in reciprocal trade agreements with other nations. Indignantly, Minority Leader Bertrand H. Snell of New York asserted that Mr. O'Brien was seeking at the cost of his former principles to hang on to his job as head of the tariff commission.

Calls Ideas Republican.

Mr. O'Brien found the administration tariff plan, however, not incompatible with Republican theories of tariff control. The powers sought by the President, he told the committee, are virtually the same as those which he now enjoys under the flexible provisions of the tariff law. Authority to reduce or raise tariff rates in negotiating trade agreements with foreign nations, he declared, will merely enable the President to speed up the process.

"Why people fear a method which promises results and at the same time holds to a principle that doesn't get results," said the Hoover appointee to the shocked Republicans on the rostrum, "is just something I cannot understand."

"The only thing wrong with this bill," he continued, to the further horror of the minority committeemen, "is that it doesn't go far enough. It ought to give the President power to manipulate the free list. For example, we might be able to put a duty on coffee and still do business with Brazil, or a duty on silk and still get trade with Japan."

James A. Farrell for Plan.

"You will never get the congress to do a thing like that," asserted Representative Isaac Bacharach [Rep., N. J.], one of the arch protectionists on the Republican side. "The tariff policy of this country always has been that tariffs shall be levied only on foreign products that compete with domestic goods."

Though Mr. O'Brien was the star performer of the day, the committee heard James A. Farrell, one time chairman of the board of United States Steel and now chairman of the foreign commerce committee of the United States Chamber of Commerce, endorse the administration plan with a number of qualifications.

Mr. Farrell, as the spokesman for organized industry, had been expected to condemn the delegation of tariff powers to the President as proposed in the pending bill. But he told the committee that he had no objection to the vesting of such power in the hands of the President and pointed out that the United States Chamber of Commerce has supported the reciprocal trade agreement plan for a long time.

At the same time, however, he advocated certain checks on the presidential power, such as a legislative stipulation that all industries affected under a prospective reciprocal agreement shall have full opportunity to be heard before any action to raise or lower tariff rates is taken.

Members of the committee appeared to have difficulty in understanding the exact position of the commerce chamber with respect to the administration tariff plan. And a colloquy between Chairman Doughton [Dem., N. C.] and Mr. Farrell failed to clear the matter up, though Mr. Doughton seemed to think it did.

"I am uncertain in my own mind," the chairman stated, "as to the position of the gentleman who is speaking as the representative of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

"I would favor the bill with the amendments I have suggested," Mr. Farrell replied.

World of Self-Interest.

"Suppose none of the amendments is accepted," Doughton persisted, "would you be for or against the bill."

"No, sir!" said the witness emphatically.

"Well, that seems to clear that up," said the chairman.

Mr. O'Brien told the committee that the system of trading in international commerce under reciprocal agreements is growing like "wildfire."

"It is regretable, perhaps," he said, "but since other nations are doing it, we have got to get into it ourselves. It would be better if world markets were opener all the way around. Trade agreements, quotas, embargoes are bothersome. I would rather see a free world intercourse."

"I am a nationalist," Chairman O'Brien asserted, "and I have no patience with those who think that after 7,000 years of selfishness the world is suddenly going to become unselfish. If I were a high protectionist in congress I'd say pass this bill and pass it quickly."

ARMY TO OPEN AIR MAIL ROUTE TO NORTHWEST

The army will open daily air mail service on the Chicago to St. Paul and Chicago to Pembina, N. D., routes formerly flown by Northwest Airways within a few days, it was announced here yesterday by Col. Horace Hickam, army air mail commandant for the central zone. Twelve army observation planes will be used on the run. Five former pilots for the commercial line, all of them air corps reserve officers, have been ordered to take over the Chicago-Minneapolis run. They are Capt. John F. Malone, Second Lieutenant Robert L. Smith, and Second Lieutenant Charles L. Smith, all of Minneapolis; Capt. Richard W. Pears of Fargo, N. D., and First Lieutenant Joseph E. Ohrbek, St. Paul.

VETO APPEARS AS LONE ROOSEVELT VET AID WEAPON

See Support of House on Senate Action.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 9.—[Special.]—An executive veto today appeared to be the only weapon left to President Roosevelt if his economy program and budget balancing efforts are to be preserved in the face of congressional determination to restore thousands of veterans to the pension rolls.

House leaders frankly admitted that the lower body of congress, in its present mood, probably will not agree to any veterans' program acceptable to the President. Last night's turbulent Democratic caucus, they pointed out, forcefully indicated the intention of the majority to back up the senate in the addition of millions of dollars in veterans' benefits and government pay to the 1934 independent officers appropriation bill.

May Be Reduced.

While the $54 millions loaded onto the bill by the senate may be scaled down considerably in conference between the two houses, indications were that neither house will consent to a reduction substantial enough to satisfy Mr. Roosevelt.

Speaker Henry T. Rainey of Illinois today sought to place responsibility for preserving the administration economy program upon the Republican minority in the house, but the burden was hastily disclaimed by Minority Floor Leader Bertrand H. Snell of New York. Unless the Republicans vote solidly for the senate amendments, Mr. Rainey claimed, there is a slim possibility that enough Democrats can be mustered to defeat the veterans' additions.

"If I had the majority they have," averred Mr. Snell, however, "I certainly wouldn't have to put the responsibility for legislation on the minority party. Soldiers' legislation has never been a party proposition on the Republican side and every individual member of the minority will have the right to vote as he pleases. We will take no party stand on the issue."

Plan Action Tuesday.

Democratic leaders planned today to bring the independent offices bill to the floor of the house on Tuesday. At that time, the membership of the lower body will vote the senate amendments up or down and even the majority leaders believed today that it would be up.

Mr. Rainey and Floor Leader Joseph W. Byrns [Dem., Tenn.], however, are confident that the veterans' sentiment in the house is not strong enough to override a presidential veto of the independent offices bill. The threat of veto, they indicated, is being held over the heads of the revolting majority in the hope that it will deter insistence on the senate amendments, but the President, at the same time, they stated, has a firm intention of sending the measure back should the congress buck him on the economy issue.

Meanwhile, the soldiers' bonus bill, also loaded with dynamite, as far as the administration is concerned, is slated for a showdown vote in the house on Monday. Forced out of committee by the signature of 145 congressmen on a discharge petition, the measure presents the Democratic leadership with another problem of controling their top heavy majority. Indications are that the measure will pass the house by a scant margin, but the senate is virtually certain to kill it.

Bar Condemns Higher Cost of City Court Litigation

By resolution yesterday the Bar association committee on Municipal courts condemned the action of two-thirds of the Municipal court judges and members of the city council in increasing the costs of litigation in the courts—the so-called "poor man's tribunal."

This action was preceded by a verbal exchange between Chief Justice John Sonsteby, Democrat, on one side, and Judges Edward E. Casey and Edgar A. Jonas, Republicans, on the other, who have engaged in a series of controversies.

Feud Comes Into Open.

While the main subject of business at the meeting, which was held in the Bar association's dining room, was the recent increase in court costs, the flare-up between the judges came on the question of the work done by the judges. Together with the matter of court costs, there has been a feud for some time between the chief justice and his two associates over Judge Sonsteby's "pay roll," his rules and assignments.

Several lawyers criticized the new fees sponsored by Judge Sonsteby and approved by a majority of the Municipal judges. The resolution "condemning" the action of the judges was then offered. Judge Sonsteby charged the bar association with having failed to act during the year the proposed increases were under consideration. He denied that the increases were "sneaked over."

Explains Deficit Situation.

He said the municipal court has a deficit each year and the question arose whether litigants should pay the court's expenses or the taxpayers be called upon to bear a share of the burden. Litigants from outside the state naturally want the taxpayers to pay, he said. He denied a statement that the Chicago Real Estate board, the Illinois Manufacturers' association, and similar organizations favored the increase. His closing words were:

"If the judges would work all day, we wouldn't need the increase of fees. There is no reason why a judge should not work afternoons."

Judge Casey was on his feet instantly.

"If Judge Sonsteby did not have a $10,000 a year assistant in violation of the law the higher fees would not be needed," he said. "Why does he have this man on his secret pay roll?"

The resolution of condemnation was adopted. Then came another resolution calling upon the judges and the aldermen to repeal the ordinance through which the court costs were increased.

AVIATION NOTES

Waxing of the wings and fuselage on one of their Boeing low wing transport planes has increased the speed of the ship about three miles an hour, it was announced yesterday by officials of the United Air Lines. This process is one which in the past had been used only on racing planes. The plane is waxed by covering the metal skin of the plane with ordinary floor wax and then rubbing it to a high polish.

United Air Lines officials reported yesterday that their planes are flying 37,806 miles every 24 hours or the equivalent of 1,128,000 miles each month. The same high speed service which was operated prior to the mail contract cancelations is being maintained, the officials said, with the continued operation of passenger-express plane schedules from Chicago to 40 cities in 18 states.

MAIL TRAIN WILL CARRY VETERANS OF FIRST RUN

When the fast mail train of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad leaves for Omaha at 9 o'clock tonight, there will be on board three men who just 50 years ago rode on the road's first solid mail train during the week of its inauguration. The first solid mail train made its run on March 10, 1884. The old timers are James A. Warren, 75 years old, Paw Paw, Ill., retired mail clerk; Charles E. Marsh, 73 years old, retired engineer, and T. L. Senseman, 74 years old, Monmouth, retired mail clerk. They will be accompanied by Albert Cotsworth Jr., passenger traffic manager.

In the morning J. J. Doheney, representing Postmaster General Farley, will meet officials of the Burlington road and hear the veterans tell the story of the first run.

U. S. TO REMOVE QUOTAS ON ALL FOREIGN LIQUOR

President Acts to Force Down Prices.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 9.—[Special.]—In a last determined effort to force down the prevailing high prices of booze in the United States President Roosevelt today decided to open wide the gates to admit foreign liquors from any part of the world.

Mr. Roosevelt announced at this afternoon's press conference that for a 30 or 60 day experimental period all quotas will be dropped and liquors, wines, and beers will be received without limit. At the present time quotas have been set for each exporting country limiting the volume of shipments.

May Even Lower Tariff.

The import taxes on the liquors imported will be unchanged for the present, but the President's attitude on this point indicated that he may even propose a lower tariff unless prices respond favorably.

Mr. Roosevelt also announced that a large number of small distilleries which had neglected to file applications for permits in time to be qualified for production of American rye and bourbon whiskies would now receive permits without delay.

These distilleries, some of which the President said were owned by old families which since days of yore had manufactured whiskies in the United States, were prevented from operating under the rule which limited permits only to those distilleries for which applications for permits had been filed at a certain date.

Hope to Speed Production.

The President said Joseph Choate, federal liquor administrator, had recommended both the temporary abandonment of import quotas and the licensing of all applicant distillers. When all applications have been acted upon, Mr. Roosevelt declared, the potential production of whisky in this country, based upon a 24 hour activity in all plants, will be 44 million gallons a year.

In some quarters the administration's efforts to bring down the retail prices of liquors have been criticized as tending to encourage widespread drinking and resultant drunkenness.

But Mr. Roosevelt made it plain today he is anxious only that the liquor which is sold and consumed in this country shall be honestly made and tax paid. His chief concern, it was said, was to defeat the bootleggers who are still operating on a wide scale in some parts of the country, selling synthetic and cut liquors. The bootleggers, it was pointed out, are able to attract customers because of their relatively much lower prices than legitimate dealers.

Short Delay Possible.

The whole question was gone over at today's meeting of the President with his cabinet, and while it was generally agreed that the action should be taken as soon as possible, in the case of the relaxation of import quotas it was indicated some delay might result in making the order effective.

Quotas have been fixed for the current period, and in view of the fact that contracts have been negotiated between shippers and importers based on existing quotas, it may be found necessary to await the end of the present quotas in April. However, the President has authority to end the quota system immediately if he chooses.

Called Reflection on U. S. Rule.

The failure of the administration's effort thus far to exert a satisfactory control over the liquor traffic was looked upon in some quarters as reflecting upon the feasibility of any sort of federal control upon industry. In the case of the liquor industry the administration had a start from scratch, imposed codes upon all except the retailing branches of the industry even before the prohibition repealer became effective. In this inability to exert a proper control over what might be called a new industry, the New Dealers are held to have demonstrated their inability to impose similar control over long established industries.

RULES ON DRY AREAS

Attorney General Otto Kerner ruled yesterday that Illinois will have no dry territory after next May 10 except where voters declare for prohibition before that date.

The opinion, prepared at the request of State's Attorney Jesse R. Willis of McLean county, held that the state liquor control law adopted on Jan. 31 replaces all previous legislation on the subject. The McLean county prosecutor had asked if the new act affected the status of the town of Normal, adjacent to Bloomington, which was made dry forever by a special statute enacted by the legislature in 1867.

The case of Normal, home of the Illinois Normal college, is similar to that of Evanston, where the Northwestern university charter prohibits the sale of liquor within a four mile radius of the school.

Follows Sexton Opinion.

Attorney General Kerner's reasoning follows that given in an opinion on Feb. 15 by Corporation Counsel William H. Sexton of Chicago. The latter held that there are no dry territories in Chicago. Mr. Sexton also touched on the Northwestern charter, since the four mile prohibition extends to the Rogers Park district within Chicago.

Lawyers point out the importance of the attorney general's ruling to Chicago areas because of areas which were formerly dry because of university charter provisions, city annexation agreements, laws of county boards, city ordinances, and local option votes are nullified, along with previous state legislation, by the new control act.

Hyde Park, guaranteed its dryness when annexed, is an example of one type of previously dry territory which becomes wet automatically.

Previous Acts Repealed.

Attorney General Kerner held that the act impliedly repealed all prohibition ordinances of cities, villages, and incorporated towns and the resolutions of county boards.

Like Mr. Sexton, the attorney general held that the 18th amendment and the Illinois prohibition and search and seizure legislation already had superseded all other dry acts. Repeal, it was reasoned, did not restore these acts, but left them void.

"The last act of the general assembly relating to alcoholic liquors, approved Jan. 31, 1934, covers the entire subject of licensing the sale of such liquors," said Mr. Kerner, "and substitutes new and limited powers in the corporate authorities of cities and villages."

Prohibition may be ordained until May 10 in any town by the proper authorities, Mr. Kerner said. After that time such territory will become officially wet unless local option is voted in the meantime. Territory voted dry on that date will remain dry for at least four years when a new referendum may be called.

Even if officially wet, however, cities may remain effectively dry, attorneys point out, through refusal of their authorities to issue licenses for liquor sales.

Find Disguises

Seven men and two women, alleged members of a robber gang which has been operating on the south side, were arrested yesterday in a series of raids led by Police Lieutenant Walter Storms. Shotguns, pistols, two stolen automobiles and grease paint and overalls—used by the crew in disguising themselves—were seized.

The women are Mrs. Theresa Casper, 22 years old, wife of a convict in the Joliet penitentiary, and her sister, Pearl Grimenga, 24 years old, 6837 South Wabash avenue. Mrs. Casper was arrested with Fred Biegiebeck, 27 years old, in a hotel at 6235 Ingleside avenue.

The other men belonging to the gang are: John M. Sullivan, 29 years old, 1535 East 60th street; Clayton Curtis, 33 years old, 1650 North Mango avenue; Harry Karefft, 30 years old, 3608 West 66th street; Walter Lane, 26 years old, 3619 West 66th place; Kenith Goddard, 28 years old, 6810 South Oakley avenue, and Leslie Kidd, 25 years old, 9846 Wallace street.

Members of the gang were identified as robbers who held up the Cousins jewelry store at 11147 South Michigan avenue and a CHICAGO TRIBUNE substation in South Chicago. In the Cousins holdup the bandits overawed store employés by tossing tear bombs at them.

DR. ALICE WRITES NOTE BRANDING VERDICT UNJUST

A two page note scrawled in pencil by Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop in her cell in the county jail yesterday told of the physician's reaction to the jury's verdict finding her guilty of the operating table murder of her daughter-in-law, Rheta. The jury in Judge Harry B. Miller's court last Tuesday fixed the defendant's punishment at 25 years in prison.

"May God forgive them," wrote Dr. Wynekoop, referring to the jurors. "They never could have fallen into greater error. What price a lifetime of uprighteousness and integrity when a chain of sinister circumstances may, overnight, brand one as a criminal.

"It was a great victory for the state's attorney and the police, but a victory which is essentially a defeat. This case, as do all others, demand justice and justice has not been rendered. The verdict is an unfathomable finding and a notable miscarriage of justice."

Previous to her note yesterday the physician had greeted with silence all effort to learn her opinion of the verdict.

ROBBED OF AUTOMOBILE.

Samuel Sussland, 17 Gillick street, Park Ridge, was robbed of his automobile last night by two men at West End and North avenues.

LASSO PERSUADES CITY BUFFALO TO TAKE UP FARMING

Edward Reilly, a farmer from the Wisconsin land o' lakes region, yesterday lassoed a buffalo from Cook county's herd of four in the Palos Park forest preserve district. With the assistance of two cow hands from the stockyards, Reilly loaded the buffalo into a truck and started home last night. The capture of the buffalo came after an all day struggle by three men to separate it from the other three in the herd. Supt. Charles G. Sauers of the forest preserve said that the other buffaloes probably will be taken away next week, as there have been several requests for them. The county board has ordered the forest preserve officials to get rid of the beasts as an economy measure.

PORK DONATED BY U. S. IS USED TO GREET FIRST LADY

Porto Rican Women Wave Hunks of Meat.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, March 9.—(AP)—Porto Rican housewives, waving aloft hunks of pork, greeted the first lady of the United States today in her tour of this West Indian island.

The pork was furnished by the federal government and Porto Rican women wished to show their appreciation. Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt waved back from her automobile and smiled at them.

Mrs. Roosevelt and her party visited relief headquarters, homes, experimental stations and towns in the easternmost end of the island on an all-day tour.

Sees Best and the Worst.

"I have seen the best and the worst," she said on her return tonight to San Juan, the capital, "and a certain type of New York tenement is as bad as the worst urban homes I saw here.

"I found children as a whole less undernourished than I had expected."

Praising the high type of social work done in the island, she said the best she had seen was a model house built by an agricultural school using castoff oil tins, barrels, sugar cane, cocoanut shells, gourds, and mango palms.

She insisted on making the tour as informal as possible. At Fajardo, where a huge crowd had assembled, she sent back police escorts to tell officials to take away a military show. A company of soldiers stood at attention across the roadway as Mrs. Roosevelt's car approached.

Wants Soldiers Removed.

"Tell some one to get those soldiers out of the way so we can pass," she requested. "This is taking too much time."

When told that an "Anna Eleanor Roosevelt club" was waiting to welcome her at a Fajardo high school, she made clear that she was bent on welfare work and wished no formal welcomes.

At another point a begging beachcomber tried to tell her his life story, but she refused to listen, saying later that if she started giving money to wayside beggars the thing would never end.

At Caguas Mrs. Roosevelt had lunch with 15 girls in a tobacco factory. She tried out a special diet prepared by the girls themselves as part of a nutrition test, the employés endeavoring to find out whether the special food would help them do better work.

Then, accompanied by Miss Helen V. Tooker, head of a civil works and economic survey here, Mrs. Roosevelt visited the homes of tobacco workers.

Mrs. Roosevelt finished the day's tour with a swim on the beach. She planned to spend tomorrow in the slums of San Juan, investigating infant feeding. A round table conference of all island welfare workers is scheduled for the afternoon.

LINER TARRIES WHILE INA CLAIRE AND PRINCE FRIEND GRAB TICKETS

New York, March 9.—(AP)—The Italian liner Vulcania delayed sailing for ten minutes today while Ina Claire, actress, and Prince Ferdinand of Liechtenstein bought tickets.

Miss Claire, former wife of John Gilbert, the movie actor, and Prince Ferdinand, Austrian Olympic team member in 1932, engaged separate passages for Cannes, France.

The ship stops at Boston tomorrow, then proceeds to Cannes by way of the Azores and Gibraltar.

Prince Ferdinand met Miss Claire in Los Angeles in 1933, while there with the Olympic team. The principality of Liechtenstein lies in the foothills between Switzerland and Austria and has a population of 10,000.

INDICT CAPONE'S COLLECTOR FOR U. S. TAX FRAUD

Hymie [Loud Mouth] Levin, loop collector for gambling, liquor and vice for the Capone syndicate, was indicted yesterday by the federal grand jury for evading taxes on an income of $176,338 for 1929 and 1930. The indictment, which was returned before Federal Judge John P. Barnes, charges that Levin owes $28,274 in taxes for the two years.

On the motion of United States Attorney Dwight H. Green and E. Reilly Campbell, a solicitor for the bureau of internal revenue, Judge Barnes raised Levin's bond from $10,000 to $15,000. Representatives of the law firm of Michael Igoe, south side politician, agreed to surrender Levin Monday.

Levin is said to be keeping together the remnants of the Capone syndicate while Al, its leader, serves a ten year sentence at Atlanta penitentiary for income tax evasion. Meanwhile it was reported that the government's investigation of the incomes of William [Billy] Johnson, gambler, and Harry Guzik, vice monger, are nearing conclusion.

DEMANDS LIPTON ESTATE PAY HIM $50,000 ON I. O. U.

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, March 9.—[Special.]—According to the Daily Express the estate of Sir Thomas Lipton is being sued for damages arising out of an alleged I. O. U. for $50,000 which the Irish engineer, Hugh Godfrey Nicholson, declares Sir Thomas gave him Sept. 17, 1927. Nicholson's story, according to the Express, is that Sir Thomas promised to settle the I. O. U. by leaving Nicholson a legacy. When Lipton died Oct. 2, 1931, however, Nicholson found that he had been left nothing. Defense of the Lipton estate is complete denial of any liability by the executors and trustees, including Lord Inverforth, H. A. Snelling, Col. D. F. D. Neill, and James Brooks.

TOWN FIXES LIQUOR FEES.

Anna, Ill., March 9.—[Special.]—A license fee of $500 annually covering retail liquor dealers, $100 for beer retailers, $200 for druggists and others selling in packages, and $100 for wholesalers has been fixed by the city authority here.

Expects Congress to Have Its Decks Nearly Clear.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 9.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt revealed today that he hopes to slip away from his desk for the first time since congress convened to spend the last week of the month fishing in Florida waters.

As a guest of Vincent Astor, New York publisher, aboard the Astor yacht, the Nourmahal, the President plans five days of deep sea fishing if the congressional situation will permit his absence from the capital.

The President intends to leave the White House toward the end of the month and board the Nourmahal at a Florida port, probably Jacksonville.

For Benefit of Press.

From the time he steps aboard the yacht until she berths again at the end of the brief vacation the President is expected to be out of the reach of visitors and problems. He expects to send two daily radio reports of his trip to a secretary and newspaper men on shore.

Joking with newsmen at his press conference today, the President said that he was making the trip solely because he had noticed that members of the White House correspondents' group looked pale and in need of southern sunshine.

Behind his decision to snatch a short fishing respite, it is understood, is a desire to escape from the humdrum of office and to break up the steady routine with a few days of sunshine and flashing waters.

Plans Still Contingent.

The President previously announced that he would stay in the capital until congress adjourned.

The trip, however, will be called off if any development in congress should become acute, the President indicated. Both the bonus and St. Lawrence waterway problems are now pending, but these matters, vitally interesting to the President, are expected to be out of the way before April 1.

Once before since being elected President Mr. Roosevelt has drifted down the Florida coast in the Nourmahal. Last February his cruise in the yacht was punctuated with the attempt on his life and the fatal shooting of Mayor Anton Cermak at Miami.

Ship Sails with 28 Lebanon Trees for White House Lawn

GENOA, Italy, March 9.—(AP)—With a ten foot cedar of lebanon riding proudly on the upper deck, the S. S. Exochorda today sailed carrying 27 other smaller lebanon trees to President Roosevelt to be planted on the White House lawn at Easter. The trees are a gift of the American university at Beirut, Syria.

BANGHART'S ALIBI HIT BY COSTNER'S KIDNAPING STORY

His Dapper Pal Tells All in Factor Trial.

BY WALTER FITZMAURICE.

Isaac Costner, boy marksman from the Tennessee mountains, whom the Touhy gang brought north last summer to help them kidnap the wealthy speculator, John Factor, told all on himself and his buddy, Basil Banghart, yesterday at the second day of Banghart's trial in Criminal court.

A trim, well barbered young fellow, in tailored clothes, with a freshly starched collar and polished shoes, Costner looked more like a bank clerk than a first rate desperado as he was sworn before Judge Walter P. Steffen. He had come to the stand admittedly to earn "consideration" against the day when he must plead guilty or not guilty in the Factor affair, or the train robbery, on either of which the authorities may elect to try him.

Cripples Banghart's Defense.

Apparently he did a pretty thorough job. For before he finished telling the story of the Factor abduction in his soft drawl he apparently had knocked the props from under Banghart's anticipated defense, an alibi that he was nowhere near Chicago during the twelve days last July when Factor was held.

It was Banghart, he averred, who first introduced him to Roger Touhy and his lads back in his mountain home. It was Banghart who brought him to Chicago, lodged him until all plans were set, and gave him a shotgun to wield at the Dells roadhouse the night Factor was grabbed.

Finally, he affirmed, it was Banghart who gave him $2,400 of the $70,000 Factor ransom and Banghart who directed him to get in touch with the liberated speculator to collect a $50,000 post-kidnaping payment. In trying to collect this $50,000 Banghart wriggled through a trap set by 500 police.

Firm Witness on Stand.

Neither Banghart nor his attorney, William Scott Stewart, appeared to be unduly disturbed when Costner was called by First Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert F. Crowley. They knew what was coming. On the stand Costner was entirely a different kind of witness than the two other Touhyites, James Wagner, and Walter [Buck] Henrichsen, who had testified on Thursday. Costner's voice was firm as he testified.

He sketched briefly his background. He was born in Tennessee, and lived near Knoxville. Then, swiftly, he got down to the business of telling on the Touhy gang, and more particularly, Banghart. He has known "The Owl" for six years, he said. It was last year that Banghart introduced him to the Touhys, he added. At that time Banghart and Tommy Touhy, a brother of Roger, visited Tennessee. The result was that Costner accompanied the hoodlums to Chicago and stayed at Banghart's home.

Told to "Get Ready."

On the night of June 30, 1933, Costner said, Banghart told him to "get ready," that they were "going to kidnap Factor." Present at the time, the witness declared, were Roger Touhy, Gus Schaefer, and Al Kator [these three now serving 99 years each at Joliet for the Factor abduction]; Jimmy Tribbles, killed in a union brawl; Charles [Ice Wagon] Connors, and Frank [Porky] Dillon, the latter two fugitives.

Costner then related that the group, including Willie Sharkey, who later committed suicide, drove out to a spot near the Dells roadhouse in three cars. They waited, he said, and soon a man appeared and told Touhy that "Factor was at the Dells." This man, Costner added, described how Factor was dressed and what kind of an auto Factor was driving.

"We waited an hour," Costner testified, "and then this man appeared again and said Factor would be leaving soon. We got ready. All of us had pistols, and some had shotguns. Soon Factor pulled out of the Dells, and then Roger Touhy's car pulled alongside and told Factor to pull over.

Kidnaping Story Retold.

"I got out of my car and ran around in back of his. I saw a man I later learned was Factor's friend, Al Epstein, and put him in my car. Banghart had Factor. After we put Epstein out of my car, Factor came in with me, and Roger Touhy told me where to drive. We drove 50 or 60 miles, then took Factor to a house."

Asked how long Factor was kept a prisoner, Costner replied it seemed like two weeks, but was really twelve days. Costner said Banghart showed up at the house three or four times, and talked to Factor about the ransom. Then one night, the witness related, Banghart told him they were to take Factor away, and this they did, letting him out of their car in La Grange.

Tells of $2,400 Split.

The next day, Costner said, Banghart gave him $2,400, explaining it was part of the Factor ransom money.

Referring to the post-kidnaping attempt to collect $50,000 more from Factor, Costner charged that Banghart had him telephone Factor, which he did, asking Factor about "that $50,000" additional he had promised to pay.

Factor told him, Costner said, that he could raise only $17,000, and it was arranged to collect the money near the York Golf club. He then related the manhunt incident in which Banghart escaped an elaborate police trap.

Defense Attorney Stewart was examining Costner when court adjourned. He brought out the fact that Crowley had promised Costner "some consideration" for his testimony.

Factor is expected to testify today.

Sanitary District Pays Help for Last of February

Employés of the Chicago sanitary district were paid yesterday for the last half of February. The pay roll money, amounting to $124,000, was procured through the collection of delinquent taxes and a sale of tax anticipation warants. Employés engaged in clerical and engineering work on the district's Public Works administration projects received an additional $21,000.

some older heads who are looking into more substantial possibilities.

Down in Crown Point, where the political repercussions of the escape have overshadowed the comparatively minor matter of capturing the fugitive, the many independent investigators on the scene prowled about the town, scowling at one another.

A new grand jury has been summoned by Criminal Court Judge William F. Murray for Monday. Former Circuit Judge Martin J. Smith was appointed to act as special assistant prosecutor in charge of the grand jury's investigation into the escape, which is expected to result in a number of indictments.

Scoff at Bribe Report.

Ernest Blunk, finger print expert at the jail, and Sam Cahoon, a turnkey, who is 64 years old, have been charged with assisting Dillinger to escape. Other prison attachés were also implicated, according to reports. The report that Dillinger paid $50,000 for his escape was ridiculed, however.

The appointment of former Judge Smith was agreed upon by Judge Murray, State's Attorney Robert G. Estill, and Assistant Attorney General Edward Barce. Smith is a Republican with no political ambitions, it was said, and the three officials agreed that he could conduct an impartial inquiry.

One of the witnesses to appear before the new grand jury will be Matt Brown, 84 years old, a guard, who has asserted that Blunk locked him in a cell just before Dillinger went away.

Blunk Suspended by Judge.

Although asserting his belief in Blunk's innocence, Judge Murray, who appointed Blunk to his position as finger print expert, yesterday suspended his appointee pending the outcome of the investigation. Both Blunk and Cahoon are out on bond, the latter being released yesterday when a number of business men coöperated in furnishing his $2,000 bond.

A report that Dillinger left Chicago Saturday night and is now far away came from an "inside informant." This report was that Dillinger made contact with friends on the north side late Saturday night, changed his clothes, obtained $1,500, and left town in a small automobile with two companions, one a woman.

Attorney Louis Piquett, who was to have represented Dillinger at his trial for the murder of an East Chicago policeman during a bank robbery, refused to confirm this report. He told, however, how Dillinger had boasted to him, before his escape, that he could win his way free with a toy pistol. The desperado wielded a wooden pistol, which he had carved with a razor blade, in making his escape.

Errors in the executive order drawn by Gov. Paul V. McNutt of Indiana when Dillinger was paroled from the Indiana State prison in May, 1933, were revealed at Indianapolis yesterday. The parole order apparently did not recognize the fact that Dillinger had been cited for bad behavior and two attempts to escape. He had been sentenced in 1924 to serve 10 to 21 years for assault and battery with intent to rob.

PIERPONT'S FORMER PAL NAMES HIM AS SLAYER OF SHERIF

Lima, O., March 9.—(AP)—With a grin and a nod of his shaven head, Edward Shouse named Harry Pierpont today as the man who shot down former Sherif Jess Sarber last Oct. 12, when John Dillinger was freed from the Allen county jail.

A criminal with a long record in his own right, the former pal of the sleek Pierpont summed up his identification in Pierpont's trial on the charge of first degree murder with the laconic: "Pierpont was the guy."

Shouse was brought here from the Indiana state prison in a bullet proof automobile. After completing his testimony he was returned to the Indiana prison under heavy guard.

Mrs. Lucy Sarber, widow of the sherif, who was locked in a cell by the escaping desperadoes, was the last witness for the state, which rested its case after her testimony.

FORMER BRITISH OFFICIAL SCOUTS DANGER OF WAR

There is no immediate danger of war in Europe, Wedgwood Benn, former British secretary of state for India, declared yesterday in a talk before the Executives' club at the Hotel Sherman.

He cited three reasons for his opinion: First, Europe is bankrupt; second, Europe is tired, and third, the people in Europe still have too fresh a realization of what war means.

After describing the present European situation and its varied political and economic complications, Mr. Benn briefly discussed Hitler and his influence. The German chancellor's doctrines, he pointed out, are based upon a policy borrowed from the middle ages—that of anti-Semitism.

South Bend, Ind., March 9.—[Special.]—Robert Peterson, 33 years old, of this city, who confessed luring Dr. Ray P. Thomas to his home and extorting $2,000 from him, was sentenced to 20 years in the state prison today by Superior Judge J. Elmer Peak.

ROBBERS HOLD UP 50 IN RICKETT'S CAFE; GET $345

Four robbers invaded Rickett's restaurant at 103 East Chicago avenue early today, terrified fifty men and women patrons and employés, and escaped with $345. The leader carried a shotgun. He leveled it at the startled diners. "Everybody get down on the floor," he ordered. "If you get tough we'll let you have it." He tapped the shotgun significantly.

The men and women scrambled to the floor, faces down. Then the bandits grabbed Ernest Rickett, manager, and searched his pockets. They took his wallet, containing $40. Next they compelled Peter Marsh, 2121 Dayton street, cashier, to stand to one side, after which they rifled the cash drawer and got $305.

POSE AS POLICE, ROB FLAT OF $450 RENT COLLECTION

Two armed men, posing as policemen, entered the flat of Joseph Just Sr. at 747 Belden avenue last night, and, after ransacking the entire house, fled with $450 which Just, as manager of the building, had collected from other tenants.

Just and his wife were absent at the time. Their sons, Joseph, 17 years old, and Robert, 15 years old, were held prisoners by the bandits while they searched for the rent money, which they found in a dresser drawer. Just said that he intended to deposit the funds in bank this morning.

The youths said the pair seemed to know the money was in the flat and refused to believe their protestations that it had been taken away.

$10,000 Jewelry Is Stolen from Designer's Studio

Jewelry valued at $10,000 was stolen from the jewelry designing studio of Miss Jeanette Pratt, 410 South Michigan avenue, on March 2, police revealed yesterday. The crime was not made public pending efforts to trace the jewelry.

Included in the loot was an expensive bracelet mounted with diamonds and sapphires, a platinum ring, collections of rubies, sapphires, and jade, and a number of diamonds.

STEAL 300 POUND SAFE FROM HOME.

BEVERAGE TRADE TROUBLES TOLD IN RACKET TRIAL

State Moves to Show Link with Capone.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

The first testimony regarding the carbonated beverage industry was given yesterday in the racket conspiracy trial before Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan of the Criminal court. Walter Gradle, president of the Silverbrook Beverage company, gave this testimony.

Only three of the 18 defendants on trial were connected with this business. They are A. J. Canfield, beverage manufacturer, who was president of the Carbonated Beverage Institute of Chicago; Jerry Donovan, secretary-treasurer of local 723 of the Soda Water Dryers' union, and Morris I. Kaplan, who was attorney for the beverage institute.

Ahead of Other Witnesses.

Gradle was summoned in advance of other witnesses in his industry, Assistant Prosecutor Thomas Dodd Healy explained to Judge Finnegan, because he is leaving tomorrow on a European trip. His testimony laid the foundation for later testimony which, Prosecutor Healy told the court, will show that a fine levied on Gradle by the Carbonated Beverage Institute was remitted after Dan Serritella, politician and associate of Al Capone, interceded for him with Murray Humphries, Capone's representative in Chicago trade rackets.

Gradle is president of the Swedish Produce company, 155 North Union street, of which the Silverbrook Beverage company is a subsidiary. Canfield solicited him to join the Carbonated Beverage institute when it was formed in June, 1932, and he refused, he testified.

Joins After a Strike.

Gradle sold his beverages through jobbers, who bought from him at wholesale and sold on their own routes at retail, he said. These jobbers were members of local 723, of which Donovan was secretary. Gradle finally joined the institute on July 26, 1932, after his jobbers had been called on strike, he said.

In Sept. 19, 1932, the witness continued, he hired three additional jobbers, who formerly had bought their beverages from the Orange Crush company. Before he did this, he said, he went to Donovan and was assured that it was proper for him to enter relations with the men, since the other company had not been giving them the scale of prices demanded by the union, and that they were therefore free agents.

Later, however, the Orange Crush company complained to the institute against his taking on the three jobbers, Gradle said, and the grievance committee of the institute fined him $200. Donovan, he said on cross-examination by Attorney William R. Fetzer, appeared at the hearing and defended him.

Tells of Visit to Kaplan.

Early in October, Gradle said, he went to see Attorney Kaplan about a rehearing of the case and asked him: "Did you hear from Charley?"

"Who's Charley?" he quoted Kaplan as replying.

"You know who Charley is," Gradle said he replied.

Gradle said that he got the name "Charley" from Attorney Harold Marks who, according to the prosecutors, is a friend of Serritella. He had employed Marks to get him a rehearing on the fine, Gradle testified later.

Quiz Cleaning Plant Owner.

The remainder of yesterday's session was spent on the cross-examination of Louis Hollman, owner of the Michigan Cleaners and Dyers. Hollman testified on Thursday concerning a long series of bombings, strikes, and acid throwings at his plant which, he charged, were due to his refusal to join the Cleaners and Dyers' institute, in which Dr. Benjamin M. Squires, a defendant, was dictator of price schedules and trade practices. Hollman himself was indicted in 1932 on the charge of bombing a rival cleaning and dyeing plant, but was dismissed later.

Attorney James E. McShane, representing Dr. Squires, finally drew from him the admission that, while he did not join the Cleaners and Dyers' institute, he had previously been a member of the Master Cleaners and Dyers' association and that the strikes at his plant followed his refusal to abide by an arbitration award which Dr. Squires made in 1931 in a labor dispute at his plant.

CLEANERS FILE PLEA TO FORCE RIVALS TO ABIDE BY NRA CODE

Fifty-six cleaning and dyeing concerns yesterday joined in filing a petition for an injunction to restrain 10 other cleaning and dyeing establishments from violating the provisions of the National Recovery administration code governing the industry. The petition was filed in the Circuit court and has been assigned to Judge Joseph Burke. The petition charged that the defendants, although they signed the NRA code on Nov. 20, have cut prices from the 75 cent base agreed upon, to 49 cents. It also asserted that the defendants were forcing employés to work overtime and producing "sweatshop conditions." The plaintiffs assert that they are unable to operate at the cut prices.

TONG DENIES CHARGE

The Hip Sing tong yesterday issued a denial of the statement made in an exchange of letters between Attorney Aaron Sapiro and his brother, Milton D. Sapiro of San Francisco, to the effect that members of that tong are "Chinese gangsters." The letter in question was introduced in evidence on March 1 in the racket conspiracy trial, in which Attorney Aaron Sapiro is a defendant.

George Eng, president of the tong, and Lee Loy, secretary, in a statement prepared by former Gov. Edward F. Dunne, counsel for the organization, stated:

"There are two Chinese clubs or associations in Chicago, both in lawful existence in this city for more than 40 years. They are known as the Hip Sing tong and the On Leong tong, or as translated, the "Workingman's club" and the "Merchants' club." Tong in Chinese simply means club or association.

"Neither one of these clubs has ever controled the laundry association. Neither has ever joined in laundry rackets. In both organizations there are many Chinese laundrymen, restaurant men, and grocerymen. Neither has engaged in racketeering or unlawful methods of doing laundry work.

"The Hip Sing tong has had for over 40 years the same reputable counsel and has at all times followed the advice of its counsel. We have never engaged in so-called racketeering in the laundry business or any other business."

GENERAL STRIKE CALLED IN CUBA; 15 DIE IN FIGHTS

500,000 Workers Affected by Walkout Order.

BY GUSTAVO RENO.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, March 9.—A most crucial period developed for President Carlos Mendieta's government today when a united front of Cuban labor organizations declared a general strike effective at midnight. A series of strikes have infested Cuba with the exception of Havana province since Monday.

It is estimated the general strike will affect 500,000 workers. The president and his cabinet have made frantic attempts to prevent the general strike. The government in a statement blamed communist agitators for the labor troubles.

Soviet Agents Blamed.

"Well paid agents are trying to establish a soviet in Cuba," President Mendieta said. "Their efforts are doomed to failure. The only way a soviet law could be established in Cuba is to bring it over on a ferryboat from the United States."

At the same time he issued a decree dissolving all labor unions and syndicates which have persisted in defying his anti-strike decree.

The labor organizations retaliated by issuing a proclamation tonight in which they assailed "Wall street influence" and "Yankee imperialism."

Nine strikers and six soldiers were killed and an undetermined number wounded in street clashes in various towns today. Three strikers were killed at Bayamo, Oriente province; two at Rodas, Santa Clara; three at Cienfuegos; one striker and two soldiers near Cacocum, Oriente, and four soldiers at Holguin, Oriente.

Threatened with Death.

Executives of the Havana stock exchange tonight urgently demanded that President Mendieta and Chief of Staf Col. Fulgencio Batista furnish protection for its employés. They are willing to work, but are threatened with death unless they join the general strike.

Col. Batista admitted that conditions in the interior are "imminently dangerous," he said it was impossible to predict what might happen in the next 24 hours.

President Mendieta tonight was closeted with his cabinet as the government awaited developments. He announced the government is supported by the majority of the soldiers and is ready to cope with any communist outbreak in Havana. He said he would send out soldiers to break the strike if necessary.

FATHER'S NURSE SUES FAY, MISS STANWYCK FOR $3,500 BACK PAY

Hollywood, Cal., March 9.—[Special.]—Elizabeth M. Curtis, middle aged New Jersey nurse, filed suit today for $3,500 against Barbara Stanwyck, movie star; her husband, Frank Fay, and the latter's father, William Fay. She alleged Miss Stanwyck and Fay induced her to come from New Jersey to Hollywood and live for two years as the senior Fay's constant companion, then failed to reimburse her.

The suit charges that Miss Stanwyck provided her with $200 in East Orange, and expense money for Hollywood and provided a home and furnishings here, "supplying lights, gas and telephone, but giving the plaintiff and defendant, William Fay, only a small amount of money for groceries, promising more money at a later date but failing to fulfill said promise."

The suit also charges that when William Fay fell ill and was removed to a sanitarium Miss Curtis was bundled aboard a train for the east by two detectives. Fay, informed of the suit, said neither he, his wife, nor his father knew Miss Curtis, and denied she had ever worked for them.

LITERARY TOUCH GIVEN TO INSULL UTILITY INQUIRY

Lawyers File Their Briefs with Judge Lindley.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

Briefs were filed yesterday by opposing counsel in the investigation instituted by Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley to determine whether fraud was practiced on his court in the receivership of the Middle West Utilities company. Filing of the briefs was ordered on Feb. 22 at the conclusion of a series of stormy hearings covering virtually every phase of the Insull utility debacle.

Former Corporation Counsel Samuel A. Ettelson, who brought the charge of collusion, filed a 93 page brief, embellished with literary allusions from Greek mythology, in which he charged that the "South Sea Bubble was a Sunday school prank" compared to the collapse of the Insull utility empire.

Quotes Aesop Fable.

Attorney Robert N. Golding, representing holders of some $30,000,000 of Middle West Utilities gold notes, in his brief, quoted an Aesop fable to create the inference that Mr. Ettelson is an ass in the skin of a lion whose bray betrays him. Mr. Golding is one of the array of counsel representing noteholders, preferred stockholders, receivers and receivers' attorneys, petitioning creditors and their attorneys and the big loop banks, whom Mr. Ettelson accused of conspiring with Samuel Insull Sr. to perpetrate a fraud.

Mr. Ettelson likened the bankers and lawyers who, he charges, met in the Chicago club and in Samuel Insull's office to select a slate of receivers and counsel for the utility system to the robber barons of the feudal era, with Insull himself as their overlord. Mr. Ettelson cites the following slate agreed upon by the participants in these meetings:

For Middle West Utilities—Receivers, Samuel Insull, Edward N. Hurley, Charles A. McCulloch; attorneys, Schuyler, Dunbar & Weinfeld and Burry, Johnstone, Peters & Dixon; plaintiff, the Lincoln Printing company; attorneys, Essington & McKibbin.

Lists Others on Slate.

For Insull Utility Investments, Inc.—Receivers, George A. Cooke and Calvin Fentress; attorneys, Allen & Dalbey; plaintiff, Howard Cherry; attorneys, Miller, Gorham, Wales & Adams.

For Corporation Securities company—Receivers, Patrick J. Lucey and Raymond McNally; attorneys for receivers, Ashcraft & Ashcraft; attorneys for plaintiff, Scott, McLeish & Falk.

He charges that the purpose of "the colluders" was to enable Samuel Insull to conceal the crookedness he had committed, to enable Insull to perpetuate himself in control of the companies, to enable the receivers and their attorneys to draw great fees, and to enable the banks, as secured creditors, to forestall suits for the recovery of collateral which they held.

"The evidence clearly shows," says the brief, "that this cause involves a bill of complaint [against Middle West] filed by Thurlow G. Essington, an attorney, who never met his client, Washington Flexner, president of the Lincoln Printing company, until the morning of the filing of the bill of complaint, and that Flexner met Essington in the office of Waldo F. Tobey, one of Insull's most confidential advisers and one of his closest attorneys, as the evidence shows, and that Washington Flexner was permitted to swear to this bill of complaint at the request of Samuel Insull Sr. without ever having read it.

Needs No Comment.

"The situation of a defendant asking for the appointment of and nominating a receiver and counsel for receiver needs no comment. Legally, ethically, morally, such an act is too obviously self-condemning to require further condemnation."

With a preliminary statement that Judge Lindley, before whom the Insull receiverships were sought, knew nothing of the secret meetings at which the slate was drawn and therefore was imposed upon and betrayed, Attorney Ettelson continues:

"The evidence shows that the conspirators who participated at these secret meetings and who imposed upon your honor were interested in keeping hidden the astonishing and shameful facts which led to this unparalleled debacle. The South Sea Bubble was a Sunday school prank compared to this fiasco and tragedy."

He concluded with a prayer that every one connected with affairs of the estate as receiver and counsel be dismissed and that restitution be made of all fees paid out.

Attorney Golding, with ill disguised satire, goes into the question of Mr. Ettelson's motive in bringing the charge of collusion and calls him a lawyer without a client on the ground that Sidney Pollak, the intervenor, is a stockholder whose stock is utterly worthless.

"A heart-rending attempt was made to paint a picture of this attorney, 'fighting alone,' 'in his humble way,' 'with an inadequate office force,' against the largest law firms in Chicago," says Mr. Golding's brief, "all to get justice for the common stock holder, 'the forgotten man,' who owes the noteholders forty million dollars. Those who have in mind the career of distinguished public service of this equally distinguished ex-Insull lawyer, state senator, and corporation counsel may believe this version if they wish."

Gives Motives for Attack.

Mr. Golding postulated four possible motives for the Ettelson attack on the receivership—public service, which he dismissed; attorney for an undisclosed interest seeking to prevent a reorganization of Middle West in the hope of buying the properties; the hope of making a settlement to end the bothersome litigation with the stockholders; "to climax a career of—shall we say unusual?—public service" by emulating Earl Rogers, a criminal lawyer.

"On page 1,866 of the transcript," Mr. Golding continues, "said Ettelson mentioned 'Take the Witness,' a biography of Earl Rogers, criminal lawyer. Practically all of said Ettelson's actions in this case are taken verbatim from that book."

Dynamiters Kill Ten Thousand Crows in Rookery

An army of crows suffered heavy losses when they were attacked with dynamite near Ashland, Ill., during a campaign to rid the state of the unwelcome birds. Ten thousand crows were reported to have been killed when 46 bombs were exploded in their rookery during the night, but 100,000 others escaped. [Acme Photo.]

BULGARIA, RUMANIA TURN DOWN INSULL IN HUNT FOR HAVEN

[Copyright: 1934: By The Chicago Tribune.]

ATHENS, March 9.—Redoubled efforts to gain entry to some country to the north were made by Samuel Insull today as the Greek government studied a new medical report on whether the fugitive Chicago utilities promoter is able to travel.

Three applications by a mysterious woman for visas have been refused. Bulgaria and Rumania today joined Hungary, which yesterday declined to allow Insull to enter. Officials of the Bulgarian and Rumanian consular offices said they were unaware of the identity of the woman.

Physicians who made an examination of Insull submitted their report to the ministry of the interior. The document will not be made public until tomorrow. One afternoon paper, claiming to have reliable information, said the report was almost identical with the former verdict which declared Insull was able to travel under ordinary conditions.

STATE NRA BILL PASSED BY IOWA HOUSE, 82 TO 25

Provides Intrastate Code Enforcement.

Des Moines, Ia., March 9.—[Special.]—The Iowa state industrial recovery act, designed to provide intrastate enforcement of codes of fair competition, was passed today by the house, 82 to 25, the division coming almost strictly along party lines.

The measure is a substitute for one under consideration for several days in the house. The former provided only for enforcement of national code provisions within state limits, and met with great opposition on the grounds that persons could be punished by the state for violation of laws not in the Iowa code.

Under the new bill all codes become part of the state law when filed with the secretary of state. In addition, the governor is given power to approve codes and rules for intrastate competition. This is based on the New York state law, and the new bill is in fact modeled after that code.

Signal for Attack on NRA.

Substitution of the new bill came on an 88 to 17 vote after strenuous objections on the part of Republican representatives. The debate was used by minority legislators as an opportunity for attacking the NRA in general.

Representative A. H. Avery [Rep., Clay county] led the attack with the charge that economic laws cannot be enforced with policemen, and that the NRA was an experiment that had a noble motive but hadn't worked.

The night session of the house Thursday resulted in the passage of only one bill, that removing from the $3,000,000 relief fund appropriation bill the requirement limiting wages on relief jobs to a margin of from 25 to 35 cents an hour. The bill passed, 72 to 33.

Other Measures Passed.

Among the bills passed in the house's last rush toward final adjournment are:

A measure exempting farm and fruit growers' associations from the recently passed business franchise tax.

The senate bill increasing the prices of hunting and fishing licenses to a total of $2.50.

Two bills regulating the transfer of property belonging to insane persons or their spouses.

The bill eliminating from mortgage moratorium benefits all mortgages dated Jan. 1, 1934, or later.

Blasts Hope of Adjournment.

The senate virtually killed all hope of adjournment tomorrow by deferring until 10 tomorrow morning its vote on the house resolution calling for adjournment at noon. The earliest date of adjournment now hoped for is Tuesday of next week.

The night session of the house Thursday resulted in the passage of only one bill, that removing from the $3,000,000 relief fund appropriation bill the requirement limiting wages on relief jobs to a margin of from 25 to 35 cents an hour. The bill passed, 72 to 33.

The senate today passed, 37 to 7, an amended house bill giving veterinarians a lien on animals they have treated. It then went into executive session to approve several interim appointments made by Gov. Clyde L. Herring.

Two Bankers Get 1 to 10 Years for Embezzlement

Robinson, Ill., March 9.—(AP)—John H. and Grant Taylor, former president and cashier, respectively, of the Flat Rock State bank, today pleaded guilty to charges of embezzlement and were sentenced to terms of one to ten years each in prison.

"REGIMENTATION" OF NEW DEAL IS DECRIED BY ERICSSON LEAGUE

Rockford, Ill., March 9.—(AP)—The John Ericsson Republican League of Illinois, in resolutions adopted at its fortieth annual convention here today, decried "regimentation of the nation's lives, industry, and property," and defended Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's part in the recent air mail contracts controversy.

Five hundred Swedish-American Republicans attended the convention. They assailed the state administration for alleged delays in providing financial relief for impoverished schools and in formulation of liquor regulations and charged it with overburdening the people of the state with taxation.

Irving F. Pearson of Rockford, president of the local chapter and official convention orator, led the attack on critics of Col. Lindbergh. The resolutions were drafted by a committee headed by Oscar E. Carlstrom, former state's attorney general.

FILM COMPANIES TO FIGHT BAN ON MOB SCENES

Prepared for Court Test of Mayor's Order.

News reel representatives announced yesterday through Henry M. Herbel, president of the Chicago Film Board of Trade, that they are prepared to make a court test of Mayor Kelly's order that no films depicting mob scenes be shown here. None is available for immediate showing, Mr. Herbel said, but whenever one appears it will be shown, despite threats of arrest.

A counter-attack is to be made on the general subject of censorship of news reel pictures and the levying of fees on this class of films, President Herbel said. Chicago is the only city where this class of moving pictures is censored, he asserted, adding that the fees charged motion picture concerns for censorship bring in about $70,000 a year in revenue to the city, making $30,000 to $40,000 a year clear for the city.

"There is no more reason why a film news picture should be subjected to censorship than for a newspaper showing the same scenes to be similarly treated," the spokesman for the news reel distributors asserted. "It seems that the freedom of the press is involved here. If the city can forbid pictures of crowd violence in the movies it can forbid newspapers to print the same."

The mayor's order was issued last week and affected a showing of riotous scenes in Vienna. The film distributors declared that under the order the movies could not show pictures of school teachers marching on the city hall, or any similar event.

MSGR. O'BRIEN BECOMES BISHOP ON APRIL 25TH

Consecration of Bishop Elect William D. O'Brien as titular bishop of Calinda and auxiliary bishop of Chicago has been set for April 25 at Holy Name cathedral. This was announced yesterday by Bishop Elect O'Brien. He added that Cardinal Mundelein will be consecrator at the service. The Most Rev. Amleto Giovanni, papal delegate to the United States, will attend the ceremonies.

Assisting Cardinal Mundelein in the ceremonies will be the Most Rev. Joseph P. Lynch, bishop of Dallas, Tex., and the Most Rev. Bernard J. Sheil, auxiliary bishop of Chicago as co-consecrators. The sermon will be preached by the Most Rev. John J. Mitty, coadjutor archbishop of San Francisco. Announcement of the elevation of Bishop Elect O'Brien was made from Rome last month.

FORMER SWEDISH PRINCE AND BRIDE SLIP INTO BERLIN

BERLIN, March 9.—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Sigvard Bernadotte, the former Prince Sigvard of Sweden and his commoner bride, arrived here today from Hook of Holland. Only the bride's family chauffeur and a girl friend greeted them.

The former prince, who lost his title by marrying the blonde actress, Erika Patzek, looked bright and happy. He assisted Erika out of the train. She wore a simple navy blue dress, a gray traveling cloak and a blue hat. Bernadotte was in gray, with a brown soft hat.

The bride carried a bunch of white violets, which she told her girl friend had been given her in London "for luck."

Japanese Army Chief Hints at New Drive Against China

PEIPING, China, March 9.—(AP)—The questions of a Japanese official regarding American mission properties in north China aroused fears in some quarters tonight concerning possible Japanese intentions on the continent.

The official, who is attached to the Japanese military garrison in Tientsin, was quoted by the American missionaries as saying the Nipponese army leaders wanted information about the holdings "in order to avoid damaging these properties in the event the Japanese army found it necessary to come south of the Great Wall in the near future."

It was pointed out in this connection that when Henry Pu-Yi was made emperor of the Japanese sponsored state of Manchukuo on March 1 the Japanese announced to the world they had no intentions south of China's Great Wall.

Japs Refuse Explanation.

The Japanese legation denied that the inquiries made of the missionaries were significant. It said Japanese military chieftains, self-styled protectors of peace in the far east, did not want to violate their recent pledges to the world that they were not interested in China south of the Wall. The legation offered no explanation other than that the questions were "of no significance."

Several persons who called at the legation, however, said they were convinced these Japanese officials were uninformed of the Japanese military leaders' latest activity in Peiping.

The conquest of Jehol, north of the Wall, preceded the establishment of Manchukuo in Chinese territory. The Jehol campaign ended with a truce signed at Tangku, China, last May, in which the Japanese promised to withdraw north of the Wall, with the establishment of a neutral zone between Peiping and the sea and the Wall.

Canton Accepts Nanking Rule.

A dispatch from Canton today said independent Canton government leaders had agreed to abolish their posts and accept the rule of the Nanking Nationalist government for southern China. Canton, which has enjoyed virtual autonomy, will accept a governor appointed by Nanking.

Several days ago an impending strong revival of activities to obtain volunteers for an irregular campaign in Manchuria was reported in Canton dispatches. The enthronement of Pu-Yi was said to be a reason for this move.

ISSUES WARNING ON DEADLINE FOR U. S. INCOME TAX

Collector of Customs Carter H. Harrison yesterday warned that the deadline for filing income tax returns for the 1933 tax year is midnight of March 15. Unless returns are in by that time, Mr. Harrison said, a 25 per cent penalty will be added for delinquency and interest of 1 per cent a month will be charged. He also declared that the extension of time allowed last year because of the bank moratorium will not be repeated.

Only 2 Governors Promise to Attend Farm Session

Des Moines, Ia., March 9.—(AP)—Definite assurance of attendance at an agricultural conference here tomorrow was forthcoming tonight only from Govs. Olson of Minnesota and Schmedeman of Wisconsin. Gov. Herring said late today he probably would be unable to attend the three day sessions regularly, but would sit in if he could find time. Original plans for a 15 state governor's conference have been abandoned, Herring said. The meeting tomorrow will be an open forum for farm organization leaders, he asserted.

SCHOOL RELIEF ACTION PRESSED ON TWO FRONTS

Sen. Lewis Is Certain of U. S. Legislation.

Action was being pressed in Washington and Chicago yesterday to straighten out the board of education's financial troubles and to get funds to pay the back salaries of Chicago's school teachers.

Richard S. Folsom, school board attorney, reported from Washington he had been assured by Senator J. Hamilton Lewis that some kind of bill providing school relief would be passed by congress at the present session. Folsom is in Washington canvassing congressional sentiment regarding legislation to permit the school board to pledge $30,000,000 worth of school property, not used for educational purposes, as additional security for a $40,000,000 school bond issue to be sold to the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

Folsom also discussed school relief legislation with Congressman Kent E. Keller [Dem., Ill.], author of a school teachers' relief bill, and Congressman James Simpson Jr [Rep., Ill.]. Both congressmen, according to Folsom, indicated that the house would take action at this session to provide federal aid for school teachers.

Plan to Report Bill.

At the same time Congressman Anning Prall [Dem., N. Y.], chairman of a house banking and currency subcommittee which has been considering a number of school relief bills, advised Congressman A. J. Sabath [Dem., Ill.] in Washington that a measure authorizing federal loans to school districts would be reported favorably within the next few days.

In Chicago James B. McCahey, president of the board, ordered full speed in drafting the 1934 school budget, so that 1934 tax anticipation warrants can be issued, thus providing funds for a pay day for the teachers.

The tentative budget estimates calling for a total appropriation of $71,242,610 were placed in the hands of the school trustees yesterday at a special meeting of the board and referred to the budget committee. The committee, consisting of Trustees Paul Drymalski, Charles W. Fry, Harry W. Solomon, Joseph J. Salat, Ernst Buehler, and Mr. McCahey, will meet daily beginning Monday to consider the budget. March 21 was set as the date for a public hearing on the final draft of the estimates.

Continues 1933 Savings.

The 1934 budget is based on the savings effected last year under the board's economy program, which eliminated many of the "fads and frills" in the educational system. Five copies of the tentative budget were placed on file yesterday with Charles E. Gilbert, school board secretary, for inspection by the public. Under the law the budget must be approved by April 1.

Earlier in the day Gov. Horner at Springfield signed the "pegged tax levy" bill, fixing the Chicago school tax levy at $44,000,000 for 1933 and $43,000,000 for 1934.

CUTMORE RENEWS CHARGE OF UNFAIR '31 ASSESSMENTS

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday, including those for 1932, were $491,027, making a total of $111,043,598 collected since enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act began on April 28, 1933. The day's collection of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes for four years follow:

	1928.	1929.
March 9	$ 15,826	$ 31,795
Uncollected	15,012,286	40,308,448
	1930.	1931.
March 9	$ 40,019	$ 139,039
Uncollected	63,825,997	60,374,967

The day's collection of 1932 real estate taxes was $264,348. The 1932 personal property tax collections totaled $22,863. The 1931 personal property tax collections totaled $6,071.

Under cross-examination yesterday Harry S. Cutmore, former chief deputy under Assessor J. L. Jacobs, continued to insist that the assessor had discriminated against small properties in the 1931 real estate assessment. Cutmore, testifying before County Judge Jarecki, insisted that the assessor acted on the suggestions of an advisory committee "dominated by men who were interested in larger buildings."

Cutmore, who quit Mr. Jacobs' staf last September, was the last witness called by the Chicago Real Estate board in the hearing on its petition to reduce by 15 per cent the 1931 assessments on the 438,000 homes and small flat buildings in the county. He will be called for redirect examination when the hearing is resumed Tuesday. Attorney Henry P. Chandler, representing Mr. Jacobs, said that he expects to call several witnesses in rebuttal of Cutmore's testimony, and it is expected that the hearing will end late next week.

The hearing, lasting over a period of several months, is blamed by county officials for the delay in the collection of $25,000,000 in taxes.

Miss Marion Leighton, former tennis star, and her business partner, Miss Frances Streich, were held to the grand jury in bonds of $3,000 each yesterday by Judge Frank M. Padden in the Felony court. They are charged with embezzling $200 from Miss Birdie A. Putman, 837 Belden avenue, a school teacher who turned over tax warants to the women to be sold.

The school teacher apparently was reluctant to testify against the women. A $50 payment had been made to her yesterday before the case was called and promissory notes given for the remainder of her money, she told the grand jury, which continued the hearing to March 22 without taking any other action.

Assistant State's Attorney Patrick Daniher insisted on a prosecution of the case in the Felony court. He said other complaints had been made against the women, who operated a tax warant brokerage office at 160 North La Salle street. Miss Leighton said the other complaints had been settled outside of court.

JUDGE TO PUSH DRIVE ON MOTOR LAW VIOLATORS

Municipal Judge Joseph H. McGarry announced yesterday that he would tighten up procedure in the Traffic court. Motorists who are charged with traffic violations or failure to purchase 1934 city or state licenses will be fined, he said.

"This court costs the city about $40,000 a year," the judge explained. "It has been estimated that each warrant costs the taxpayer about $25, in time of the policemen and clerks needed to serve it. I am going to see that automobile drivers pay at least a part of this cost. Motorists who were arrested but disregarded their summonses will be fined when they finally are brought in."

Judge McGarry said that he had discovered that large numbers of stop orders were being sent out to void traffic violation warrants.

John Franklin, 19 years old, 1123 South Winchester avenue, and Ernest Fuller, 17, of 1744 Taylor street, Negroes, were captured in a stolen car by Blue Island police last night. They were identified by Constable Raymond P. Flair of Lyons as two of three young Negroes who threatened him with guns at Racine avenue and Roosevelt road and hour before and took his car from him. The car which Franklin and Fuller were driving when captured belonged to Flair.

CHARGE THREATS TO BAR PRESS AT FRANKFORT, KY.

Editor Is Summoned to House Hearing.

Frankfort, Ky., March 9.—[Special.]—Charges that there had been threats to bar newspaper reporters from the state capitol while the legislature is in session were made on the floor of the Kentucky state senate today.

A second development in the attempt to hamper the freedom of the press was the summoning of Vance Armentrout, associate editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, to appear before a special committee of the house of representatives to answer a charge of contempt of that body.

Armentrout, refusing to give the house lobby investigating committee the name of the author of an article his paper published, was summarily thrown in jail by order of the lobby investigating committee of Wednesday, but was released an hour later on a writ of habeas corpus issued by County Judge L. Boone Hamilton.

Question Judge's Authority.

The special committee of the house was appointed to hear the contempt charge after the lobby committee had complained that Judge Hamilton defied its order. The judge had held the committee moved without authority and contrary to law in imprisoning Armentrout without a hearing.

In demanding the appointment of the special contempt committee, the lobby committee of the house cited a statute which provides a person adjudged in contempt of the house may be fined as much as $1,000, jailed for the duration of the legislature's session, or both. Under the usual procedure the special committee will report its findings to the house and the full membership will then, by resolution, free Armentrout or fix a penalty.

Will Have Chance to Testify.

The only comment of Representative Ferd A. Gnau, chairman of the special committee, was that his mind was open on the subject and that Armentrout would be given an opportunity to testify. It was agreed by those concerned, including the editor, that the hearing would be held at 7 p. m. Monday.

Armentrout had told the lobby investigating committee he would not disclose the name of the writer of a Point of View column letter [the column corresponds to the Voice of the People in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE] entitled "A Psalm of Politics," which attacked the rules of procedure followed in the house. His refusal to tell was based on his claim that the matter was confidential. It was assumed the article was written by a legislator opposed to the policies of the state administration.

Flays Rumors of Exclusion.

The charge that there was a movement to bar reporters from the legislature came from State Senator Fred C. Van Hoose.

"Several times," he said, "I have been told that if reporters actually report what goes on here in the senate they may be throttled. It has even been threatened that newspaper men be excluded from this building. I am opposed to any such action."

The senator's remarks were made in a speech in which he opposed a proposed senate rules change that would limit all debate to ten minutes from each side.

Cab Driver Asks $100,000 of Fighting Congressman

Washington, D. C., March 9.—(AP)—The traffic argument that began Monday night between Representative Shoemaker of Minnesota and Charles Newman, capital taxicab driver, is still going strong. Shoemaker left police court with a confident wave of his hand today after winning postponement until March 15 of his trial on an assault charge. The taxi driver went across the street to the District of Columbia Supreme court and there filed suit for $100,000 damages against the congressman.

SHOOTS ROBBER

MISS ALICE M'CARTHY.

Veodis Pickenpack, 518 East 37th place, and Theodore Sashby, 4156 South Wabash avenue, Negroes, made a grave mistake last night. They tried to snatch the purse of Miss Alice McCarthy, south park policewoman, at Oakwood boulevard and Vincennes avenue.

Policewoman McCarthy promptly drew her pistol and demonstrated she knew what to do with it by shooting Pickenpack in the left hand. He surrendered. So did Sashby. Both were taken to the Wabash avenue police station, where they confessed they had snatched purses from several women who were not armed.

Several years ago Miss McCarthy shot an automobile thief and captured him.

COOK COUNTY'S SHARE IN GAS TAX IS $306,097

Springfield, Ill., March 9.—[Special.]—Allotment of $654,687 of motor fuel tax income to the 102 counties of Illinois as their February share of this revenue was announced today by K. L. Ames Jr., director of finance.

Cook county, the largest single beneficiary, received $306,097, but contributed $126,991 for retirement and interest in the $20,000,000 emergency relief bond issue of 1932, as compared with a total of $10,608 paid by 39 other counties contributing to the bond retirement. Other counties receiving $10,000 or more in February allotments were Kane, Lake, Madison, Peoria, Sangamon, St. Clair, Will, and Winnebago. The smallest allotment, $294.96, went to Pope county.

LONDON SEEKS WELL EDUCATED MEN FOR POLICE

London intends to make its police department one of the "learned professions," H. R. Lees-Smith, former member of Ramsay MacDonald's cabinet, declared yesterday. The former cabinet member, now a member of the British privy council, is in the United States studying police conditions. He is staying at the Stevens.

"London intends to have all of its police officials well educated," said Mr. Smith. "College and university men will be put in the higher places on the force, and even ordinary patrolmen must have a higher standard of education."

EXHORTS EDITORS TO CRUSADE FOR PUBLIC WELFARE

A. L. Remmel Talks Before Indiana Republicans.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 9.—[Special.]—More editors are needed who will fight "for the right, for decency, for honesty and for better government at all times and under all circumstances," Arthur L. Remmel, Fort Wayne, retiring president of the Indiana Republican Editorial association, declared as the association opened here today for its annual two day midwinter meeting.

He asserted that the "new deal" of the Roosevelt administration tends toward socialism.

"We have been a very foolish people in permitting ourselves to be led from the form of government so clearly outlined in our wonderful constitution," he said. "We have listened much too attentively to the theorists, the internationalists, the liberals, the dreamers."

Backbone and Brains.

Walter Crim, Salem member of the code committee of the National Editorial association, led a discussion of the code.

Dr. E. Burns Martin, Fort Wayne Methodist Episcopal pastor, discussed the "might and menace of public opinion."

"I am convinced that this country needs more newspaper editors and publishers with sufficient courage to express their convictions," Remmel said. "We need more crusading editors; editors, if you please, with more than a silken thread for a spinal cord."

"Republicans as we are, and proud of it," Mr. Remmel warned, "we must not forget that the public of today will not permit itself to be spoon fed with either the castor oil of partisan invective or the soothing sirup of partisan ballyhoo.

Devotion to Political Science.

"Even if we take a purely pragmatic and opportunistic point of view, it is obvious that a newspaper cannot permit itself to become a rubber stamp for either men or party doctrinal preachments, so long as those men cannot stand the test of personal and political character, and those preachments can not stand the test of analytical argumenation.

"The honest and high minded editor's interest in politics," Mr. Remmel asserted, "should be broad and far-seeing; it should take the form of a devotion to his best concepts of political science, rather than to the petty concern of the professional politician," he added.

NEWSPAPER KEYSTONE OF A REPUBLIC, SAYS COL. R. R. M'CORMICK

Indianapolis, Ind., March 9.—(AP)—Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, tonight told the Indiana Republican Editorial association at its annual meeting here that the newspaper is the keystone of a republic.

Col. McCormick is chairman of committees on freedom of the press of the American Newspaper Publishers' association and the Society of American Newspaper Editors.

"I see three stones in the arch of the economic and political life of a republic," he told the Indiana editors tonight. "On one side, the political stone. On the other side, the economic stone, and the newspapers as the keystone.

"That is why our press must be strong—why it must be free. That is why we have fought so hard this last year to keep it free.

"It must be strong to make industry respect public opinion.

"It must be free to force politics to subordinate its greed to the economic necessities of the people.

"Thus with a free press our republic will not perish from the earth."

Col. McCormick said that "the ferocity with which the successors to republican governments destroy the press proves how necessary newspapers are to maintain republics."

"How necessary they would be to republics was foreseen by the monarchies which forbade them," he asserted.

1⅓ BILLION TIED UP IN COLLEGES ESCAPES TAXES

Men in Tomb Still Control Their Endowments.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 9.—[Special.]—Capital in excess of 11-3 billion dollars is tied up in productive endowment funds, most of it exempt from taxation, in universities, colleges, and professional schools of America, teachers' colleges not included.

The bulk of these funds reposes in privately controled institutions of learning, and it is bringing to the fore again the question of the "dead hand" sequestering from the tomb large masses of property from the tax gatherer, especially in these days of mounting taxes and diminishing taxable wealth. Besides the funds, there is much real estate involved.

The value of America's higher educational plants of 1930, exclusive of teachers' and normal colleges, was 3 billion 280 million. The figure included property and endowments. In ten years it had made a great growth, the value in 1920 being figured at 1 billion 202 million. Value of grounds had increased in the decade from 110 million dollars to 274 million, buildings had grown from 425 millions to 1¼ billion.

Productive Endowment Funds.

Productive endowment funds in the ten years grew from 556 million dollars to $1,347,675,000. Of this great sum, $1,225,558,000 was in possession of privately controled establishments of learning, while $122,117,600 was held by publicly controled establishments, such as state universities.

The decade saw a great movement on the part of persons of wealth to leave worldly possessions in the form of endowments, which would not be divided after the donor passed on but would remain as a monument, immune in general, from taxation. Thus, it is pointed out while in life nothing is sure but death and taxation, in death, the "dead hand" waves away the tax collector and men in the sepulchre still control wealth they could not take with them. This sort of talk is growing and authorities of some leading colleges are expressing fears that endowment funds may perhaps be brought under taxation.

In New York, for example, agitation springs up every once in a while relative to Columbia university, largest in America, with a resident student body of 30,900 and a resident faculty of 3,289. It is second in endowment funds having $86,000,000; Harvard, oldest and richest of the colleges and universities standing first with 117 million.

Art Institutes and Museums.

Adequate figures on art institutes and museums, galleries and kindred institutions are difficult to find, but one estimate is their aggregate property value runs to 400 millions. Figures on endowments are not available. Added to the higher educational plant it would make 3 billion 680 million as the total value of the institutions devoted to higher learning and to the arts.

As to endowment funds of all types when the various foundations of different sorts are added to the endowments of the colleges, universities, and professional schools, it reaches a sum in excess of two and a third billion dollars, as follows:

Productive Endowment Funds.

Privately controled colleges	$1,225,558,000
Publicly controled colleges	122,117,000
Total	$1,347,675,000
Foundations, 108 largest	$ 770,863,000
Foundations, 200 others	230,000,000
Total	$1,000,863,000
Grand total	$2,348,538,000

Exempt from Taxation.

The great bulk of these sums is exempt from taxation as philanthropical and benevolent. In fact, research workers say it virtually all is exempt from taxes, save, perhaps, in a few states.

Among the colleges with largest endowments are:

Harvard	$117,000,000
Columbia	86,000,000
University of Chicago	61,500,000
Yale	75,500,000
Rochester university	33,800,000
Stanford	31,000,000
Massachusetts Institute of Technology	34,770,000
Johns Hopkins	30,000,000
University of Texas	30,000,000
Princeton	27,000,000
Duke university	23,300,000
Cornell	25,000,000
Northwestern	24,000,000
Vanderbilt	20,000,000
Dartmouth	16,000,000
Oberlin	18,000,000
Brown	10,000,000

These figures above are several years old, and the depression is said to have changed them greatly, but new compilations are not yet out at Washington. Many of them are said to be based on book value of securities that have slumped until income has fallen off to a degree that some colleges are on the ragged edge and are going in for great economies.

Endowment Still There.

But, as the experts view it, the higher educational plant as a whole has withstood the depression better than any other important group, perhaps, in the social and economic structure. Income has fallen off, but endowments still are there, weathering the storm, some not paying dividends, but the vast bulk of the endowments safe from taxation, anyhow.

Much of the endowments' funds are in stocks, bonds, and real estate, and they are an important factor in the business of the country. The endowments of 197 colleges reporting to the Association of American Colleges for 1931 were in the following forms:

Stock, $131,132,000.
Bonds, $50,157,000.
Real estate and mortgages, $131,132,000.
Miscellaneous, $112,469,000.

The per cent yield was 5.06, and the gifts for 1931 were $54,800,000. The funds are in the securities of railroads, steel mills, mortgages, utilities and a wide range of the soundest holdings.

The sources of income in 1,078 higher institutions of education in 1929-'30 [public and private institutions being separated] is shown in one government report as follows:

From productive funds [public], $6,191,596; [private], $61,178,400; U. S. government, state, or city [public], $145,193,000; [private], $8,324,000; private benefactions [public], $8,891,000; [private], $130,617,300; student fees and other [public], $74,657,000; [private], $196,076,000.

Value of Some Plants.

The value of the higher educational plant, for 1,078 institutions as divided between public and privately controled establishments [246 public, 832 private institutions] is as follows:

	Public.	Private.
Libraries, scientific apparatus, etc.	$119,049,598	$ 124,247,400
Grounds	79,002,300	195,543,000
Buildings	400,712,400	804,476,300
All other	27,494,578	112,459,000
Productive funds	122,117,564	1,225,558,000
Total	$748,376,440	$2,462,283,600

The endowment funds, in terms of industries, often indicate a number of interesting things. The University of Rochester, for example, reflects the Eastman Kodak industry; Duke, at Durham, N. C., has a large endowment due to the Duke benefactions, but instead of representing tobacco it comes from the Southern Power company into which Duke poured his millions made from the tobacco business.

Of yore, wags said Harvard was founded on prayer, Chicago on oil, but Northwestern had neither.

Chicago U. Next to Columbia.

Yale, which used to be second in endowment, now is said to be edged out by Columbia, where real estate has paved the way for expansion and the evolution of the "brain trustees" at Washington, while Chicago now is rated third by a leading research agency, due to the Rockefeller benefactions.

One development of the decade has been the swing towards the state universities. In 1930, 390,397 students, or 40 per cent of the total, were in the 246 public institutions, while 581,187 were enrolled in the 832 institutions under private control. From 1919 to 1929 the student body in the public institutions grew 100 per cent, and in the private establishments 78 per cent.

In the growing discussion of whether endowment funds should be taxed or not the privately controled universities and colleges point out that they educate 60 per cent of the student enrollment of America, and that taxation would be repressive of education, while the other side raises the question of whether too great a bulk of wealth will not be taken out of the sources of governmental revenue if the tendency towards endowments and foundations is kept up.

EX-PREMIER SAYS FRENCH FASCISTS PLOTTED REVOLT

Tells Deputies His Version of Stavisky Riots.

PARIS, March 9.—(AP)—Former Premier Edouard Daladier told a parliamentary investigating committee tonight that mobs had tried to invade the chamber of deputies by force on the night of Feb. 6 and overthrow his government.

In a vigorous defense of his course on that fatal night, when 19 persons were killed in riots, Daladier said "minority" leaders of the mob sought to use "force" to invade the chamber and compel the majority of deputies to accept their will.

Tensely Daladier and Jean Chiappe, whom the former removed as prefect of Paris police, faced each other before forty members of the investigating committee which seeks to discover the government's course during the $60,000,000 Stavisky pawnshop scandal and the bloody riots born of it.

Defends Accused Minister.

Daladier denied that Eugene Frot, his minister of the interior, ever had any intention of "organizing a gang or conspiring against the republic."

He insisted that Chiappe merely had told him that Frot was seeking to get the premiership for himself—a desire which the former premier said he regarded as a purely secondary political struggle within the cabinet itself.

The wealthy and popular Chiappe, however, refused to retract the testimony he gave before the committee Wednesday, in which he said he had told Daladier that Frot was trying to use the riots as a kind of personal coup d'état.

Daladier, whose government was forced to resign on Feb. 7, said he had discharged Chiappe because he felt the police were responsible partly for the freedom of Serge Stavisky, so-called "master swindler," who was not tried on swindling charges preferred against him in 1926.

The collapse of Stavisky's pawnshop in Bayonne and his death when police closed in on him led to such popular indignation that crowds rioted in the streets for several weeks.

In this connection Daladier asserted there was a great difference between the mob actions in January and the riots of Feb. 6. The latter, he said, appeared to have been stirred up deliberately.

"I had the impression we were faced with the very clear intention of a minority to exploit the scandal and use tactics of force," he testified.

Col. de la Roque, leader of the "Crosses of Fire," a Fascist organization, demanded permission to lead veterans into the chamber of deputies, whereupon the commandant of guards before the parliament declared, "You will pass only over our bodies," Daladier said.

Chiappe, Daladier went on, warned him that Frot planned a plot to seize power during the disorders, but the former premier minimized Chiappe's information in the belief it had been greatly exaggerated.

The witness insisted that Chiappe, on learning of his discharge, said: "I shall be in the street tonight."—the Parisian expression for "in rebellion." Chiappe denied using such an expression.

Stavisky Jewels Found.

Col. de la Roque and Henri de Kerillis, organizer of a National rightist program, denied before the committee they had any intention to try to overthrow the republic.

Meanwhile some of Stavisky's jewels were found in the Orleans municipal pawnshop today by detectives after a long search.

The government seized the gems, which were valued at about $78,000 and which had been pawned by an associate of Stavisky for about $13,000.

PRESIDENT DENIES RECEIVING REPORTS OF RED PROPAGANDA

Washington, D. C., March 9.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt said today, when questioned, that he had received no reports of communist propaganda in the United States. The state department, through Secretary Hull, also reported having received no such information.

These statements appear to be in contradiction to detailed and specific reports issued recently by Matthew Woll, secretary of the American Federation of Labor; by the American Civic Federation of New York City, and by various other public spirited agencies in this country.

Mr. Roosevelt was reminded that Maxim Litvinoff, commissar for foreign affairs for the Soviets, pledged in return for American recognition of his government that propaganda would cease.

On the very night that Mr. Roosevelt had announced recognition of Russia, however, M. Litvinoff in a press interview evaded inquiries as to whether his pledge would bind the Third Internationale, the propogandising agency of the communist party.

CHARGES GRAFT WAS PAID IN GAS TAX FRAUD

Testimony that graft of one cent a gallon was paid to "a man downtown," whose name was not disclosed, was given yesterday at the trial in Judge Donald S. McKinlay's court of three defendants charged with conspiracy to defraud the state out of approximately $200,000 in gasoline tax. Frank McDonnell, former plant foreman, for the defendants gave the testimony against his former employers, Max Johnson, Al Johnson, and Sam Levin, who operated the Consumers' Gas and Oil company. The witness said he overheard his former employers discuss the plan to defraud the state by getting the unnamed fixer to handle the taxes for them.

NEW ZEALANDERS AWAIT CHANCE TO "BUY AMERICAN"

Survey Shows Big Opening for U. S. Goods.

BY QUENTIN POPE.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

WELLINGTON, N. Z., March 9.—New Zealand's needs from the United States are as wide as the field of trade. This country can and does take anything which Americans can produce.

In the list of imports from the United States for last year were such things as tinned fish and sausage casings, onions and tobacco, hosiery and oranges, furs and pumps. The United States headed the list of countries which supplied lubricating oil, gas and oil engines, tractors, lumber, radios, and skins. In all these classes of goods the trade is large and expanding, the lines are established and their superiority recognized. In movie films, of course, the United States has held a commanding position for years, and though the market is now being invaded by British productions, they are not likely to be serious competitors because of the shortage of supply.

Before the depression this country was rapidly going American. The mechanization of the home was moving ahead rapidly. There was, statistically, anyhow, a car in every garage, even if there was no chicken in every pot. Vacuum cleaners had come into their own with a bound. Washing machines and refrigerators were following slowly, largely because they were sold here at from 200 to 300 per cent above the American price.

Chance for Machinery.

Outside the home machinery presents the greatest possibility for the American exporter. It used to be thought that there were many classes of machines and tools which could only be had from United States makers. With the increase in the price of the dollar, the cost of these became too great and after long pleading the British manufacturer began to make them. Today he has the market, but it is a temporary hold, just as his ascendency in the automobile industry is temporary, born of exchange advantage and high duties.

Lumber and general building materials offer another great field for exploitation. This is a young country and one where much construction work is being done. In better times, the government spends up to £25,000,000 a year on works in the back country districts. This means a great demand for lumber, cement, steel and other constructional materials. New Zealand has practically no iron [the one large ironworks has been forced out of business by the depression] and no lumber suitable for use on large undertakings is grown in this country, where most of the trees left by destructive pioneers are stringy and useless.

In spite of strong agitation, American woods have been gradually capturing the market. The only serious competitors have been not foreign woods, but second grade New Zealand lumbers, which have been sold to those who will take them.

Great Field for Metals.

In metals a great field remains to be developed, for this is a field where New Zealand, very deficient in all metals, cannot hope to supply herself. The main source of supply is now Britain, and the chief reason for this appears to rest in the convenience of British selling arrangements.

Foodstuffs present another class of goods where the New Zealander may be enticed to buy. The people of this dominion are fond of the pleasures of the table and three years ago were beginning to set up quite a demand for canned and bottled foodstuffs. Curiously, for an agricultural country, vegetables are expensive, being raised in small quantities of high priced lots close to their markets. This has created a big demand for canned and bottled goodies of the better sort.

In clothing and manufactured dress materials there is another chance for the United States manufacturer. Importations of woolen manufactures stood at $3 per capita last year. The requirements of the people in clothing are extremely high. Statistics show that the local manufacturers, who have only the thin end of the trade, made enough suits last year to clothe one-eighth of the population and that importations in all classes of goods were big enough to clothe half the remainder. The movies have made the New Zealand women clothes conscious and the girls in the cities spend most of their earnings on dress.

Climate May Help U. S.

The climate in New Zealand and Australia will not permit the Chicago styles of June, 1934, being worn here before January, 1935. This means that end of season goods, almost useless in the United States except as remainders, can be exported and sold at reasonable figures. Duties are high and prices must be graded to fit them, but the opportunity is there.

Furniture is another field in which the New Zealander eagerly seeks something better than what he is accustomed to buying. When a member of the staf of the department of commerce was recalled from New Zealand last year his furniture, bought in New York, was sold here for more than it cost him. Its design and finish were so superior to what the New Zealanders had seen that the sale was rushed. Modern design has been slow to penetrate in these islands and workmanship, in almost every field, is very bad. The American furniture manufacturer who first works out a price basis which is acceptable to a New Zealand agent will have things his own way. At present modern furniture exists here mainly in illustrations in books. The atmosphere and surroundings are very Victorian.

One big item in the trade between New Zealand and the rest of the world is books. New Zealanders never tire of being told that they are the greatest readers in the world; they are forced to become so because of their isolation from contemporary civilization. The demand for books is enormous and the enterprising American publisher who realizes that he can bring out editions of well known authors which will sell well in the British dominions will have increased profits for his trouble.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm

By Bob Becker

Catch Live 'Possum

March 9, 1934.

JOHN RAWLINGS, who is "official custodian" of sheep and poultry on THE TRIBUNE'S Fox River Valley Experimental Farm, made a surprise catch in the chicken house this evening. He went out to the poultry yard about dusk to shut up all the chickens and found a full grown 'possum in the chicken house. The animal was enjoying a grand feast of meat which had been hung up for the poultry to feed on.

Rawlings grabbed the startled 'possum before it had a chance to run or even roll over and play dead in typical 'possum fashion. After stowing the animal in the vermin pen Rawlings went back to the poultry yard to see if the invader had killed any chickens. However, he didn't find any casualties. Apparently the 'possum had passed up the chickens for the already-prepared meat. [This makes the third 'possum Rawlings has caught recently. He captured two young ones in a live trap some weeks ago.]

Rawlings has established a novel system in identifying the newly born lambs, in order to keep his lost and found department running smoothly.

There had been difficulty in restoring lambs to their mothers after they had gotten mixed up in the lambing tent where now there are more than 55 bleating babies and their mothers. To facilitate identification of any lost lambs Rawlings has been marking them with red powder. For example, all lambs born last week have been touched up with red powder—each individual family of twins and their mother having been marked in the same place. One family gets its identification mark on the right shoulder; the next family is "stamped" on the left shoulder—so it is easy to keep all the families properly assembled.

Whereas last week all the newly born lambs were given a red decoration, this week the color scheme is blue. This color stunt gives the wobbly-legged little lambs an extremely funny appearance, but it is a workable plan to keep all the sheep families together.

More lambs were born last night. At 12:15, twins were born, and then at 7 o'clock this morning two single lambs arrived. Rawlings had quite a job today docking the tails of 37 lambs before making the rounds of his other chores.

When he went down to the pond to feed the wild geese he saw a big hawk flying over the pond. It stirred up a lot of excitement among the waterfowl.

Many interesting letters came in the letter box today. Edward J. O'Beirne of Elgin writes that he hopes the experimental farm will work out some plan "whereby the permanent value of the farm will be increased each year." He adds that the longer some farms are occupied the less they are worth.

"One way to increase the value of the farm is to plant useful trees, the annual growth of which add to the yearly value of the farm," writes Mr. O'Beirne. "If the experimental farm would blaze a trail for mid-western farmers to follow, by planting sugar maple trees, a start in the right direction would be made.

"The sugar maple is a ...ll and ornamental tree which flourishes in this section. Its value as a wood for manufacturing purposes and its sirup and sugar making properties are such that it will give an annual increase to the value of the farm on which it grows. The season when the sap flows is very favorable for farmers, being in the early spring before the beginning of farm work. At the first thawing of the ground in late February or early March, the flow of sap begins, and the boiling of the sap continues for several weeks.

"Farmers have been discouraged from planting a sugar grove with the statement that the sugar maple is a slow grower. There are records here in Illinois of sugar maple trees having increased more than one inch during the fifth year after being transplanted from the nursery rows. The annual revenue from mature sugar maples may be estimated at one dollar per tree."

JAPAN'S CABINET ASKS DICTATORIAL TARIFF POWERS

TOKIO, March 9.—(AP)—The government of Japan, confronted with the prospect that several European governments may restrict imports of Japanese goods, sought weapons today with which to fight the anticipated trade wars.

The cabinet introduced in the diet [lower house] a "trade protection act" which would enable the government by executive or... to raise and lower tariffs and limit or prohibit imports and exports.

The primary purpose of the legislation is to give the government power to make quick reprisals against any nation whose commercial actions are considered as discriminatory. Tokio is particularly alarmed, a foreign office spokesman said, at reports from Europe indicating plans to bar Japanese manufactures. Some of the reports hint at concerted action to this end by several powers.

JAPAN STRUGGLES TO GRAB TRADE WITH THE TURKS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 9.—Japan is making a great effort to capture Turkish orders under the five year plan. Her aim is to oust both the United States and Great Britain from participation. It was learned here today that a Japanese syndicate has offered to place the five year plan on a new and more attractive basis than the Turks have so far been offered.

The syndicate is composed of the Matzibui firm, the N. Y. K. line [shipping], and the Egypto-Japanese Trading corporation. It offers to buy all machinery required in Japan and lay it down on the Bosporus, giving long term credit to the Turkish government.

Mark 28th Anniversary of Association.

Leading stars of the stage, radio, and screen will entertain the 600 members of the Newspaper Carriers' Association of Chicago at its 14th annual banquet to be held tonight at 7 o'clock in the Gold room of the Congress hotel. P. T. Hummelgaard, vice president of the association, will be toastmaster and Paul Ash, popular orchestra director, master of ceremonies.

PAUL ASH.

The banquet will celebrate the 28th anniversary of the foundation of the organization. The oldest members are Mack Dantzig, P. B. Harrison, Ray Henshaw, George Kaiser, John Kanitz, and Herbert Spelman.

Three Hours of Entertainment.

Heading a three hour entertainment program will be the Duncan Sisters, Vivian and Rosetta, who are now playing at the Marbro theater. Assisting Mr. Ash will be Romo Vincent, Frankie Masters, Verne Buck, and Freddie Bernard.

The entertainers are contributed by the Hotel Sherman, Palmer house, Morrison hotel, and Drake hotel; the Chicago, State-Lake, Palace, and Oriental theaters, and the Chez Paree night club.

The singers include Martha Raye, Ruth Dennen, Carmine Di Giovanni, Jackie Heller, Irene Beasley, and Pat Kennedy. Barbara Blane, Frances Willer, solo dancers, the dance teams of Beuvell and Tova, Roth and Shay, and the Eight Evans Co-eds will add the terpsichorean touch to the bill.

Jimmie Mattern to Attend.

Other features of the evening will be Sheila Barrett and Zelda Santley, mimics; Jimmie Mattern, world solo flyer; Harry Foster Welch, the one man band; "Red" Hodgson, singer-comedian, and Dr. Harlan Tarbell, who will present his "Sightless Vision" act.

There will be addresses by editors and circulation directors of THE TRIBUNE, the Daily News, and the Journal of Commerce.

Joseph Epstein is president of the Carriers' association. The directors are A. H. Zohn, Harry Mikesell, Louis Levy, S. D. Saltzman, Gordon Ramsey, Charles Glasser, Mr. Harrison, and George Kaiser.

TELLS PLAN FOR DROPPING CWA MEN THIS MONTH

All civil works administration employes who were not on relief at the time of their assignment to CWA work will be dismissed on or before March 31, Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, announced yesterday.

"An investigation will be made to determine the exact economic status and budgetary needs of the CWA workers retained on April 1 to determine how many shall be continued on relief," said Mr. Reynolds.

Persons on relief will be given enough employment on work relief projects to enable them to support themselves and their families. Although paid the prevailing wage rates in their localities, they will work only enough hours to earn the money deemed sufficient to meet their needs.

WEDS BROTHER OF EX-HUSBAND; BOTH END LIVES

Divorce, Nuptials, Suicides Take Place in 24 Hours.

Pecatonica, Ill., March 9.—(AP)—A double suicide, 24 hours after their marriage ended today the romance of Mrs. Nellie M. Holcomb, 35 years old, and her bridegroom, Ray T. Holcomb, 43 years old, who married her 15 minutes after she divorced his brother, John.

The bodies were discovered late today by the former husband who came to his brother's house along with his niece, Miss Helen Weir, to arrange a charivari for the newlyweds.

The bodies were on a couch in the living room. Two 12 gauge shotguns were on the floor. Apparently, Coroner W. R. Julian said, the couple fired the weapons simultaneously, the charges striking each in the heart.

Leave Explanatory Note.

Nearby in handwriting, which officers declared to be that of Mrs. Holcomb was found a suicide note signed by each. The note read:

"God forgive us. We truly love each other but cannot go on knowing now what the public is thinking of us. If we can't live together happily, there is nothing left. Bury us together.

"Ray.

"Nell."

Coroner Julian said that while there was no question but that the deaths were suicides, he would convene an inquest tomorrow.

Yesterday in the Circuit court at Rockford, Mrs. Holcomb obtained an uncontested divorce from John Holcomb.

Woman's Fourth Marriage.

Immediately she obtained a license and married her former husband's brother and the couple came directly to their new home. Friends said it was Mrs. Holcomb's fourth marriage venture.

The deaths occurred about noon today, the coroner said. The bodies were not discovered until shortly before 5 p. m., when the former husband and his relative, went to the house. The Holcomb brothers were carpenters.

POLITICAL GRAFT IS BLAMED FOR EVILS OF LIQUOR

The grafting politician, the disorderly saloon and the fanatical reformer are the enemies of the liquor industry, T. M. Gilmore, editor of Bonfort's Wine and Spirit Circular, informed the convention at the National Wine and Liquor show at the Hotel Sherman yesterday. The disorderly saloon could not have existed without the grafting politician, said Gilmore, and if both had been eliminated the reformer would have had no hearing.

"This is the same plea that I made thirty years ago speaking before a similar convention at Atlantic City," said Mr. Gilmore. "I was speaking on 'The Liquor Problem' at the time. Now my subject is the 'Racketeer in Politics.' These grafters should never be bought out; they should be kicked out."

Police Close Dance Hall After Patron Is Shot

The Mayfair Dance hall, at 433 North Clark street, was closed yesterday on orders of Acting Captain Andrew Barry of the Chicago avenue station, following an investigation of the shooting of a taxi-dance patron early yesterday morning. The victim, Platon Santos, 24 years old, of 312 South Marshfield avenue, a Filipino, was reported to be near death last night in the Passavant hospital. Santos told the police that he had "danced with the wrong girl." He said his assailant was a Filipino, known only as Fred.

BANDITS ROB MARKET OWNERS.

Three bandits early yesterday took $500 from Max Cohen, 1847 South Komensky avenue, and Harry Levin, 1827 South Karlov avenue, owners of the Star Kosher Meat market, 3447 West Roosevelt road.

COURTNEY GETS ENFORCEMENT MEDAL FOR 1933

State's Attorney Courtney was notified yesterday that he had been awarded the law enforcement medal of the United States Flag association for 1933. He was voted by the judges to be the person "who did most to advance and encourage the enforcement of law in Illinois."

Attorney General Kerner made the announcement of the award. Serving with him on the jury were John H. Wigmore, former dean of the Northwestern University School of Law, and T. P. Sullivan, superintendent of the Illinois state bureau of criminal identification and investigation.

Courtney, the judges decided, deserved the medal because he "furnished a leadership that inspired teamwork and created a new spirit in the grand jury room, in the jury box, in the police department, and a new confidence in the state in the administration of criminal justice."

The prosecutor was lauded for his attack against rackets preying upon legitimate businesses, against terrorists and kidnapers. The medal will be presented by Gov. Horner at Springfield or in Chicago, on a date which was not set.

TRIO HELD UP AND ROBBED OF $1,031 PAY ROLL

Three employes of the [illegible]nal Machinery and Manufactur[illegible]pany, 2634 North Keeler aven[illegible] held up by two gunmen yes[illegible]day and robbed of the company's $1,031 pay roll. Those robbed were L. W. Junkunc, 144 North Long avenue, superintendent of the plant; Ralph Jarr, 1427 Melrose street, a clerk, and Claude Logan, 1419 West Adams street, a clerk. The two gunmen forced Junkunc's car to the curb in Wrightwood avenue, between Kildare and Keeler avenues, and seized the pay roll.

U. of C. Is Without Funds to Buy Rare Manuscript

A 12th century Greek manuscript of the Revelations of St. John, which trustees of the estate of Mrs. Edith Rockfeller McCormick were authorized to sell for $14,000, will probably have to be sold on the open market, it appeared yesterday. The University of Chicago had been reported a likely purchaser but officials said yesterday that there are no funds to buy the rare document should it be offered to the school. The manuscript has 69 colored miniatures and includes a commentary on the Revelations.

MICHIGAN WOMAN WELFARE CHIEF GETS SENATE O. K.

Lansing, Mich., March 9.—[Special.]—Miss Evelyn Mershon, state welfare director, whom Gov. William A. Comstock appointed twice to the position and whose confirmation was refused as many times by the senate, was occupying her office with senate approval today after a bitter fight in an executive session which lasted until midnight Thursday.

Miss Mershon, member of a prominent Saginaw family and active in Democratic councils for many years, was declared to be lacking in qualifications for the office and was accused of being "merely a clubwoman and socialite" during the battle over her confirmation. Eventually, with several Republicans lining up unexpectedly in her behalf and with many others not voting, confirmation was obtained, 15 to 6.

Foster Resumes Fight.

Following the secret session Senator Joe C. Foster [Rep., Lansing] resumed the fight on the floor with the charge that there had been much "horse trading" and "vote swapping" in order to win the gubernatorial victory. He said administration spokesmen had told him that unless he lined up for Miss Mershon and enough votes were obtained for her confirmation the scalps of two Republicans still holding office under the Democratic regime would be the forfeit. The men referred to are Oscar G. Olander, commissioner of public safety, and Robert E. Marsh, superintendent of the boys' vocational school.

Foster's attack brought an indignant denial from Senator William F. Doyle [Rep., Menominee] that he had ever indulged in "horse trading" on legislation. Foster countered with the charge that Doyle had traded with him but that "I always have come out on the small end of it."

Charges Vote Trading.

He then declared Doyle had traded his vote on the Mershon confirmation for a vote against the confirmation of O. K. Fjetland, the governor's secretary and a special enemy of Doyle's, as a member of the state prison commission. "I say you deliberately and maliciously lied," Doyle declared, springing to his feet. Adjournment was taken before the argument could be carried further.

At this morning's session, however, both senators admitted they had "gone too far" and apologized to each other and their colleagues.

GRANDMOTHER put on linsey woolsey and ate beefsteak for breakfast

HOW times have changed. Red flannels and heavy woolens went out when steam-heat and closed cars came in. And so did the old-fashioned idea about hot, heavy dishes.

Today, the call is all for crispness. Kellogg's Corn Flakes—served with milk or cream and a bit of fruit. Delicious, refreshing flakes . . . rich in energy . . . easily, quickly digested!

You feel so much keener, fitter, after a bowl of Kellogg's. Fine for lunch as well as breakfast. Splendid for children's suppers.

So convenient too. No cooking or trouble to serve. Always oven-fresh and flavor-perfect. The world's most popular ready-to-eat cereal twelve months out of the year! Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

END CITIZENSHIP OF CARDINAL, NAZI PAPER SUGGESTS

New Cult's Organ Assails Papal Legate.

BERLIN, March 9.—(AP)—A suggestion that the German citizenship of Cardinal Michael von Faulhaber, archbishop of Munich and a foremost opponent of Nazism, might be revoked was made today.

[Pope Pius two weeks ago bestowed the title of papal legate upon the cardinal, to prevent his possible arrest by minor Nazi officials. News of the appointment has not been published in Germany.]

The newspaper Reichswart, edited by Count Ernst von Reventlow, leader of the new German religious cult movement which has been attacked by Cardinal von Faulhaber and the Vatican City, today asked "How can a papal legate, that is a foreign diplomat, simultaneously remain a German citizen?"

If a report he had been appointed papal legate were founded, the newspaper said, his citizenship might be taken away.

Shots Fired at Palace.

Shots were fired at the cardinal's palace in Munich in January. They struck only a window, but the incident reverberated throughout Germany and in Vatican City.

Meanwhile the semi-official Nazi newspaper Diplomatische Korrespondenz dedicated an entire issue to relations of the third reich and the Catholic church.

"Foreign countries," it said, "ought to quit fabricating reports of friction between different creeds and Weltanschauungen (world philosophy) in Germany."

All Catholics and Protestants, it asserts, are backing Hitler with equal conviction and enthusiasm and "the Nazi state is doing all it can to save Catholic feelings from offense."

Motion Picture Suppressed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 9.—Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, Germany's minister of propaganda, today announced the prohibition of the English film "Catherine the Great" following last night's anti-Jewish demonstrations.

The first official announcement explained that the demonstration was evoked because of the participation of Elizabeth Bergner, the Jewish actress, and her husband, Paul Czinner, a stage manager, in the production. Thus any foreign motion picture is liable to rejection by Germany if any person of Jewish blood is connected in any way with its production.

The Nazi press describes "Catherine the Great" as an "emigrant film," ignoring the fact that Douglas Fairbanks Jr. fills one of the leading roles.

It claims the public does not desire to see the film. Actually, the advance reservations by motion picture fans eager to see their old favorites was so extraordinarily heavy that the film's suppression was the only means of preventing what probably would have been a record run.

The wave of anti-Semitism in the motion picture field is a sequel to the command of Dr. Goebbels for absolute exclusion of Jewish performers from German stages. The London Film company, which produced "Catherine the Great," is taking up the matter through diplomatic channels.

39 Socialists Sentenced.

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

DRESDEN, March 9.—The Emergency court of Saxony today sentenced 39 persons to prison terms ranging from six months to four years on charges of carrying on secret Socialist propaganda.

All were charged with having brought into Germany and circulated copies of the Neue Vorwaerts, a newspaper published in Prague by German Socialist émigrés as the successor of the erstwhile chief organ of the German Social Democratic party.

The former Socialist party's funds and bank balances of Socialist labor unions, running into millions of marks, all confiscated by the Nazi government, constitute as yet an unsolved legal problem. The Reich Labor court today quashed a suit against the Nazi Labor Front for an accounting or restitution of the money on the grounds that the Labor Front is in no sense a successor to the dissolved labor unions. The court ruled the Labor Front is a new creation and that, as former Socialist funds are being administered by the Labor Front, this constitutes a trusteeship without financial liability.

PRINCESS SPEAKS AT FASCIST RALLY IN AUSTRIA TODAY

Ileana Will Break a Hapsburg Tradition.

VIENNA, March 9.—(AP)—Princess Ileana of Rumania will break a Hapsburg tradition when she speaks at Moedling, Lower Austria, at a meeting tomorrow of Fascist Heimwehr members.

Her topic will be "Women in the Heimwehr Movement." Her husband, Archduke Anton of Haspburg, said he fully approves.

"I joined the Heimwehr Feb. 15, and my wife entered the movement March 1," he declared. "I am convinced the Heimwehr [or home guard] will achieve a great patriotic work."

No Ban on Hapsburg Topic.

It was said that this will be the first time that any Hapsburg housewife speaks at a political meeting.

Although newspapers are closely censored, there appears to be no ban on the house of Hapsburg topic. Their pages today continued to be devoted to dispatches from Paris, London, Brussels, and Budapest discussing the possibility of a restoration of the dynasty that once ruled Austria.

Feminine Vienna today made much of rumors that the throne room of the imperial palace was being renovated for the restoration. The fact is that workmen were seen going in and out of the palace, and photographers were refused admission.

Opinions differ as to whether the Heimwehr will hasten the restoration or delay it.

Prince Rudiger Ernst von Starhemberg, commander of the Heimwehr, would rather be regent for a few years in a kingless kingdom than merely have the honor of opening the door for the Hapsburgs.

Seek to Lift Ban on Hapsburgs.

However, the prince recently emphasized that he considered discussion of both a regency and a restoration to be "premature."

The Heimwehr, nevertheless, is clearly outspoken in favor of the revocation of the anti-Hapsburg laws.

Not only Von Starhemberg but other home guard leaders have repeatedly advocated an immediate lifting of the ban on Archduke Otto's and former Empress Zeta's return to Austria "as private individuals." Archduke Otto and his mother are now in exile in Belgium.

Reports, meanwhile, that Prince von Starhemberg is about to become a minister without portfolio were verified tonight in circles close to him to the extent that Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss and the prince's friends have been urging him to accept a ministerial post.

That Richard Steidle, now commissioner of propaganda, will become the minister of propaganda, however, is generally admitted to be likely. He, too, is a Heimwehr leader.

3 BIG BERLIN STORES REOPEN WITH ARYAN CLERKS; JEWS ARE OUT

BERLIN, March 9.—(AP)—Three big Berlin department stores formerly belonging to the Jewish merchant princes, the brothers Tietz, reopened after a reorganization today with only "Christian" clerks. The stores were recently sold by the Tietz chain. Their new name is "Union Ltd.," and, it was explained, the capital is "purely Christian."

The dissolution of the Tietz chain, the largest in Germany, is continuing. The company retains three other mercantile establishments in Berlin, but the closing of its big Dresden department store was announced yesterday.

What remains of the chain is only nominally in the hands of the Tietz family, which was forced from the directorship in a reorganization last year under Nazi auspices. The fact that the three Berlin stores were reopened indicated that the Nazis abandoned their idea of abolishing department stores altogether or converting them into markets with stands run by small tradespeople.

Only last week the Nazi party issued instructions forbidding storm troopers in uniform or members wearing party pins to patronize department stores.

SPAIN SUSPENDS 56 PAPERS; SHUTS RADICAL OFFICES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, March 9.—Rafael Salazar Alonso, energetic young minister of interior, wasted no time today in using the dictatorial powers given him under the "state of alarm." With one sweeping order he suspended four extremist daily newspapers and 52 weeklies.

He also closed the headquarters of right and left extremist organizations. The organizations were the Fascist Phalanx, the anarchistic National Labor federation, the Socialistic Youth, and the communist party. All their Madrid offices were padlocked.

In connection with the banning of the newspapers, the government gave Madrid's hundreds of newsboys something to worry about. In the future they will not be allowed to shout the name of the paper they are selling. They may cry merely "evening paper," or "morning paper." The ruling was imposed to prevent fights between sellers of rival political papers, which were developing into a veritable outdoor sport.

400,000 Germans Get Jobs; Total of Idle Is 3,374,000

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 9.—About 400,000 unemployed Germans found work during February, it was announced today. The total number of unemployed has been reduced to 3,374,000. This is the lowest figure since the Nazis assumed power, and is 2,630,000 less than a year ago. The improvement is due chiefly to mild weather, allowing expansion of building activities and to the public works program, including road construction and land reclamation.

SIX MONTHS FOR LARCENY.

Emery Hess, 19 years old, 1313 Cleveland street, Evanston, in whose home Evanston police found a stolen motorcycle and automobile parts, was sentenced to six months in the county jail for larceny yesterday by Municipal Judge James M. Corcoran in Evanston.

PARIS SEEKS BIG WAR CHEST FOR AIR, LAND, SEA

Bill Asks Bond Issue of $195,000,000.

PARIS, March 9.—(AP)—A bond issue of three billion francs—$195,000,000—was sought by the French government today to make France invincible in the air and on land and water.

Special emphasis was placed on the "necessity" of a strong air fleet in a bill introduced in parliament seeking expenditures in addition to the regular budget.

A flat refusal to disarm "while Germany is rearming" was contained in the measure. This declaration was published by the foreign office and sent to Geneva, Berlin, and London.

Big Air Fleet Sought.

"An air fleet of the first magnitude and capable of getting into action instantaneously," was called for in the rigid French defense program. Authorization was asked by the government to reorganize the air force, to strengthen the coastal defense, and to spend a third of the appropriation asked on the army.

(In London Thursday the British undersecretary for air told parliament that Great Britain has concluded she must "have parity in the air."

The bill said France was using 1923 materials which were "now obsolete."

The navy asks 595,000,000 francs ($39,675,000) for various purposes, including 80,000,000 francs for coast defense and 150,000,000 francs for hydroplane bases.

For airplanes of "quality instead of quantity" the air minister seeks 980,000,000 francs ($65,700,000).

Will Visit Brussels.

Louis Barthou, foreign minister, in an effort to strengthen political defenses at the same time the general staff is pushing the armament program, announced he would go to Brussels soon to discuss the German situation with Paul Hymans, the Belgian foreign minister.

In this connection it was said that the French allies in the little entente—Rumania, Czechoslovakia, Jugo-Slavia—are uneasy over the recent pessimistic speech of Baron Charles de Broqueville, Belgian premier, in which he said the former world war allies could do nothing to halt German rearmament and might well recognize that as an accomplished fact.

French statesmen feel the Belgian premier's statement weakens their bargaining power.

Barthou will try to realign the premier, it was said.

Disarm Hopes Fading.

GENEVA, March 9.—(AP)—Amid fast fading hopes of disarmament, the league of nations tonight awaited a new French memorandum to Great Britain to determine whether there are last minute chances to save the world disarmament conference. France, it was forecast, will insist upon guarantees that coercive measures will be taken against a nation found guilty of violation of projected treaties.

The dream of disarmament received another jolt with publication by the league today simultaneously in Geneva, London, Paris, and Berlin of documents bearing on the situation.

"Nobody believes," said a German memorandum of Dec. 18, 1933, to France, "any longer in the possibility of a general international disarmament." Germany "is entitled to obtain equality of treatment as regards her own security," the note said.

TWO BRITISH WOMEN SEIZED; AIDED VICTIMS OF AUSTRIAN REVOLT

VIENNA, March 9.—(AP)—Mrs. C. E. Waddington, the second cousin of the earl of Harewood, and Miss E. Leacock, both British subjects, were arrested in the Floridsdorf workers' section today while distributing money to civil war victims.

Upon their release after a three hour questioning, they protested to the British legation.

Mrs. Waddington, through her child in a Vienna kindergarten, learned of a number of families in distress. Her visits to working class districts aroused the suspicion of police that she was spreading propaganda, authorities said.

DIES OF HEART ATTACK.

Mrs. Frances Lehl, 72 years old, 4600 Kelso avenue, died of a heart attack in her home last evening, a few minutes after she had returned home from shopping.

GRUBER GRANTED CHANGE OF VENUE FOR FRAUD TRIAL

Louis W. Gruber, 34 years old, former purchasing agent for the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company, won a change of venue yesterday before Judge Michael Feinberg in the Criminal court on a charge of obtaining signatures to fraudulent written instruments. According to Assistant State's Attorney James A. Brown, Gruber defrauded the company of large sums by an ingenious scheme of account switching.

The case was immediately reassigned by Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan to Judge James F. Hardy, who set March 16 for the hearing of motions and fixing of the trial date. Gruber, a fugitive for a short time, surrendered Feb. 15 and has been in jail since, unable to furnish $10,000 bond.

Gruber was accompanied by his sister, Miss Cecilia Gruber of Union City, Ia.

"Give me liberty, or give me death!"
—Patrick Henry.

"YOU AIN'T SEEN NOTHIN' YET."

"I am a soldier by training and inclination," said Gen. Johnson. "I think this is war."

"If I may lapse into the vernacular," said Gen. Johnson, "'You ain't seen nothin' yet.'"

In those few sentences Gen. Johnson unwittingly exposed the whole case against himself. The struggle to overcome the depression is a struggle, but it is not war in any sensible use of the word. To call it war, reason about it as if it were war, and apply to it the methods and strategies of war is to go wildly astray.

The essence of war is coercion. Force is employed against the enemy. In the struggle against the depression the enemy is not a nation in arms. The enemy is that wholly impersonal thing, an intricate economic maladjustment which every one the world over would like to correct as quickly as possible. Nevertheless, the soldier-by-inclination must have personal enemies even though he has to find them in his own ranks; and having found them, he must employ against them the weapons of force and coercion.

Industry has never prospered and never will prosper under a military dictatorship or a reign of terror. Gen. Johnson threatens both. He will impose new and more severe restrictions. He will impose them with new and more severe penalties for infraction. He hints broadly that those who do not accept dictation will be made to suffer. The Code Eagle which is to replace the Blue Eagle is to be a more rapacious bird.

Gen. Johnson could profit from the reading of history. He would find, for example, that under the French reign of terror business and industry collapsed. He would find also that Spain was backward industrially precisely because of the long years of dictatorship through which she passed, years which discouraged business enterprise.

Business flourishes, wages are highest and employment is largest when the fewest restrictions are placed upon initiative and enterprise. Gen. Johnson himself called attention to the fact, long since noted by more intelligent observers, that unemployment is greatest in the capital goods industries. These industries are laggard precisely because of fear of what the future portends. Buildings are not being built and machinery is not being purchased because of fear of what the government will do. These fears are not wholly fanciful. What the government—including Gen. Johnson—has done already and what Gen. Johnson now threatens to do in the immediate future cannot fail to increase the sense of insecurity. In such an atmosphere recovery must be slow even though the government give away billion after billion.

Agriculture somehow manages to survive the kind of coercion which destroys industry. In the face of threats factory output can be curtailed and factories can be closed. If threats do not succeed in shutting factory gates, arbitrary requirements to raise prices or increase costs may. That is the goal toward which Gen. Johnson is headed in his military attack upon a nonmilitary objective.

LENIN COMES DOWN.

The recent rumpus over the Lenin portrait in the Rivera fresco in Radio City continues to remind us that there would be fewer rumpuses in our affairs if there were more humor. Even Rivera, who, we had hoped at first, cherished his contribution as a practical joke, seems to be taking the affair seriously and talking about the rights of an artist, the bourgeois ideology, etc., etc. But the leading rôles in the comedy are, of course, whoever is responsible for the removal of Lenin's countenance from the mural and Mr. Sloan and other passionate protestants in the name of art. Mr. Sloan declares the Independent Artists will boycott Radio City, a staggering blow to the ambitious enterprise, and announces to a horrified world that the destruction of the Lenin mural is "premeditated art murder." It might be suggested to Mr. Sloan that when a painter's political prepossessions are inserted in a work of art neither the artist nor any one else can complain if it is dealt with as politics as well as art. If Mr. Rivera has rights as a creative artist, he has no right to impose his politics under cover of his esthetic claims. He was employed to contrive a mural decoration, not to produce a monument to his own political notions. He knew these were obnoxious to those whose money he accepted, and while he might condone his act as an unimportant expression of his contempt for his bourgeois employers, a sardonic joke, since he and his admirers take the matter seriously it might be explained to them that his joke was a breach of faith, in fact a cheat. No doubt this is bourgeois ideology, or capitalist morality, or something equally condemnable, but as to the rights of art, the artist who makes his art a vehicle for his politics cannot complain if his work is taken for what he intended it to be. Rivera's rights as an artist have nothing to do with his politics. His portrait of Lenin may be a work of art, but he did not paint it in as a work of art but as a work of politics.

But why all the fuss about it? Lenin, after all, was one of the conspicuous figures of his time, and while Rivera's likeness may seem to democratic Americans somewhat too sympathetically presented it can hardly have been hoped even by the most ardent communist that its presence in Radio City would undermine the republic. The controversy over it has been good publicity for all concerned and a mountain has been made of a mole hill.

PROMOTION OF FOREIGN TRADE.

Although THE TRIBUNE cannot think it necessary or wise to endow the executive with unrestricted authority to make tariff bargains with foreign governments, it is good news that the President has taken up with important members of the administration the question of foreign trade policy, which THE TRIBUNE has been advocating, harping on, and campaigning for since last Christmas. Although among his leading advisers are men who are preoccupied with domestic conditions and hold that foreign trade promotion should be postponed to a later stage of the program of recovery, other advisers, notably Secretary of State Hull, an authority on the tariff, hold otherwise, and we hope their influence will prevail.

THE TRIBUNE is convinced that the earliest practicable opening up of foreign markets to American commodities is not only finally essential to American recovery but is urgently demanded. It has expressed this conviction in as practical a form as is available to a newspaper by directing all its foreign correspondents to inquire into the possibilities of American trade in their own territory and has also sent well equipped investigators to make special report from the more important and promising fields. The response to this effort, both from foreign countries and from our own business men, has been encouraging and we hope the President will help us to make this new public service as widely and substantially useful as possible. THE TRIBUNE is ready to give all possible coöperation in the policy of foreign trade promotion, which we trust the President will establish and foster with characteristic vigor, for it is confident that nothing could be more conducive to recovery than the reëstablishment and energetic promotion of our commerce with other nations. This does not call for the surrender by congress of its constitutional participation in treaty making.

ARMY AIR MAIL DEATHS.

President Roosevelt has recommended the restoration of the air mail carrying to commercial companies, suggesting legislation for the regulation of contracts and the companies themselves, but meanwhile the army flyers continue to suffer the consequences of Postmaster General Farley's abrupt cancelation.

Since Feb. 16 ten deaths in the army air force have been caused by the requirements of the postoffice assigning the army flyers to unfamiliar service without sufficient experience or adequate equipment. A pilot crashed yesterday in Ohio and an army private flying with the pilot of a bomber mail plane was killed in Florida. Last night two army mail flyers were killed near Cheyenne, Wyo., when their plane struck a power line.

Although the army does not refuse responsibility for these casualties, it is clear to every one else that the assignment to the postoffice air service took so little account of the unfamiliar hazards that the consequences were inevitable. It is remarked that there have been commercial air accidents in this same time of bad weather, but commercial air mail carrying does not present any such record as that of the army flyers since Feb. 16. The reasons are not discreditable to the army flyers. The congressional and departmental politicians took snap judgment. The flyers had to take the chances. If the army planes had been carrying passengers as the commercial planes do, the casualties would have been much higher.

The men have died in the line of duty, courageously attempting service for which they had been neither prepared nor equipped and attempting it in the worst season of the year. The plans contemplated for the restoration to commercial companies will require speeding up. There should be no more temporizing with this situation. A political mistake has been made. It has been in part confessed. It needs immediate and complete remedy to put the experienced pilots back on the job of flying the mails. They should not have been taken off it.

ARMS AND THE MAN.

Henry Ford now has hit upon the idea that wars are caused by the greed of munition manufacturers—an idea gray with age long before the flivver first was used as an army ambulance or the tractor for hauling a fieldpiece. "Guns are made to kill with," argues Mr. Ford in support of Senator Borah's attack on the naval program, ignoring the well established fact that guns also are made for the purpose of defense. "Nations purchasing cannon and battleships purchase them for the purpose of attack, not for playthings," he says, losing sight of the possibly parallel case of the law-abiding citizen who keeps a pistol to protect his home against burglars. If there were no burglar nations in the whole world, then Mr. Ford might be right. Remove the burglar nation's guns and it still would spew its raiding hordes over the weaker peoples. Scythians, Turks, and even early Nipponese, all expert bowmen, performed exceptionally well at war before the days of guns and gunpowder. Before bows it was spears and sticks and stones, back to the very dawn of man. This is no brief for the munition makers, but why transfer the blame for war from the human race to a handful of fellows who appeared upon the scene figuratively only yesterday?

ANOTHER SEA SERPENT.

[Peoria Transcript.]

Not to be outdone by canny Scots who advertised a sea monster at Loch Ness, the French now have a sea monster of their own. The strange beast, fish or fowl, was opportunely washed ashore in Normandy just in time for the beginning of the tourist season.

The French, however, are more scientific than their Celtic cousins across the channel. They describe the sea serpent as an animal about 25 feet long and 4½ feet in diameter, with a thin neck three feet long and a head like that of a camel.

Now, this is a good description of the antediluvian family of plesiosauri which inhabited the seas around the coast of England and France many centuries ago. Scientists who have found complete fossil remains describe the plesiosaurus as a reptile with a body like a whale, a long and flexible neck, and a head like an alligator.

Some authorities insist that the plesiosauri are not altogether extinct and that a few which still exist give rise to recurrent stories of sea serpents. Baron Cuvier and his brother, famous French naturalists, who studied fossil remains in the Liassic seas of England and Europe, hinted at this theory. The details and description, together with the supposition that a few exist, are available in any good encyclopedia in all languages.

Enterprising but unscrupulous persons might "find" a sea serpent in this country. The skeleton of one was uncovered some years ago in Kansas. This might be offered as scientific evidence that there is a sea serpent in Lake Bloomington, Lake Springfield, or even Lake Peoria, and divert the tourist trade to Illinois.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

HENRY FORD SAYS the world is run by dissatisfied people. And he proves his case by saying that if Mr. Roosevelt had not been dissatisfied with things as they were he would not have attempted Herculean experiments to improve 'em. And if Henry himself had not been dissatisfied with gasoline buggies he would not have brought Lizzie up to be a lady. And we could take Henry's theme and go on multiplying it endlessly. But does dissatisfaction always produce the happiest results? If Mrs. O'Leary's cow had not been dissatisfied with her bran mash, or whatever it was she had for supper, she would not have kicked over the lamp and burned down Chicago. If John Dillinger had not been dissatisfied with having prosecuting attorneys put their arms around his shoulder and not getting paté de foie gras and champagne for breakfast he would have stayed quietly in the dear old jail down at Crown Point and today we wouldn't have half the population of Indiana shaking their fingers at the other half and saying, "It's all your fault!" And sometimes it seems that Gen. Johnson is a wee bit dissatisfied at Henry. And it is rumored that Henry himself does not always emit peals of hearty laughter when NRA is mentioned. And there you are! But where are you?

TACKLE BOX.

A Tackle Box is a magic thing
That holds a world of sunlit dreams;
The flash and leap of trout and bass,
The spangled lure of mountain streams.
Out of the box a world can come—
A queer Witch-land of Hackle flies,
Of Hellgramites with dangling hooks,
And Polliwogs with bulging eyes,
A world of Shiners, Spools, and Spinners,
Of monstrous bugs with Jungle wings,
Of gruesome Bucktailed Fuzzy-wuzzies,
And gut-suspended Grizzly Kings.

A Tackle Box is a magic thing,
Of knotted lines and puzzling crooks.
It holds the spell of boyhood days,
The lure of sinkers, reels, and hooks!

I SAW A PHOTOGRAPH in a paper yesterday that gave me an awful shock. Can't remember now whether she was a college showgirl, a socialite, a society style model, movie queen, Miss Roaring Gulch, Nevada, 1934 radio prima donna; Three Oaks, Mich., Junior leaguer, or what; the marvelous thing was she had her mouth shut! Gosh! What's the matter? Must have had all her teeth pulled out or something.

"EMPEROR PICKS Commoner for Bride."—Headline. "Swedish Prince and Commoner Bride Hie Forth on Honeymoon."—Another one. And when kings and emperors and grand dukes and princes are glad to get jobs these days running elevators, acting as doormen for swanky hotels and washing automobiles it would seem that that word "commoner" ought to have a bit more class to it than it used to. The "commoner" is usually the one that's got the money and the commoner they are the more money they've got. Some day the newspapers will wake up to the fact that the world has changed. Kings that have been fired from their jobs and princes and dukes and marquises will be so common that a regular commoner won't have anything to do with 'em unless it's to hire 'em for butlers or housemen.

SINGING BOY.

Now for better, now for worse,
He moves you men among.
Now with laughter, now with curse
And music on his tongue.

A sweeter song, a simpler rhyme,
Is all he wishes for.
Come summer or come winter time
He never wanted more.

He pities all who cannot sing
Or put their hearts to words.
He only loves the minstrel spring
And envies none but birds.

Now he is married to the ground
Below where heavens are.
But he will climb the cloudy mound
And sing beside a star.

HOW'S YOUR LIVER?

THE medical fraternity has a complex on the liver and especially on torpid liver. When a patient appears in a physician's office and begins to talk about his liver being torpid he is liable to head into stormy weather. The physician may indulge in abuse, if he is of that type, or he may indulge in ridicule if he is of another type. Whatever track he takes he is apt to impress his patient with the notion that the doctor does not think highly of torpid liver.

The reason for the reaction is the general prevalence of loose talk about the liver. Almost all of those who complain about torpid liver have the constipation habit. Many of them are accustomed to taking calomel to stir up the liver an slight provocation. Physicians know that 90 per cent of the calomel used as a remedy is not necessary and much of it does more harm than good. They think that however valuable calomel is when properly taken, it is valueless when improperly taken, and there is no evidence that it "stirs up the liver."

A large part of those who come to see physicians for torpid liver and biliousness really need to see themselves. They need to know that what they need is to eat and drink less and to work and exercise more—and that information they should be able to get at home. In fact, all that is required is a willingness to face the facts and to act upon them. This is the purpose in mind when physicians belittle the liver. What they say is far from representing their views on the importance of the liver, from the standpoint of the bodily welfare.

This is about the largest and the heaviest organ in the body, and, for certain of the bodily functions, it is the most important. Ordinarily, we think of it in terms of the bile and only that. As a matter of fact, the bile is, in the main, a waste product. It has something to do with the absorption of fats, with the secretion of some digestive juices, and with stimulating the wormlike movements of the intestinal tube, but, beyond these activities—and they are of secondary importance—the bile is nothing more than a body waste.

The most important part of the liver work has to do with the secretion of the stomach juices and the manufacture of blood. Discovery of means of curing pernicious anæmia, using the word cure in a certain sense, has taught us much about the liver. It may be principally at fault in pellagra, and the use of liver in the diet and liver extract as a medicine is an important part of the treatment of this disease. Knowledge that the liver has so much to do with the secretion of the stomach juices teaches us why so much of the old fashioned dyspepsia is in reality nothing more than a symptom of infected gall bladder or gall stones. It also teaches that infected gall bladder and gall stones may be neglected long enough to seriously cripple the liver.

The liver has much to do with the body's disposal of sugars and fats. In the treatment of diabetes the condition of the liver must be studied.

LET HER GO TO BED.

M. R. writes: We are the parents of a 3 year old girl and are being driven to distraction. It seems that whenever the occasion arises that the child is not put to bed at 7 o'clock she begins to cry persistently. Neither kindness nor severe punishment can stop this constant crying, which persists sometimes for hours. Can you suggest anything?

REPLY.

Put her to bed at 7. That is the easy way to meet that problem.

CHILD HAS WORMS.

1. Could you tell me why a child of 18 months has worms?
2. Just what are the symptoms?
3. What is the cure?

REPLY.

1. If the child has worms it is because he puts worms in his mouth with his soiled hands or he eats foods that carry worm eggs.
2. About the only dependable symptom is finding worms or worm eggs.
3. There are many worm medicines on the market. All of them are reasonably good. This includes the worm candies.

I understand that March 10 has been set as the final date delinquent taxes can be paid to avoid sale. 3. I have been given to understand that property could not be sold for real estate taxes if better than 50 per cent of the taxes were paid within grace period. R. C. K.

1. Yes.
2. Of course there is a different sale day for each year's taxes.
3. There is no such rule. No part payment will protect the debtor, but part payment plus the filing of legal objections may postpone sale. We suggest that you inquire at the collector's office.

Will I be able to secure a title by sending to Springfield, or must I apply personally here in Chicago? R. R.

1. You already have title to the car. We see no object in securing a certificate without the license, but if you wish to do this, you should take the matter up with the secretary of state, Springfield.
2. Yes.

In general, where the owner of goods delivers them to a person who is to perform labor upon them, if such person fails to return them the burden rests on him to prove that he is not to blame for their loss or destruction. In More v. Fisher, 245 Ill. App., 567, for example, decided in October, 1927, the court held that it was not enough for a cleaner to prove that the truck in which the garments were being delivered was stolen, since leaving the truck unguarded was negligence chargeable to the cleaner and the owner recovered value of the garments. MEMEL [Klaipeda], Little Lithuania.—Lithuania's new constitutional laws adopted last year by the present dictatorship are a direct violation of the Memel statutes and practically cancel the autonomy of the Memel district, according to the German leaders. They have appealed to the league of nations for protection. The Memel statutes signed by representatives of Lithuania, Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan in 1924 specifically guarantee the inhabitants a democratic government with legislative, judicial, administrative, and financial autonomy.

Legislative autonomy has been curtailed and interfered with by the Lithuanian military commander of the Memel district, the Germans charge. They complain they are under martial law.

Judicial autonomy has been nullified by a new law promulgated by the dictatorship. It stipulates that the decisions of Memel courts, formerly final, may be reviewed by the Lithuanian Supreme court. This complicates judicial procedure because Memel has the laws of the former German empire while the Lithuanian law is based on that of the former Russian empire.

Administrative autonomy has been curtailed. Kaunas has also refused to recognize Memel's financial autonomy. Memel officials complain that while Lithuania controls the harbor, post, telegraph, telephone and railroad services, which are revenue producers, they have not received a proper share of this revenue. The officials control education, social welfare and other branches of government which consume revenue. Consequently their government is constantly short of funds.

Although both the German and Lithuanian languages are supposed to enjoy equal rights, a number of incidents have occurred to provoke ill feeling between the two nationalities. The telephone book is published in Lithuanian. Recently postal authorities returned all mail deposited at the postoffice to the senders. They were told to address the letters in Lithuanian. The right of free assembly has been curtailed and a branch of the Lithuanian political police is functioning. It sends officials to meetings of local clubs and societies suspected of disloyalty. The German press of Memel is censored after publication and large fines are imposed for allegedly disloyal articles.

Recently Lithuanian residents of Memel decided to celebrate the 11th anniversary of the occupation of the city by Lithuanian troops. The Memeler Dampfboot, the largest local newspaper, published a single paragraph under the headline "Celebration of the Occupation of Memel." For this offense the military commander, Col. Raimundas Liormonas, fined the editor $500.

Col. Liormonas explained his action by saying that the Lithuanians were celebrating the "unification of Little Lithuania with Great Lithuania" and the term "occupation" was not permissible.

The colonel has evidence to show that the German Nazi movement is spreading in the Memel district and is obtaining funds from Germany. He said that the local population is willing to coöperate with Lithuania, but that the Nazi organizations were introducing the salute "Heil, Hitler!" which Lithuania regarded as treasonable.

"Therefore we are severe in repressing this disloyal element," Col. Liormonas said. "We are forbidding their meetings and confiscating their propaganda. Until the Nazi movement is wiped out there can be no question of loosening our control of the situation."

THE FARMER AS EXPORTER.

Chicago, March 6.—I wish to add a word of commendation to your recent efforts in promoting a greater export trade on American products.

We had during the fall and early winter abnormally heavy receipts of hogs. With a normal export trade on pork, prices would not have been depressed as they were. Lower consumer purchasing power has also been an important factor in this price decline.

I don't know of anything that would help the farmers of the middle west more than a larger export trade on pork. We have, in this area, a soil and climate particularly well adapted to the production of corn, which is largely depended upon to produce pork. Corn, with a relatively small amount of some protein supplement, is capable of producing pork at a lower cost than any other combination of foods. We can, therefore, produce pork more economically in the corn belt of the United States than it can be produced in any similar area of the world.

Instead of holding back the development of an industry for which we are particularly well adapted, we should make every effort possible to expand our foreign trade on pork, taking in return certain commodities that can be produced more economically in Europe than in the United States. Our pork exports are being held down by foreign tariffs and quotas to the great detriment of hog production in this country.

It is greatly to be hoped that reciprocal arrangements will be made whereby we can develop to a still greater extent our natural resources in this particular. H. R. SMITH.

TAXING THE MOTORIST.

Chicago, March 7.—They are not only making the fellow who drives a car feed the unemployed, but now they are trying to force him to pay the poor starving teachers. For heaven's sake, when is this gas tax diversion going to stop? When the gasoline tax law was passed the motoring public did not object because nice, wide roads and superhighways were promised in return for this tax. We have waited patiently for these improvements, but the promises were only political promises, and the gas tax was used for practically every purpose save the purpose for which it was legislated. This last attempt by the teachers to grab off a share of the gas tax should be discouraged, and if by chance they are successful in diverting this special tax then the motorists will revolt, and justly so, as they have been suckers long enough and are now thoroughly aroused. INTOXICATION INDEX.

Chicago, March 1.—My experience as a street car conductor might be of interest to your readers. As nearly as I can estimate, I had about three times as many drunks on my car last summer when the 3.2 per cent beer came back as I had previous to that. And now, since whisky and the old saloon came back, I have about four to five times as many drunks on my car as I had during prohibition days.

SEAWAY FRIENDS LAUNCH DRIVE TO RATIFY TREATY

Center Attack in Senate on Illinois Opposition.

BY JOHN HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 9.—[Special.]—Proponents of the St. Lawrence seaway treaty with Canada centered their attack in senate debate today upon the objection of Mississippi valley senators to the treaty's limitation of the Chicago sanitary district diversion with its consequent threat to navigation on the Illinois-Mississippi waterway. The senate will vote on ratification of the treaty next Wednesday.

As his high card, Foreign Relations Committee Chairman Key Pittman [Dem., Nev.], in charge of the treaty, presented an opinion by Maj. Gen. E. M. Markham, chief of army engineers, declaring that the Chicago diversion was unnecessary to maintain navigation upon the waterways of the Mississippi system.

Cites Markham's Opinion.

In a letter to Senator Pittman, Gen. Markham admitted that the decree of the Supreme court, which is embraced and made a point of international agreement in the treaty, would have the effect of cutting the flow from Lake Michigan into the Illinois waterway from 9,965 cubic feet a second to 3,200 cubic feet a second, or a loss of 6,765 cubic feet a second.

"It has never been," Gen. Markham's letter said, "the view of this department that the diversion of water from the Great Lakes into the Chicago drainage canal is an essential factor in the present and future development of the interior waterways system formed by the Mississippi river and it's tributaries.

"The initial action to restrict the diversion was taken by this department in 1907 because of the injury to navigation on the great lakes resulting from the lowering of their levels by reason of the diversion. Subsequently certain states of the union brought action in the Supreme court to restrain the diversion to prevent injury to their citizens and the present decree is a result of the latter action.

"Diversion Limit Inevitable."

"I need not point out to you that even were the present treaty not ratified, a due regard for the interests and rights of these states will impel a proper restriction of the diversion. The interests of our own citizens, aside from any consideration of the treaty, will presumably always limit the diversion of water from the great lakes into the Mississippi river system to that essential to the public need.

"Our inland waterway system is not dependent on the great lakes for its water supply. The flow of our great interior rivers, with such conservation as may be necessary, is ample to provide for their maximum development for navigation.

"The major tributaries of the river, the Ohio and the Missouri, as well as the Mississippi itself above the mouth of the Illinois, have been or are being developed for modern barge navigation with their own water resources. The portion of the main stem of the Mississippi, below the mouth of the Illinois, and the link with the great lakes formed by the Illinois river itself, are alone affected by the diversion."

"Larger Amount Not Needed."

Navigation needs on the Illinois river, Gen. Markham declared, would be met by the replacement of two inadequate locks and dams by modern structures, and the erection of a lock and dam at Alton on the Mississippi below the mouth of the Illinois.

"No public need of navigation therefore exists for a larger diversion so far as navigation on the Illinois is concerned," the general's letter asserted, and he claimed that this would apply not only to a nine foot channel, but also to any future increase in depth found advisable.

The construction at Fort Peck on the headwaters of the Missouri river of a huge storage dam, work on which had already begun with PWA funds, Gen. Markham said, would supply three times the amount of water to the low water flow of the lower Mississippi that is now supplied by the 7,000 cubic second feet from the Illinois.

"Looking into the future," Gen. Markham said, "the demand must be foreseen for deeper and more commodious channels in our interior waterways, but these channels can be provided without the diversion of water from the great lakes. The Fort Peck dam is, however, but a beginning in the possibilities in the conservation of the water resources of the Mississippi. The available water supply with proper conservation is ample for any future needs of navigation without drawing upon the great lakes.

"Amply Provided For."

"This department has committed itself fully and whole-heartedly to the improvement of our great interior waterways system and it would be its duty to present fully to congress the need for augmenting the water supply of the Mississippi by diversion from the great lakes, if this supply were necessary to the present and future development of the Mississippi river system.

"It does not regard a diversion greater than that provided in the Supreme court decree as necessary for that purpose, and is cognizant of the injury to navigation and related interests on the great lakes that would result from any excessive diversion of water through the Chicago Drainage canal."

Senator Pittman offered the letter, he said, as proof that the fears of Mississippi valley senators were "unfounded."

Another group of opponents, particularly the two New York senators, were sought to be answered in a letter from Mayor La Guardia of New York solicited and presented by Senator Robert M. La Follette [Rad., Wis]. Mayor La Guardia wrote that New York City would stand to benefit greatly through the cheap power to be developed on the St. Lawrence, either directly or through the effect of this government competition in driving down the rates of private power companies. And he believed that any ocean traffic taken away from the port of New York would be compensated for by an increase coastal traffic from the great lakes.

SATURDAY NEWS OF NEW BOOKS

Eric Linklater Has Scotland for His Locale

New Novel Follows Style of "Juan in America."

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

TODAY there reaches us after a triumphal conquest of England Eric Linklater's "Magnus Merriman." [Farrar & Rinehart]. His "Juan in America" of all of those fancy knife hurling literary stunts of visiting foreigners more skilfuly outlined the form of American thought and action without snipping off an ear or a finger than any of the recent "interpretive" novels.

In "Magnus Merriman" Mr. Linklater does something of the same sort of thing about Scotland that he did about us in "Juan in America" . . . with the difference that in the new book Magnus as a man is more important than Scotland [or the Orkney isles], whereas America as a background was much more important than the hero who cavorted before it.

Gay, at Times Hilarious, Tale.

Magnus is the author of a successful but slightly naughty novel as the book opens. As it closes he is the author of a potential Greek scholar, aged five. The journey between those peaks of creation fills a gay and, at times, hilarious tale.

Some Americans will find the laughs in "Magnus Merriman" a trifle "Buy British," but nobody in any language, including the Scandinavian, can miss the swashbuckling farce of the argument between Magnus and Meiklejohn over the relative virtues of Shakespeare and Racine as poets, an argument which began in their cups and ended in the first round before a judge and in the second in a week-end as guests of the law.

Magnus' adventure as a candidate for parliament, his essays in dalliance, his excursions into the fields of popular journalism, his exhuberance with life fill 376 hilarious pages.

Novelist Is Cabell Hero.

The hero of yet another novel published this week is a novelist . . . "Smirt" of James Branch Cabell's, excuse me, Branch Cabell's latest opus with that epically commonplace name. Mr. Cabell, as you remember, wrote a farewell to literature at the age of fifty, declaring that after the half century mark few men had anything worth putting on paper. When the urge to be about his natural business of writing books overcame his philosophical deductions about years and novel writing, Mr. Cabell calmly reappeared as Branch Cabell. That one naturally still calls him James Branch Cabell is due to the fact that "Smirt" is as little different from the novels of James Branch Cabell as pea number four differs from pea number two in a well populated pod.

In "Smirt" [McBride] there is the same satire overlaid with Mr. Cabell's medievally ornate prose style that characterized the whole intricate [and oftentimes supremely beautiful] Dom Manuel series. There are, however, in "Smirt" more flights of empirical thought than of erotic fancy.

"Smirt" purports to be the excursion into an adult wonderland of thought of a novel writing male Alice, and it is as good a springboard as any for Mr. Cabell to choose to hurl his hero into the space of ideas and the wonderland of speculation. The only difficulty is that of late dreaming is no longer a private practice to which any man or woman is quietly addicted.

The technique of dreaming and the wonderland of the interpretation of dreams has become as thoroughly and minutely mapped as the loop of Chicago on the plat of a highly detailed guide book. One dreams haphazardly, never, even with Smirt's equipment, exactly. "Smirt's" dream is too ordered, too regimented. Smirt's excursions into the ether would have been quite as amusing, as smart and as alluring if they hadn't been labeled and they wouldn't seem in the least incongruous . . . we all accepted the eighteen Dom Manuel volumes as flights into fancy without their being called dreams.

Second of Horan Panel.

"It's Later Than You Think," by our fellow townswoman, Kenneth Horan [Ballou], also has an artist for principal character . . . an internationally famous pianist, but there is about the story of one summer in her life nothing of the hilarity of Magnus Merriman's saga, nothing of the satiric cynicism of Smirt's dreams, nothing really of the heroine as artist, but much of the heroine as woman.

In this, the second panel of what Kenneth Horan intends shall be a panoramic picture of American life in a typical smallish city among typically educated, intelligent and attractive people, the loves of a man and a woman for each other, for their children, and for their careers have their fruition. Mrs. Horan has looked upon those conflicts with sophistication and has set them down with charm. "It's Later Than You Think" has a simplicity and delicacy which have nothing of starkness nor weakness about them. It is reality set down in the good taste and the gentle honesty of the characters which lived it. "It's Later Than You Think" is so much better than her first novel, "The Longest Night," and so self-sufficient in its cameo-like clarity of style and theme, that it really has no dependence upon its predecessor.

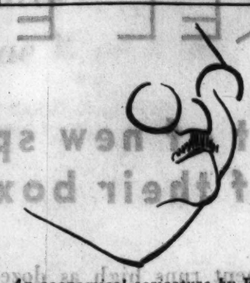
New Wit by Woollcott.

To be labeled the greatest wit of one's day would be, I should think, like meeting Peggy Joyce . . . it isn't the original cost, it's the upkeep that's depleting. Alexander Woollcott [who missed a very good bet when he didn't sign himself Wwoollccoott] bears for many on his ample and manly torso the sandwich board proclaiming his incomparable wit.

If the happy practice of dueling had not gone out the Magnus Merrimans of New York might well be shooting the Meiklejohns full of holes over the extent and degree of Woollcott's wit. As it is, there is a good deal of miscellaneous word sniping about him and his preëminence. Those of us in the sticks can now know what all the shootin's about, because there have just been collected between covers Mr. Woollcott's latest chits and chats about this and that, from his "neighbors" who are mostly literary and amusing to ladies and gentlemen who have become classics of the art of murder.

In between Mr. Woollcott's ideas touch upon the drama, A Century of Progress Exposition and practically every known phase of life and death. "While Rome Burns" [Viking] is as witty as a pair of newspaper clipping scissors is keen and as humorous as a crutch. In a word, it explains by precept as few have been able to explain by example the difference between wit and humor.

THE PROOF



An economical caricature by William Auerbach-Levy of Alexander Woollcott, called by his devotees "the greatest wit of the day." "While Rome Burns," a collection of proofs of that assertion is Mr. Woollcott's first book in six years.

Last Novel of Stella Benson to Be Published

Work Not Quite Complete at Her Death.

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON.—[Special Correspondence.]—Before her greatly regretted death last year Miss Stella Benson had nearly completed a very long novel upon which she had been engaged for several months. It is not yet known how near completion the book was, but it is hoped before long to publish the considerable fragment, along with other uncollected material.

It seems as though the moderns were to be assailed without stint from now onwards. Not only have we had in the last two or three months several noteworthy attacks—I have already referred to the severe criticism of T. S. Eliot's last book, and the book by John Sparrow called "Sense and Poetry"—but a new book of even broader scope and greater vigor has been written by Ivor Brown under the title, "I Commit to the Flames" [Hamish Hamilton].

Mr. Brown burns the modern poets, the sex fanatics, the lovers of all crude forms of art, and, finally, he burns D. H. Lawrence. He does all this with a will, and his book is a lively and readable polemic. It is the work of a particularly rational man, who has literary skill by no means inferior to the literary skill of those whom he attacks.

And it is therefore significant: "modernity" has at last roused those who are capable of such effort to a defence of their own conservatism. Mr. Brown is a critic of great experience, who has for some years acted as chief dramatic writer for the London Observer. He is the author of a number of excellent but too little known novels, of which the last to be published was "Marine Parade" [Gollancz], and is both an Oxford man and a wit. Readers who care for sense and vigor should examine "I Commit to the Flames."

All who care for the rich and strange in literature will find fascinating a new biography which will cause endless talk in London. This is a book called "The Quest of Corvo" [Cassell], and is the work of A. J. A. Symons. Mr. Symons had not heard of Corvo—"Baron Corvo," as he was called, although his real name was Frederick Rolfe—until one day some years ago a friend lent him a copy of "Hadrian the Seventh," that odd and irresistible tale of a modern Englishman who became Pope. He read the book, and some still stranger letters; and from that time he has set himself to discover the truth about Rolfe.

This biography is the result. He very skilfully weaves the tale of his own search into the tale of Rolfe's abnormal life—first in a Catholic seminary, then as a schoolmaster, then as writer, sponger, quarrelsome friend, writer of begging and abusive letters, and finally as derelict in Venice.

It is an absorbingly strange story; and for its subject alone would be worth reading. But it is at the same time an engrossing narrative, the work of an enthusiast capable of relishing the genius as well as the bizarre and squalid aspects of Rolfe, the man. I shall be surprised if it does not send many readers to Rolfe, and many collectors to bookshops in search of first editions of his books.

Views Reader as Influence on Every Writer

Clemence Dane Gives Brilliant Lecture in City.

On Thursday morning Clemence Dane gave, at the Arts club, one of the most scholarly lectures that I have ever heard. It had as its theme a controversial subject in the literary world and when the lecture was over the audience had been so stirred that little bombs of argument exploded all over . . . and any lecture that can so excite an audience that it stops for discussion about the lecturer's thesis instead of gossiping about his or her accent or looks is an achievement.

Miss Dane's thesis was that the third oldest partnership in the world, less old only than that of husband and wife and master and servant, is the partnership between the author and his audience [taking the author as writer, speaker, dramatist, troubadour, or whatever his manifestation since the relationship began].

She set forth, in superbly lovely English and quoting from the classics with an erudition which dazzled all of us, that the reader always influenced the writer. It is the reader's, the public's, life which the writer portrays, and only insofar as he portrays that life universally have his books or his plays universal appeal by any standards, either of survival in time or influence on his contemporaries. She pointed out that the subjects of good books must be subjects of human life . . . the author's partner's life, the life of the public. And likewise, no matter how fine an author's work, his books are really only ghosts until his partner lets them live, she said, brilliantly paraphrasing "The House of Ghosts."

One of her closest friends, she told us, who had finished his novel at her house, argued quite differently, and she produced [fairly] his arguments.

That friend, I am sure, was Hugh Walpole, though she merely described him without naming him. He claimed that the reader was a mere by-product of the author's creation, and that the book was eternally complete the moment that the author's pen wrote finis; that the moment the reader's eye began to regard it it began to die, as he had conceived it, and that by the time a century of readers had passed it through their minds it had become a mere fossil, and that nothing is the same after too much quotation, for strangeness is still a party of beauty.

Miss Dane said that his arguments were excellent, but he seemed to forget one thing—that at the moment the writer puts down his pen he himself becomes a partner with himself, he becomes the reader.

It was a superb lecture, a stimulating one not only to thought but to luxuriating in the sheer beauty of beautifully written and spoken English.—F. B.

GALLOWS of CHANCE

LITTLE, BROWN & CO.

Are You in This Picture?

If you are, or if you've been in the Book Section since the annual March sale began a week ago last Thursday, you'll undoubtedly be coming back again.

If you aren't in the picture, and you haven't been in to see the huge collection of old and new books assembled for the March sale, you're invited to come just as soon as you can. You'll want to make several visits. There are so many interesting books you'll be constantly amazed at their great variety and low prices.

During March globes are reduced in price 20%. Every one in our entire stock, including the new 12-inch globe, which was a great value at its original price, is reduced this month.

A collection of fine old books in leather bindings has just been added to our stocks. Every volume is priced for the sale.

NINE PLAYS BY EUGENE O'NEILL FREE— FOR YOUR LIBRARY

—to those who join the Book-of-the-Month Club at this time . . . it costs nothing to belong and you do not have to take a book every month

WE suggest simply that you send the coupon below and get full information as to what the Book-of-the-Month Club does for book-readers. For instance, are you aware that as a member, you are not obliged to take the specific book-of-the-month chosen by the judges? You may buy it or not, as you please, after reading the judges' pre-publication report about it. Nor do you have to pay any fixed sum. You pay the regular retail price for such books as you decide to buy. What then is the advantage of joining?

There are many: first, book-dividends; for every dollar its members spend on books they receive back on the average over 50% in the form of free books. Second, without a penny of expense, through the reports of the judges you are kept completely informed about all the important new books, so that you can choose among them with discrimination, instead of having to rely upon advertising and hearsay. There are several other advantages, not readily measurable in money, that cannot be outlined here for lack of space. Surely, within the next year, the distinguished judges of the Club will choose as the book-of-the-month or recommend as alternates, at least a few books that you will be very anxious to read and which you will buy anyway. Why not—by joining the Club—make sure you get these instead of missing them, which so often happens; get the really substantial advantages the Club affords (such as the book-dividends mentioned, if nothing else), and at the same time get a copy of NINE PLAYS by Eugene O'Neill, free.

Mystery of the Week

BY MORTIMER QUICK.

To be trusted for dignity, good sense and plausibility is Eden Phillpotts, and in "Mr. Digweed and Mr. Lumb" [Macmillan] he writes as interesting a short mystery story as you might hope to find. I am one of those who is accustomed to say that nice people like gardening and that gardening makes people nice, but Mr. Phillpotts, himself a great gardener, is not, evidently, so sure.

If you are a horticulturist as well as a mystery fan you have an added reason for reading this grave and entertaining book. You may nose out the rather [to my mind] likeable culprit a good while before the brace of country town detectives begin to have more than rumbling suspicions but you will be pleased at the neatness with which every written word, without a single false lead, has led up to the dénouement.

In opposition to this calm, if mysterious, tale is John Dickson Carr's rollicking set of murders in "The Eight of Swords" [Harper]. Mr. Carr is inclined to take time to develop his story and to throw in a good many petty minor details to make it snappy. Dorothy Sayers says he's good so who am I to say he isn't? But he's not so funny as Wodehouse of whom this book is reminiscent, nor so sound as Miss Sayers herself. You'll be amused and mystified and I take it that is what most mystery story readers are after. Take note of the fat and wheezy Dr. Fell. He seems destined to appear in many a future yarn.

Service Club Is Early Bird on Revue Date

Gay Season Is Predicted for Next Fall.

BY JUDITH CASS.

TURN the pages of your engagement pads 'way over to October and put red checks on Saturday night, the 20th, for that is the date set for next fall's Service club revue and of course you'll be going—every one always does. The date was set at a board meeting held yesterday morning at the residence of Mrs. Frank S. Sims, 70 Cedar street, but the title and the producer will not be decided until next month. Instead of giving the show two nights in the Goodman theater it will be given only once in a larger place.

It looks now as if next season will be a very gay one for one young woman who wants to be married in the early autumn at her home in the country told us that she couldn't set a date because all the caterers already are engaged for debuts on every Saturday afternoon in September and of course Saturday is the only day to have a wedding or a debut in the country if the bride or debutante wants her friends from the city to drive out for the occasion. A well known woman who wants to entertain for her niece, who will be a debutante next year, told us that even now it is almost impossible to find a free Saturday during the fall and early winter, so you can see what a crop of debs there will be next year, and of course a large number of debutantes means many, many parties and a very gay season.

Miss Grace Dewes Sets Wedding Date.

Saturday, April 21, has been chosen by Miss Grace Dewes, daughter of Mrs. Edwin P. Dewes of 2314 Lincoln Park West, as the date for her marriage to George S. Oram. It is to be a quiet home wedding at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon with only the families and a few friends present. Miss Dorothy Dewes will be her sister's maid of honor and Elizabeth will come from school in the east to be the only bridesmaid.

Chester Daylis of Rockaway, N. J., where the bridegroom and his mother, Mrs. King Stickle Oram, live, will be the best man. Mr. Oram and his bride will live in Morristown, however. Following the ceremony there will be a reception for those who attend the wedding.

Miss Carolyn Erminger, who will be a bride about a week later, is giving a luncheon at the Casino for Miss Dewes next Friday. Miss Erminger is to be married to John de Laittre of Minneapolis on Monday, April 30, in the John Timothy Stone chapel of the Fourth Presbyterian church. It, too, is to be a small wedding, with only the families and intimate friends witnessing it.

Prenuptial Parties for Doris Bokum.

The day for the marriage of pretty Miss Doris Bokum, daughter of the Norris H. Bokums, to Newton C. King, son of the Calvin P. Kings, is drawing very near—it is Thursday next—and the young couple is in the midst of much prenuptial festivity.

The bridal party has an addition in the person of Miss Lucy Harrison, the junior Carter H. Harrisons' daughter. The other members are Miss Mary Margaret McAlpine, who arrived from Detroit at 7:30 this morning to be maid of honor [Miss Jean Watson of New Brunswick is unable to be present]; Miss Betty Alexander, who arrived yesterday from Florida to spend the week as the guest of Miss Suzanne Morris; Miss Frances Canfield, Mrs. Richard M. Lamport, Sally Bokum, the bride's sister, who will be flower girl; Frederick Macfarlane, who will be best man for Mr. King; Robert Shotwell; Paul Poole, who does not arrive in town until next Tuesday; Harry Bryant; Richard D. Bokum III., the bride's brother; Howard McIlvaine of Philadelphia, and Christian de

George Raft Leaves Cast of Mae West Film

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., March 9.—[Special.]—George Raft decided he didn't want to work in Mae West's picture. He's been working 22 weeks without time off, and then, the part of "Tiger Kid," like every other part in one of Mae's gusty vehicles, is considerably subordinated to Mae's. And George is a young man who takes being subordinate very seriously. So he put it up to Emanuel Cohen, boss of the studio, and gained Cohen's consent to take a two months trip to Europe at this time. He'll leave Wednesday, make a few personal appearances in Boston, Philadelphia and New York and leave for England and the continent.

The actor to replace Raft in the prize fighter's role in "It Ain't No Sin" hasn't been decided, but Bruce Cabot, Carl Brisson, and Bob Armstrong, all types differing widely from each other and from Raft, have been under consideration.

When Gloria Swanson was just starting to wear grown-up clothes, but still was the child mascot of her daddy's company, United States regulars, stationed at San Juan, Porto Rico, she was 14 years of age. That was in 1914. A member of her daddy's company in Porto Rico furnishes this first hand information.

Friends of Jayne Shadduck and Jack Kirkland, author, report the pair will wed here soon. Jayne is one of the most compelling eyefuls in movie revues.

The former portable set dressing room which Joan Crawford gave her then husband, Doug Fairbanks Jr., at the height of their marital romance, was sold to Muni when the latter once admired it at Radio studio, after the Joan-Doug love had cooled. Muni has moved it to his ranch and uses it for a study. He spends several hours a day there. It's where he reads plays and stories that are submitted to him, and where he studies his lines.

It's very interesting how Muni learns his lines. He has the room equipped with a dictaphone. When he gets his script for a part he reads his dialog aloud, with the dictaphone running. Then he plays back his own speeches, so as to correct inflections, pauses, and other points.

Ida Lupino, who has been home in bed with pleurisy and laryngitis for several days, suffered a most unpleasant experience yesterday. Still unwell, but feeling she had to report to a call at her studio, she got up, dressed, and went to a closet in the basement of her hillside home to get a heavy coat.

While she was in the closet a breeze blew the door shut, and there was no lock on the inside. By the time Mrs. Stanley Lupino, her mother, and Elsie Ferguson II. [Elsie Ferguson's niece], who lives with Ida, had become worried and completed a search of the house more than an hour had passed and the little actress was unconscious on the closet floor. The physician said she had fainted from shock, but there would have been danger of suffocation if she had not been found for hours.

Convention

Mrs. Albert W. Robinson of Oak Park will be toastmistress at the banquet tonight that will highlight the three day biennial convention of the Central and Great Lakes Provinces of Alpha Chi Omega sorority in session in Urbana. Members of Iota chapter at the University of Illinois are the hostesses. Delegates from 16 active chapters and 25 alumnae chapters in Illinois, Wisconsin, Indiana, Michigan, and Ohio are in attendance. Dr. Arthur H. Daniels, acting president of the university, addressed the opening session yesterday.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Mr. Ramon Novarro, just back from jolly olde England, where he has been making a great hit for himself on the stage, has them sighing, O-my-ing, and well nigh dying for love of him over at the Chicago, where he's appearing on both screen and stage.

A distinguished looking chap of modest mien, he sings several Italian —or are they Spanish?—love songs in delightfully buoyant, facile, and humorous fashion, and then, in response to thunders of applause, gives the ladies what they want—"The Pagan Love Song." Well, I thought the two girls in the row just ahead of me would lose their minds . . .! But he IS charming.

"The Cat and the Fiddle" is the screenization of the Kern and Harbach operetta which had a successful stage run here not long ago. It is full of charming music and its slight plot is a fragrant, romantic potpourri.

Beautiful Jeanette MacDonald is seen as Shirley Sheridan, a young American jazz composer. Mr. Novarro portrays a poor Belgian musician who falls head over heels in love with the girl the minute he lays eyes on her—which is immediately after her arrival in Bussels.

Shirley scorns Victor at first, but he is one of those persons who will not stay scorned. Eventually he has the lady thinking his way. An idyllic love affair blooms and Victor and Shirley work together over one of the latter's compositions. This is published by the great impresario, Daudet, who, of course, is smitten by the devastating Shirley. . . . He succeeds in separating the lovers for a time. BUT—on the night when Victor's operetta is produced—guess what happens?

Both stars are ingratiating and in excellent voice. Both perform with poise, élan, and a keen sense of the comedy requirements of their rôles. Charles Butterworth does a lot to keep the laughter ball rolling, and Henry Armetta is might funny in a minor part. Frank Morgan, Joseph Cawthorn, and Jean Hersholt lend themselves admirably to the action.

I wish the technicolor had been forgotten in a final episode—but it doesn't seriously interfere with your pleasure.

Among the songs sung are the familiar airs "Love Parade," "She Wouldn't Say Yes and She Wouldn't Say No," "The Night Was Made for Love," and "Your New Love Is Old."

See you tomorrow.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., March 9.—[Special.]—The Cuban ambassador and Señor De Marquez Sterling have as their guest at the embassy the secretary of the treasury of Cuba, Dr. Don Joaquin Martinez Saenz, who arrived yesterday to spend the week-end.

Mrs. Nicholas Longworth entertained at dinner last evening for Miss Katrina McCormick, daughter of the late Senator Medill McCormick, to whom Mrs. Longworth is godmother. The dinner was in celebration of Miss McCormick's 21st birthday. Tomorrow night about thirty of her close friends will be entertained at dinner in the picturesque recreation apartment built at the foot of the garden of the Georgetown home of Miss McCormick's mother, Mrs. Albert Simms.

Mrs. Joseph Leiter is visiting her mother, Mrs. John R. Williams, for a short time.

Flaring Cuffs Feature Gloves of New Season

Stunning Creamy Models Ideal for Tweeds.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Lots of new gloves have been unpacked ready for the appreciative shoppers who want something different. If you thought the last year's models were giddy, look for some new sensational affairs this time.

One shop is showing some pastel tinted organdies with huge flaring cuffs that look like flower petals, others with gauntlet cuffs that are fashioned with rows and rows of narrow lace edging. Even the street fabric gloves will have wide, deep, and swanky cuffs. Some stunning creamy, almost true chamois, colors are splendid buys for tweeds.

If you are looking for a blouse that will almost make an afternoon costume with the combine of a longish dark colored separate skirt, there are some new tunic models that are positively good enough to eat . . . soft pink and a divine shade of flattering blue that are made with high straight across necklines and short short sleeves with wide tucks for all the decorative trimming. The material is a dull crepé.

While you are transforming various dresses in your rather overworked winter wardrobe, try out some of the belts, exciting new ideas that will completely rejuvenate the most dated of your possessions. Try one of the widest evening belts ever designed . . . slick cire satin, at least ten inches wide, in all pastel tints and white and black. The long end is pointed and can be pulled through the large circle buckle and used for sash effect.

Colored cords slipped through round discs that double as clasps and decorations are still going round the smartest waistlines in bright and all dark colors.

Striking new patent leather and suede belts copied from polo belts are made with three straps and buckles. And the last gasp is the trick three strap and buckle bracelet of matching leather teamed with these belts for a new fashion sensation!

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

ONE of the charming stories of the week concerns the little satinwood escritoire in the apartment of Mrs. Walter W. Templin at 400 North Michigan avenue. It was an antique piece she bought from a New York gallery—a part of the collection of Lord Leverholme on sale there. The little writing desk never had closed properly, so Mrs. Templin finally sent it to a fine furniture house to see if it could be repaired. The reason why it had not closed smoothly soon was discovered by the expert workman. He found, in the back of the piece, a collection of objects placed in the escritoire nearly two centuries ago by its owner. They had slipped into the back, and remained there lost from sight through the decades. There were calling cards, yellow with age, the names in old-fashioned script. One of them was that of a Baron de Rothschild. There were some faded bills and a yellowed letter. There was a sprig of rosemary, carefully wrapped up in a piece of pink silk, a tiny pencil from a ball program, and a part of a mother-of-pearl paper cutter. There was, besides these romantic keepsakes, a gold sovereign, which may also, for all its solid worth, have been a sentimental memento. These divers objects removed, the little writing desk closed smoothly.

Escritoire—Pun—Practical—Daughter—

* *

THE worst pun of the week probably is David E. Evans'.

"May I inquire," he writes, "if the reason Samuel Goldwyn didn't put his new Russian star to work in pictures until a year after she arrived in this country was because she couldn't Anna Sten our language?"

* *

THE other day we told this story to Alfred MacArthur and added, "Isn't that interesting?"

"Yes," said that practical Scotsman, "especially about the gold sovereign."

* *

MAJ. CHESTER L. FORDNEY was asked some questions about his stratosphere flight with Commander Settle the other day and was reminded of a comment of one of his small daughters. The two girls, one 11 and one 13, are in school in Washington. The head of the school, or perhaps it was one of the teachers, was very uneasy at the time the ship was reported missing, but the children were very confident of their father's safety.

"We'll hear in the morning that he's all right," one of them told the instructor. "He stays out all night lots of times, but he always comes home in the morning."

Import 50,000 Shamrocks for St. Patrick's Festival

Fifty thousand shamrocks from Ireland will be distributed by members and friends of the United Celtic-American Societies of Chicago when they celebrate St. Patrick's night Saturday, March 17, at the White City ballroom.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Now is the time for all good girls and women to use a powder foundation. When the winds are high skins need extra special protection, and when the weather changes rather suddenly, as it's just been doing, skins are apt to cry quietly for protection. If they don't get it, little cracks and scales will raise the volume of the mild cry to a good rousing scream.

You may have noticed yourself, in the last few days, that your skin was acting up. It's been balmy—and then it got a bit biting—and if that epidermis of yours is the least bit sensitive it's showing the weather wear and tear.

Personally we think every woman should use a foundation of some sort all of the time and that need for its use is especially marked during extremes of weather, hot or cold. But lots of women don't agree with us, preferring to use a protective cream or lotion only in coldish weather or when they subject their faces to wind and dust. Still other women don't like to use foundations at all; the only reason for this must be that they don't know how to use them and that lack of care in applying them makes the results unsatisfactory.

One of our favorite foundations is an ivory tinted cream, thin and spready, which seems to do for us just what such a protective base should do. When we use it we don't have the feeling that it is pouring into the pores; we feel instead that it is coating them. We take time in putting it on just before making up—a few small dots on the forehead, a few more on the cheeks and nose and one small one on the chin. Working outward and upward from these dots we blend it together to make a thin film over the entire face. The common error is to apply too much rather than too little. If you do get too much on, pat the face gently with tissue to remove the excess.

Properly applied [and this won't be the case if you attempt to do it in nothing flat], this foundation cream will give an almost imperceptible ivory mask, a faintly moist, mat-like base with which to begin makeup operations.

Antique Fleur de Lis.

BY NANCY CABOT.

An attractive combination of a square and an extremely simple floral pattern makes a quilt that is distinctly striking. The designer of this old quilt was a Frenchwoman who desired to incorporate in her quilt a gentle reminder of her home across the sea.

It's ready — Nancy Cabot's new booklet, presenting 96 illustrations of favorite quilt designs, together with one pattern of a popular quilt, "The Framed Rose." Price, 5 cents; by mail, 7 cents. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune; or call at one of the Tribune Public Service Offices.

Baptist Group Votes Mission Board Plan

The executive committee of the Northern Baptist convention yesterday adopted plans to consolidate all major national missionary boards into one body. The committee was in session at the Stevens hotel. The plan will first be submitted to the convention held in May at Rochester, N. Y. If adopted the consolidation will be completed in 1938.

The plan to consolidate the various missions boards is said to be a part of general preparations looking toward merger of the northern and southern Baptist conventions. The committee also adopted suggestions looking toward a unified program of Christian education and to the revision of methods for raising funds looking toward the principle of a unified budget for all causes.

Dr. W. S. Abernathy of Washington, D. C., president of the northern convention, presided at the committee sessions.

THE WILD BIRD

By OWEN JOHNSON

SYNOPSIS.

Barbara Brawne, aged 22, is completely dominated by an adoring though jealous father, who is against every modern idea and improvement. Lynwood, their home, is in the prim and proper village of Oxbridge, a place of intellectual sanctity. Barbara seems predestined to join the ranks of the village spinsters. Her father scares away any would-be suitors. She contemplates rebellion. Gregory Rance, popular novelist, is visiting her cousin, Laurie Chiswick. They are mutually attracted. Barbara overhears Rance asking Laurie about her. He says she is the sort of girl he'd want to marry. Barbara proposes to Rance. But Rance is divorced and her father hates divorce and uses this as an excuse to oppose their marriage. When Barbara determines to marry Rance, regardless, her father has a stroke. Barbara fears he'll kill himself deliberately. She promises him she won't marry Rance without his consent. Gregory goes away and Barbara strives futilely to put him out of her mind. Disbrough, her father's partner, is a frequent visitor at Lynwood. Her father approves of him as a husband for Barbara, knowing she is not in love with him. In desperation, Barbara marries Disbrough. It is to be, until Barbara decides otherwise, a marriage in name only, Barbara sharing her fortune with him. Then with his daughter safe from his enemy Brawne loses his grip on life. His mind becomes definitely blurred. Rance returns to Oxbridge.

INSTALLMENT XLVIII.

FREEDOM.

Allen rose nervously and began to pace the room. From any point of view he was in a position of inferiority. What he had already accepted from her complicated the situation. How could he save himself with dignity? He might, of course, return what he had received in a splendid gesture. That would restore his moral ascendancy. But if he did, what would be gained? And how would he feel ten years later?

"In plain words, I am to be bought in order to make it easier for you to go to your lover?"

She rose. A sudden anger swept away the studied calm she had up to now maintained.

"You had no such scruples when you married me." But instantly her hands covered her ears. She shivered, twisted her fingers and said hastily, "No, no, I shouldn't have said that. I'm sorry. That wasn't fair."

He stood looking at her scowling.

"Listen, Allen," she said, trying in vain to restrain the excitement which rose in her voice. "There never has been a moment when I hadn't the right to marry Gregory. My father never had the slightest right to prevent me. You know that. You said so yourself. I've been made the victim of his selfishness. But now, Allen, I'm through making sacrifices. That's over. If you won't agree to a divorce, I shall do as I said. I shall leave here at once."

The sting of her reproach had provoked an anger in him.

"Never! I will never agree!" He repeated furiously, desperately. "Never, never!"

She rose and made for the door.

"You are not yourself now," she said. "I want you to think things over quietly. What you decide will affect you more than it will me."

She saw her father on the arm of her husband.

Left alone Disbrough stood incredulously, trying to realize the blow that had descended on him. In a moment all the carefully, painfully built up structure of his career shattered about him. Why did this happen to him now. Why at this particular, critical moment when the future was almost in his grasp? Why didn't it happen later, when he would have been secure? Why should a thing like this happen to him, anyway? What had he done to deserve it? He must meet the crisis somehow—but how?

He began wearily to pace the floor, trying to find a way out, as lawyers who keep an impersonal point of view must discover solutions. Supposing he told her to go away and burn out her mad infatuation and then return to him? There would be no affront to his dignity. Their relations were extraordinary, admitting of extraordinary generosity. A man like that wouldn't be held long—one year, two years. But how could he say this to Barbara? You couldn't say things like that, stark, staring, naked truths! The truth must not be ugly. And his own self-respect?

What were her relations with Rance? What had happened tonight? And her words—"belong to him" she had said—had her words meant that he was her lover? He did not want to know. He was in a dreadful quandary. No, the thing to hold to was his self-respect. He must retain that. He'd never been false to that yet. But that meant the world must respect him. If he permitted her to divorce as she wanted, as perhaps at heart he might also want, how could he do it without returning every cent she had settled on him? There was no question about it. No question at all. A public man must have a public gesture. A splendid gesture, but then what? Where should he find another fortune to secure the career that was his by his merit and industry? Divorced in the first year, his record, his matrimonial value would be imperiled. He turned the point over endlessly. It was the crux of the situation. Allowing her a divorce and profiting by her fortune, the world would judge him pitilessly. He would be ridiculous. And ridicule is the unforgivable sin in political life. Any solution but that.

He went up the stairs determinedly and knocked on her door. She was standing by the window, fully dressed, looking out.

"I have a proposition to make to you," he said abruptly. She turned.

"Go abroad for a year—two years. Go through with this—infatuation. For that is what it is, yes, a mad, unreasoning infatuation with a man who'll tire of you sooner or later."

"And then come back to you?" she said with a cold smile.

"And then, thank God, you can come back to me."

"Do you think in doing this you are very heroic?"

"No. Nothing of the kind," he protested violently, "I shall despise myself every day for consenting to it. But it is the best way out for both of us."

"Allen, you live in a world that is gone and you don't know it," she said, not unkindly. "You think I am like my mother and my grandmother." She shook her head. "You're wrong. I shan't come back, Allen."

He sank into a chair, covering his eyes.

"Good God, what a position to be put in."

"Don't let's make it more painful than it has to be," she said, disturbed by his weakness, the first she had ever witnessed. She went to the bed where her valise was lying and opened it.

He looked up, saw what she was doing and sprang up.

"No, it shan't end like this," he cried violently.

He went out and down the hall to the room of his father-in-law. Barbara did not notice his going. She felt the sudden calm of finality. She knew Rance was waiting for her outside, would wait all night. No more delays, no more compromises. The thing was done. Irrevocable.

She went to her bureau and took up a few things—later she would send for her trunks. Her mother's photograph was standing on the table at her bedside. She picked it up, looked at it steadily, and put it in her dressing bag. She packed deliberately, without precipitation, closed her bags and strapped them.

All at once the door was flung open and she saw her father on the arm of her husband. She recoiled with a cry, staggering back until she felt the wall against her back. Fatality!

Martin Brawne came in slowly and stood blinking at her, the white hair disheveled and uplifted above his furrowed face.

She watched him fascinated, shrinking against the wall. No matter what happened! Not this time! No, no, not this time!

The invalid, supporting himself on his cane, advanced slowly, while the two waited breathlessly. All at once he flung out an accusing finger at the frightened girl.

"Hester! I forbid it!"

She closed her eyes, shivered and drew a long breath. That was over! The knowledge of a final release filled her whole being with a great calm. She came forward and touched his arm.

"It's Barbara, father."

"Barbara?" He ran his hand incredulously over her head and hair. "Barbara is a child."

"But it's Barbara, father."

"Barbara. Yes, it's Barbara," he repeated without conviction. "But then——"

"Mother has been dead a long while—don't you remember?"

He nodded.

"I remember." He looked about him in confusion. "I thought—but then, why am I here? What is Disbrough doing? I don't understand, Hester. No, I don't understand at all."

"Sit down a moment. You've had a bad dream. Rest, and then you must go back to bed." She straightened up and looked above him. "Mr. Disbrough will see to that."

He relaxed in the chair, muttering to himself. She saw he was groping in his mind, a child, without comprehension. She bent down hurriedly and raised him up. With her arm about him she took him down the hall and back to his room.

Service Club Is Early Bird on Revue Date

Gay Season Is Predicted for Next Fall.

Guingne of Bordeaux and California, who arrive today.

Mr. Macfarlane is giving a buffet dinner for thirty guests tonight and Miss Lucy Harrison is giving a luncheon for the wedding party tomorrow in Lake Forest. Tomorrow evening Mr. and Mrs. King have invited the wedding party for supper.

Mrs. John Dingle is giving a dinner in her apartment Monday night, and Tuesday night Mr. King is having his bachelors' dinner at the Chicago Athletic association. Mr. and Mrs. Bokum are giving the bridal dinner Wednesday night in their Lake Shore drive apartment.

An early party to be given for an April bride is the dinner and bridge party Mrs. Thomas H. Eddy is giving tonight in her Evanston home for Miss Anne Robinson, daughter of the Harry Ives Robinsons, who on April 18 will become the bride of Frank Green Osborne in St. Chrysostom's church. Mrs. Eddy has invited twenty-eight guests tonight.

Surprise Party for Howard Renn.

When Thomas Francis Geraghty Jr., senior prefect of the Chicago Latin School for Boys, called a meeting of the senior class early this week and announced that he was giving a party Friday night to which they were all invited not one of the young men—least of all the "inspiration" for the party—had the slightest idea that it was to be a birthday celebration for Howard Renn, who was 18 years old last Tuesday.

Mr. Renn's mother, Mrs. Harry J. Renn of 1120 Lake Shore drive, wanted to give a surprise party for her son, "and without the tactful assistance of Tommy I never could have done it," she exclaimed thankfully. The secret of the real reason for the party was so carefully guarded that not even one of the guests found out it was a surprise party until Mrs. Renn and Mrs. Geraghty, young Mr. Geraghty's mother, and a huge birthday cake appeared on the scene in the Urban room of the Congress hotel where the young people went to dance after the theater. Then, of course, the room resounded with laughter and exclamations and the old ditty "Happy birthday to you!" sung to "Howie."

The evening started at "Ten Minute Alibi," proceeded to the Urban room, where Mrs. Renn and Mrs. Geraghty announced the party's purpose. Their husbands were not present for Mr. Renn is in New York and Mr. Geraghty is in California. Mr. Renn escorted Miss Peggy Elmes, the charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil F. Elmes, and Mr. Geraghty Jr. beaued pretty Miss Ann Lynch.

Junior League Starts Work on Clothes Sale.

Junior League members are active again distributing empty bags to friends, relatives and other members of the league that must be filled with clothes, books and costume jewelry and returned to the league in time for the annual spring second-hand clothes and rummage sale that is being held this year on March 29. The sale chairman, Miss Lois Truesdale, has issued a special appeal for books and jewelry, in addition to old and second best clothes.

By March 15 Miss Jean Hyman, chairman of town collections, and Miss Marie Louise Gardner, chairman of country collections, will have their crews of helpers with cars in working order to collect the bags full of clothes and take them to the league room in the Drake hotel where Miss Joy Fairman, chairman of sorting, and Miss Jean McArthur, pricing chairman, and a corps of assistants will make the articles ready for the sale.

Miss Helen Johnson is the selling chairman, Miss Helen Dawes is the business manager, and Mrs. William Willit [Jean Ward] is the wrapping chairman for the sale. Miss Susan Badgerow is in charge of publicity. Last year the league decided to have very little publicity about the sale because its popularity came near to causing riots, so large were the crowds that came to buy. It cut down the publicity too much, however, for the league could have taken care of a larger crowd than turned up. This year Miss Badgerow and the sales committee are trying to find the happy medium in publicity.

Informal Dance at Dunham Woods.

Another informal dance is scheduled for tonight in the new coachhouse of the Dunham Woods club at Wayne. Just the "neighbors" and the week-end guests will be present at the party, which will make it a small one.

Mrs. John Liddell, whose arrival in Chicago has long been waited for by the Silverthorne and Hellyer clans, arrived on Thursday. The Arthur Hellyers gave a tea for her Thursday and yesterday afternoon after the concert; Mrs. George H. Silverthorne gave a tea for her in the apartment of her son and daughter-in-law, the junior George Silverthornes, on Astor street. Numerous other small parties are being planned to fill in Mrs. Liddell's time before she continues on her way from Europe to her home in China.

From Winter Park, Fla., where there is quite a colony of Chicagoans every winter, comes news of some of them. Mrs. Harold H. Elliott, daughter of Mrs. Samuel G. Goss, is occupying a cottage on the Goss estate and Mr. Elliott joined her this week. Mrs. Charles Galloway of Hubbard Woods is spending two weeks with Mrs. Elliott. Mrs. Frank Mercer of Highland Park is visiting Mrs. Wallace Van Cleave for a fortnight.

Miss Jeanette Genius of New York is at Winter Park with her father, Dr. Richard M. Genius, and her uncle, Dr. Arthur M. Genius, both of Chicago, at their home, Osceola lodge.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. Welles, who have been visiting the William E. MacMillans, have returned to their home in Evanston.

Mrs. Shedd, Relatives at Palm Beach.

A letter from Palm Beach brings the news that Mrs. John G. Shedd and her daughters, Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed and Mrs. Charles H. Schweppe, and their daughters, Miss Mary Reed and Miss Jean Schweppe, who have been vacationing in Nassau, now are at the Breakers in Palm Beach.

The Sterling Mortons have taken the house of Mrs. Thomas L. Bennett of Newport for the rest of the season at Palm Beach.

Mrs. Edward Hines, who spent the greater part of the winter in Palm Beach, has left there to join her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Howell Howard, at Aiken. The latter part of Mrs. Hines' stay in Palm Beach was saddened by the grave illness of her secretary, who has been a member of the household for twenty years.

The Chicago alumnæ of two eastern colleges are meeting this afternoon, those of Radcliffe at the residence of Mrs. William F. Dummer, 679 North Michigan avenue, and those of Smith at the College club.

Members of the Chicago Alumnæ club will be received this afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock by President and Mrs. Robert M. Hutchins at their home. The club, composed of women graduates of the University of Chicago, is a social and philanthropic group which maintains an active interest in the university and supports scholarships for girls. Miss Ethel Preston is the president.

Musical Tonight at U. of I. School.

The proceeds of a musical to be given tonight at 8:30 o'clock in the Quine library of the University of Illinois college of medicine will go to the children's department of the Illinois Research hospital. The woman's auxiliary of the college is sponsoring the affair and Mrs. William F. Petersen of 1322 Astor street is chairman of the committee. Hilda Edwards Oldberg, wife of Dr. Erich Oldberg, brain surgeon on the Illinois staf, will appear in a piano recital and after the program there will be a reception.

The clinic conducted by the Sisters of Mercy at the John B. Murphy hospital will receive the proceeds of a concert John McCormack will give tomorrow afternoon in the Auditorium. Some of those who will have box parties are Cardinal Mundelein and Mayor and Mrs. Kelly.

Mrs. Henry H. Zangwoll, president of the Musicians' Club of Women, is one of those interested in the debut as piano soloist with the Woman's Symphony orchestra tomorrow afternoon of Rae Bernstein, Rosa Raisa scholarship winner. The concert will be given at the Congress hotel. Miss Bernstein has just returned from three years of study abroad. Mrs. Thatcher Hoyt, Mrs. Americus F. Callahan, Mrs. Max Adler and Mrs. Arthur Byfield are others interested in her debut.

Cards are out for the opening of an exhibition of paintings by Buell Mullen (Mrs. James Bernard Mullen of Highland Park) under the auspices of the All-Illinois Society of the Fine Arts next Friday afternoon in the Lord Nelson room of the Drake hotel. Tea will be served from 4 to 6 that day.

Former British Official Will Speak on Austria

Austria's importance in the European situation will be discussed today by the Rt. Hon. Wedgwood Benn, former British secretary of state for India and for many years a leading member of parliament. He will speak at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations at the Palmer house. The subject will be "Austria: the Front Line Trench of Civilization."

Comfortable Sports Frock Has Late Version of Popular Shirtwaist Mode

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

Here is a new version of the shirtwaist dress. Note the slight fulness of the waist gathered to shoulder yokes. The front buttoned closing, and seaming down the center of the skirt are length giving. Many materials are suitable for this sort of dress, such as the new cottons and sheer woolens, as well as silks.

The pattern, No. 2554, comes in sizes 14, 16, and 18 years, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measure.

Bride

Mrs. H. J. Reinert.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Henry Erving announce the marriage of their daughter, Delia Helen, to Herbert John Reinert, which took place yesterday in Morgan Park. Both Mr. Reinert and his bride are graduates of Leland Stanford university, and the bride is a former resident of San Luis Obispo, Cal.

Droopy Mouth Needs Smiling to Perk It Up

Cheerful Frame of Mind Is of Importance.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

What to do for drooping mouth corners?

Smile, sister, smile! There's nothing like it to turn the mouth corners up.

True, we wouldn't like to see you go around looking like one of those grinning chessy cats. There's something infuriating about the chessy smile. It becomes like a smirk to its audience. But cheer up inside. Smile from the inside, if you know what I mean.

Just say to yourself, every now and then: "O, what the dickens, anyway! An egg yesterday and a feather duster tomorrow, as said the philosophic old hen!" Or, maybe you can think up a better brand of philosophy. Anyway, think of something just to turn the mouth corners up. No use massaging and patting astringents in until you have changed your face toward life. Back the corners tilt again the minute you get through massaging.

Of course, you'd better massage once you've decided not to go around with a face like that old one any more. You've left dents there that only local attention will eradicate. It is not going to be an overnight job to get them out, either. You've been grouching too long to be rewarded that easily.

I repeat again that you must relax those mouth corners. And you can't relax them with grim thoughts and brooding hours. You don't have to be up in the clouds to make yourself relax the mouth muscles. Just relax them. Relax them every time you think of it and think of it often. Stand in front of a glass and see how much nicer the whole face looks with the hard set, determined lines loosened up.

Then blow as if you were blowing thistles. You'll see how this blowing puffs out the cheeks and what it does to the sides of the mouth. You are even recommended to chew at gum [in private] for the sake of those indented lines around the mouth.

Pat in a good tissue cream and pat and pat it in with light blows of the finger tips. Wipe this off and use your astringent. Use ice, if you have no other favorite. Then leave a bit of the cream on to soak in and soften the flesh.

When you powder, better go lightly along this section of the face, for powder on the indented lines makes them more obvious.

Don't Rush Child Back to School After Sickness

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

The doctor was attending a little girl with a heavy cold.

"And don't let her go back to school too soon," he told her mother. "I usually like them to stay in bed one day after their temperature has been normal for twenty-four hours. Then one day dressed and around the house. And then a day in and out of the house before they go back to school.

"I have no patience with this giving of prizes to the class with the best attendance. It makes many children go back to school before they should. If I had to choose I'd rather see them give a prize for the class with the poorest attendance."

When your children have had colds or grippe don't make the mistake of letting them get up or go back to school too soon. The one big thing that gives nature her chance to fight germs is rest. Children need a chance to "come back" after a cold.

And this is particularly so where there has been fever. One degree of fever burns up one tenth more of the bodily fuel than is burned up with a normal temperature. Two degrees burn up two tenths more. So as soon as possible this loss of energy must be made good by two things—rest and feeding. At first and while a child is in bed it is better to feed him little and often than to give him three hearty meals.

And remember if your child is of school age that being up and around at home is a different thing from being back at school. Besides the actual getting there, there is the mental effort of lessons [and this uses up much more actual energy than most people realize], there is the going up and down stairs, and the chance of draughts and uneven temperature.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

THE TWO NO TRUMP RESPONSE.

CONTINUING yesterday's article, I suggest the following requirements for the response of two no trumps over an opening suit bid of one:

1. Two primary tricks on the same valuations as are applied to opening bids, but allowing Q J x the value of one-half trick.

2. The three suits not bid by your partner must be stopped, two of them by double stoppers.

3. These protective elements which stop the suits must be so grouped that they will develop tricks easily in no trump play. They must consist of sequences or low honor tenaces that are aggressive in character for the play of the hand. They must appear able not only to stop the opponents from running the suit off against you after getting in for two or three leads, but also able to win tricks as factors in the play of the hand.

4. You should hold at least two cards in your partner's suit, preferably including at least a low honor, to enable you to make a finessing lead of the suit out of your own hand. Failing this, look for additional solidity in the rest of the hand.

Here are some examples of minimum two no trump responses to one spade:

Spades—J x Diam—K J x x	Hearts—K J 9 Clubs—K Q x x
Spades—Q x Diam—Q J 10 x	Hearts—K J x x Clubs—A 10 x
Spades—x x Diam—K 10 x x	Hearts—K J 9 x Clubs—A J x
Spades—x Diam—K J 10 x	Hearts—K Q x x Clubs—A 10 9 x

The holding of one or more tenaces is implied in these conditions. That is why the last example above should be bid two no trump rather than two hearts, a shaded four card takeout justified by the general strength and distribution of the hand, but inadvisable here because it is likely to throw the no trump declaration into the wrong hand. This factor must never be overlooked, maneuvering the no trump bid decides so many games.

Sometimes a strong responding hand has a perfectly sound one-over-one response, but it is desirable that the opening lead be made up to his hand. Should he make his normal suit response the probabilities are that his partner would bid a no trump to sign off. In this event he would be placing the contract in the wrong hand. So instead of making the one-over-one he responds with two no trumps. Now his partner can rebid his suit and the responder will then show his four card suit at three and the opener will have the choice of contracting for game in no trumps, in the original suit, or in the belatedly shown suit.

Suppose your partner has opened the bidding with one heart.

Here is your holding:

Spades—A Q 9 7 Diam—K J 9	Hearts—J 4 Clubs—Q 10 4 3

Instead of bidding one spade, bid two no trumps. If your partner bids three hearts, bid three spades. With this hand surely you are better off to have the lead come up to you instead of through you.

Your partner will realize that you are strong in tenace positions and that your suit is only a four carder. He knows that you hold two hearts [a virtual necessity of the response] and he will thus have a perfect picture of your hand. His decision should prove unerring.

Occasionally some smart players [not necessarily good ones, though] think that with a long solid suit in a minor and nothing in the other suits, a two no trump response is in order. All I can say is that this is the most inexcusable abuse of partnership that I know of, as probably the only player round the tables likely to be deceived is the partner of the responder. Bid your minors as minors and leave the rest to your partner. If the hand should be played in no trumps, you'll get there.

Mr. Sims will answer all inquiries on contract that are addressed to this newspaper. Please inclose self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Young Widow Is Reluctant to Marry Again

BY DORIS BLAKE.

She is a widow in the early thirties with a child of five, a girl. Her husband was killed in an accident. Recently she met a gentleman of her own age who is in love with her and adores the little girl. The man is fine in every way.

Now, you wouldn't think there'd be any other problem there than to settle on a wedding date. She admires the man greatly, finds him a good companion, but "friends" tell her she is foolish to give up a good position and the comfortable life she now enjoys for a man.

Friends do not volunteer that sort of advice. Acquaintances, soured likely with their own matrimonial experiences, do.

However, any woman qualified mentally to hold a successful job ought, by the time she is in her thirties, to grasp the fact that it is upon oneself that making a success of life depends not on the advice of chance acquaintanceships.

Besides, what has the average job to offer a widow in comparison with a home, a husband, and the opportunity to direct, personally, the training and education of a small child? Ten years from now what will the woman have? A higher salary, maybe. Maybe not. The child grown to fifteen, needing a constantly larger outlay of money. A few years more and the girl is planning a nest of her own. And the woman is left, another of the lonely widow figures whose isolation becomes more and more marked as time goes on. Widows time and again have confessed in print their regret that they did not remarry in the good marrying years. Their widowhood cuts them off from the ordinary social doings that a wife enjoys simply because they make an extra woman in a party or around a bridge table. Aside from all this, congenial companionship of the opposite sex is too valuable a thing to throw away for the privilege of the so-called "independence" of the business life, the latter a well exploded fallacy by now.

Chanel Brightens Her Black Frocks with Gay Boleros

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Paris is starting off the spring with her usual passion for black. The Parisienne cannot, and does not want to, break her lifelong habit of the simple black dress that lasts so much longer and is so much smarter than anything else. This spring, however, black frocks are being helped out of their sobriety by printed wraps which range from husky swagger coats down to mere wisps of boleros.

The latter is a Chanel idea and, like everything this dressmaker does, is exquisitely charming. The Chanel frock in our sketch is one of these models that are treated to boleros in printed stuff. The bolero in this case is made of black and white printed jersey, boldly patterned and extremely gay. It fastens on three black buttons arranged to make a triangle in front and has a scarf collar that can be worn loose as shown or draped around the neck.

The plain sleeves are three-quarters length and inside them are fitted cuffs. Above them are small puffs made of the printed material.

There is a crushed, buttoned girdle, and the skirt has two slanting set-in pockets on the hips.

Cooking Editor Clears Up Some Puzzling Items

Kitcheneering Queries Are Many and Varied.

"Delicious Fish Dinners," a booklet containing menus and recipes for fish dinners and luncheons, is on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower, for 2 cents. By mail, 3 cents, stamps or coin. Address Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

BY MARY MEADE.

It does seem that a girl doesn't have to be a newspaper reporter to know the five double-yous—Who, What, When, Where, and Why. All you have to be is a bustling homemaker with a food loving family and a kitchen in which to barge about. Or so I've decided from these troubled S O S calls which run all over the mail box every day, fairly bespattered with questions marks. But remember I like 'em, so keep right on firing. And the stickier they are the better!

As the opening gun remember the party with a hunger for caramelized sugar, whom we mentioned the other day? We even told how to caramelize the sugar partly for sprinkling over this and that. I've been thinking on that score and want to suggest here that you keep a supply of this browned sugar on hand, housed in a tightly lidded pint jar, and use it sometimes instead of molasses over baked beans. It adds a luscious color. Or add just a little of the stuff to gravy that isn't browned to your liking. Right away it will be.

Smudges rouse more queries. The ones in question come on Mrs. H. K. L.'s recipe cards and she's writing to discover what's to be done about them. Likely, Mrs. L., that's something like locking the door after the horse is stolen, since smudges already have arrived. If I were you I'd try art gum first, then iron them with a medium hot iron. This should remove the grease. And here's a tip for the future. Paint your recipe cards with transparent shellac and if they do not already have the opening punch a neat round hole in the middle of the top. The shellac makes the card cleanable with a damp cloth and by the hole one hangs it neatly up over a hook or nail within eye reach of the preparation table.

The next quizzer made us smile—reminded us, I guess, of the little girl who asked her mother about the gravy tree. For Mrs. G. L. writes us from Minnesota, asking where she can purchase fresh maraschino cherries? The answer we'll have to give her is that there just ain't no such animal. For maraschino style cherries are prepared from Royal Anne cherries, picked before they are fully ripe. These fat cheeked fellows are pitted, then bubbled long in hot sirup. Next comes the blush, when they're colored red and flavored with (usually) imitation maraschino liqueur. And here's another point that comes out when you start digging in encyclopedias. The whole thing starts from a Marasca cherry, a native of Dalmatia in Jugo-Slavia. It's from this cherry that the maraschino liqueur was distilled. And now you know it all—and don't you let me hear of you trying to buy them fresh!

And how about asking a favor as a winder-up? Mrs. E. L. and I are wondering about a "sponge biscuit" that Mr. L.'s mother used to make of buttermilk. You see, he and his sister claim that their mother (keeping this all straight?) would make up a large batch of the dough and keep it in buttermilk, using part of it daily to meet their appetites. The idea seems to be from "down south" and if one of you have it in your files or on one of your memory shelves wouldst kindly send it in that I may ship it on to Mrs. L. for Mr. L. and Mr. L.'s sister? Our thanks.

GOLDEN GLOVES TITLE BOUTS THRILL 21,509

KING LEVINSKY IS BEATEN BY WALTER NEUSEL

10,000 See Bout at Madison Square.

New York, March 9.—(AP)—Walter Neusel, German heavyweight, came back after a second round knockdown tonight to gain a decision over Kingfish Levinsky of Chicago in a furious ten round engagement before 10,000 spectators at Madison Square Garden.

An overhand right caught the yellow headed Teuton on the chin in the second round. Walter sat down suddenly, resting for a count of three.

Crowd Cheers Neusel.

He came up with the crowd rooting wildly for him, sailed into Levinsky, and from then on fought a courageous, uphill battle that won him the vote of one judge, Marty Monroe, and the referee, Arthur Donovan, after the vote of the second judge, Harold Barnes, had temporarily deadlocked the issue.

Levinsky weighed 203½ pounds; Neusel, 196¾.

The crowd that booed Levinsky repeatedly for hitting on the breaks, after the bell, heeling and roughing, greeted the decision with a roar of applause.

Decision Is Close.

The German won by the narrowest of margins. Donovan gave Neusel seven rounds and Levinsky three; Barnes awarded Levinsky six, gave Neusel two, and called two even. Monroe, whose vote actually decided the issue, gave each four rounds, called two even, but voted for Neusel because Levinsky failed to break cleanly from clinches. There hasn't been a unanimous decision on a main bout in the Garden in many weeks.

For six rounds Levinsky held the upper hand with overhand rights he curled repeatedly into Neusel's head. He had the German wabbling several times, but never could get closer to a knockout than the three-second knockdown in the second round.

Levinsky Begins to Tire.

After six rounds Levinsky tired. Neusel shuffled steadily into him, bent his head to avoid the King's wild right swings, and pounded both hands to the body. Neusel won the last three rounds by steadily increasing margins and was in full command of the situation, driving Levinsky steadily before him, at the final bell.

The crowd paid $21,000 in gate receipts.

NEW DAVIS CUP LEADER TO SEEK HELP OF PROS

Philadelphia, Pa., March 9.—(AP)—America's Davis cup forces will have the aid of tennis professionals—including Big Bill Tilden, Ellsworth Vines, and other brilliant amateurs of the past—if the United States team's new captain succeeds in his purpose.

R. Norris Williams, just chosen to lead the 1934 squad in the international competition, stated definitely today that the pros would be sought to help in the development of America's team.

"The team itself won't be assembled until around May 10," he said. "In the meantime, however, we are making an effort to enlist all types of players, including the professionals, to play with our men, hoping to develop the attack they will need."

DUFFY, CARNERA MANAGER, GETS JAIL SENTENCE

New York, March 9.—[Special.]—William [Big Bill] Duffy, manager in the United States of Primo Carnera, world champion heavyweight boxer, was sentenced to serve four months in the federal house of detention today by Judge William Bondy for his failure to file income tax returns for the years 1930 and 1931.

Duffy was indicted for failing to report $34,151.75 in income which it is alleged he received as his share of the barnstorming tour which Carnera made in this country in 1930. Following his indictment Duffy made arrangements to pay the tax claim of $2,207 from the gate receipts of the recent Carnera-Loughran fight in Miami, and Judge Bondy was informed today that the full amount had been paid.

Heavyweights Send Fans Into Frenzy.

Golden Gloves champions of the central states were crowned at Chicago Stadium last night, but that is only a part of the story.

The battles were waged before 21,509, who packed every available inch of space in the Stadium. There were 20,106 spectators in reserved seats. The other 1,403 customers bought standing room tickets.

The total receipts were $35,488. Only three times has the huge arena been packed. Golden Gloves finals packed 'em in back in 1931, when 23,100 watched the battles. This was a world's record for indoor boxing. Jack Dempsey and Kingfish Levinsky did it again a couple of years later. They fought before 22,000 spectators.

Seating Arrangements Changed.

Since the world's record attendance mark was hung up at the 1931 Golden Gloves finals there has been a rearrangement of the seating facilities. Aisles were widened and the space between rows stretched out. This lessened the seating capacity by more than 1,000. So the crowd last night created just as much of a jam as the one when the world's record was hung up.

It was a cosmopolitan gathering, with the greats and the near-greats, and Jimmy the banana peddler, and Chuck the newsboy, and Frankie the bootblack joined in cheers which fairly lifted the roof off the big red arena.

These fellows—the bankers, the lawyers, the doctors, the newsboys, and the kids from the neighborhood—did not approve all the decisions. When they didn't see 'em the way the judges and the referees did they voiced their disapproval in no uncertain terms. The margins of victory were so narrow in many instances the crowd was divided. While part of the spectators cheered, the other half shouted its disapproval.

The Fight of Fights.

But even the huge, colorful crowd was overshadowed by the climax to this greatest of boxing shows.

It was a fight between a Negro boy from Chicago's south side and Max Marek, a former Golden Gloves champion which sent thousands home in a frenzy.

Marek, the champion, was beaten. Otis Thomas, the unknown Negro kid—a big husky southpaw, who weighs 205 pounds—was the winner.

Belasco, Shaw, O'Neil, and the other fellows who specialize in drama could not stir a crowd as Thomas and Marek did last night.

It was the sort of fight spectacle the late Tex Rickard and all the other promoters have dreamed of staging. It carried the crowd back to the days when Jack Dempsey was truly the Manassa Mauler.

It made 21,000 fans stand and shriek and plead and bite their tongues half off. It sent the crowd home half hysterical. Some were weeping, others were cheering.

It took the blaze out of calloused fans. Fans who have been at the ringside at hundreds of fights and who never have moved a muscle didn't know what they were doing when this spectacle ended.

Narrowly Escapes Defeat.

Marek had narrowly missed defeat in the semi-final round when he caught the eyes of the judges and the referee to get a hairline decision over Steve Smozy of Cleveland.

The crowd had hooted the decision, and when Marek came back to face the big Negro lad he was hooted again. Marek was not a hero while all this was happening.

Now for the fight:

Thomas clouted Marek with his damaging left as they came out to go into action. The quick punch amazed Marek and all of Marek's followers. Thomas followed it up with both hands flailing away freely and he had plenty of power in his right hand, too. He had mauled Marek all about the ring and connected with a left to the chin that floored Marek.

Max was about to get up without

Cub Regulars Defeat Goofs; Sox Dicker with Muddy Ruel

Camilli's Finger Hurt; Klein Hits Homer Off Warneke.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Avalon, Cal., March 9.—The first of the series of Cub intra camp games today was an unhappy affair for the Goof outfit managed by Pat Malone. His troops were subjected to a sound whacking at the hands of Guy Bush's team which had the benefit of much of the regular talent. A ten run second inning in which the Goof brigade fell apart was the big item contributing to a 13 to 4, four inning victory for the Regulars.

The affair was not conducted without the usual addition to the ailing squad. Dolph Camilli, employed at first base, wasn't on the job long enough to complete the first inning. After singling he got around to the plate on a double by Fat Man Phelps. In the mixup Hartnett inadvertently stepped on Camilli's throwing hand. The small finger was sliced so the victim had to rush off to the hospital to have the wound sewed up. The mishap will not inconvenience him much.

Klein Hits Homer.

When the heavy blasting was going on in the second inning Lon Warneke was trying to use his skill to offset the frailties of the team to which he was assigned. Lonnie couldn't be charged with fly balls that were dropped or throws that were wild. However, the boys did frisk him for eight hits in that one stormy session. Warneke immediately resigned from his pitching job and took over the duties in center field where the muffs of Goebel, a catcher, had contributed to the ten run incident. One hit off Warneke was a homer over the right field wall by Chuck Klein.

The outstanding gentleman in the Goof attack was Phelps who did enough running to assure shedding at least a couple of his many pounds. The Babe's double to right off Lefty Joiner in the first inning led to a run. With two on in the third Phelps slapped the same pitcher for a homer over the right field wall. Phelps achieved this feat while batting out of turn but the trick wasn't discovered by the Regulars until it was too late to do anything about it. Still another homer blossomed when English fastened his bat against a pitch delivered by Don Conrads, the kid southpaw.

Stainback Uses Crutches.

Tuck Stainback, the fleet footed outfield candidate whose left ankle was fractured for a couple of hours yesterday and then reduced to a sprain by a revised opinion of the medicos, was up and around today. He was aided by a pair of crutches. His 81 year old grandmother, upon reading in the paper of the mishap, rushed over to the island on the noon steamer to make sure that everything was all right with her "boy." Grandma is an inveterate baseball fan and seldom misses a game in Los Angeles.

Klein, Herman, Malone, Cuyler and Warneke spent yesterday afternoon pursuing wild goats on the hinterland of the island. Horses and rifles were provided by P. K. Wrigley. One 200 pound Billy was fetched back alive and was dragged to the ball park this morning, his roped horns firmly grasped by a brace of cowboys.

Score:

Regulars	0	1	0	2	1	1	3	1
Goofs	1	0	3	0	0	4	6	4

Veteran Is Sought as Coach and Utility Catcher.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pasadena, Cal., March 9.—Owner Lou Comiskey of the White Sox and Herold [Muddy] Ruel today kept telegraph wires warm between here and St. Louis with negotiations which probably will result in the veteran American league catcher joining the Sox in the dual rôle of coach-utility catcher.

Ruel is a free agent, having been given his release by the St. Louis Browns at the close of last season, his nineteenth in the American league. Muddy, who is 38 years old, caught in 28 games last year, enough to reveal he still retains some of his old time skill.

Joined Browns in 1915.

Since breaking in with the Browns in 1915 Ruel has been on the Browns' roll for two different hitches, five years with the Yankees, two hitches with the Red Sox, eight years with the Senators, and a year and a half with the Tigers.

The hiring of Ruel had been under consideration for some time, but action was not taken until Catcher Mervyn Shea failed to show signs of recuperating from a recent attack of flu. Shea has been in uniform every day since the second squad arrived here, but it has been evident that he has not recovered. Incidentally, Shea kept Ruel on the Browns' bench last year, and it was Ruel's praise of Shea during the winter that led to the trade which brought Mervyn to the Sox.

Two Baseball Visitors.

The Sox had two baseball visitors at their camp today. Bill Kamm, former Sox, now of the Cleveland Indians, stopped off en route to the Indians' training camp in New Orleans. Earl McNeely, nominal owner, president, manager and secretary of the Sacramento team of the Coast league, showed up to emphasize further his earlier telegraphic request for Sox assistance. He wants two pitchers most of all, and they don't have to be youngsters.

The visit of McNeely led to reports that Milt Gaston might be turned over to the Sacramento outfit. While McNeely is seeking pitchers especially, it was hinted that Outfielder Milt Bocek may be farmed to Sacramento.

It was learned from Los Angeles sources tonight that McNeely's visit was not solely on the receiving end, but that he virtually closed a deal with the Sox for the purchase of French Bordagary, young Sacramento outfielder, who batted .351 last season, playing in 117 games. The cash involved was said to be satisfactory to both parties, but the deal was held in abeyance pending the selection of two pitchers to be sent to the Sacramentos.

The Sox are in excellent shape to begin their exhibition season in Los Angeles Sunday.

It is probable that Gallivan, Stine and Wyatt will pitch against the Angels in Sunday's game.

BIG TEN TRACK MEET OPENS AT U. OF C. TONIGHT

Two hundred of the Western conference's best in track and field athletics—some of them potential record breakers—will invade the University of Chicago fieldhouse today in quest of individual championships and the 24th indoor team title. They will run, jump, and pitch the iron shot until, about 9:45 p. m., nine individuals and one relay foursome have been crowned with the 1934 laurels.

Preliminaries in four events, the 60 yard dash, 70 yard high hurdles, 440 yard run, and mile run, which will be held at 2 p. m., will cut the field in the dash and hurdles to twelve men and reduce the competition in the other two races to six. A brief ceremony will open the finals at 8 p. m., semi-finals in the sprint and hurdles will begin at 8:10, and finals in all ten events will be run in the space of 15 minutes after 8:30.

Hoosiers Take Spotlight.

Indiana's team will be the chief focus of attention, for two reasons. First, the Hoosiers will be fighting for a third consecutive championship. Before 1932 Indiana had never been close to a conference track title. In that year, by virtue of surprising performances, the Hoosiers nosed out Michigan by 5-6 of a point. Last year, with Michigan rated a slight favorite, the Hoosiers again came through. And this year Michigan must again be favored to win. Only one team, incidentally, has ever won the title three successive years. Illinois did it in 1920, 1921, and 1922, and the Illini, coming back in track, appear headed for third honors tonight.

All eyes will be on Indiana also because two Bloomington lads, Charley Hornbostel and Ivan Fuqua, both of them seniors, are the most likely candidates for new records. Hornbostel has been burning up the eastern tracks in the middle distances this winter, and will be out to crack his own mark of 1:52.9 in the half mile, established in the meet last year. Fuqua last Saturday tied the American record of :49.3 in the 440, which was set by Alex Wilson of Notre Dame, and seems in a fair way to smash the mark of :50 set by Russell of Michigan. The Maroon track, fastest in this part of the country, lends itself to new records.

Indiana's mile relay team also may figure in the record breaking, and there is a chance that Dave Cook of Illinois may better Clarence Munn's shot put record of 48 feet 9¼ inches. Records in the other events seem safe.

Ward Record Contender.

After Hornbostel and Fuqua, the leading contender for applause will be Willis Ward, Michigan's fine Negro athlete. Ward is the favorite to win three events—the dash, high jump, and hurdles.

To match this potential scoring power Indiana must count upon exceptional performances in the mile and two mile runs by Hobbs, a sophomore, and must again produce some surprises. In Coach Hayes' bag are yet a couple of tricks, probably in the persons of Bill Smullen, sophomore distance runner, and Ettore Antonini, football star, recently trained in the shot put.

Illini Strong in Vault.

Illinois looks for victories in the pole vault by way of Irving Seeley, who was second last year with a vault of 13 feet 3 inches, and in the shot

A FIGHTER TITLE BOUND

Kelly and Allman First in Golden Gloves Crowd

Two early arrivals at the Stadium last night to witness the climax of the seventh annual Golden Gloves tournament, sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, were Mayor Edward J. Kelly and Commissioner of Police James P. Allman. They were in front row seats on the west side of the ring.

Noble Kizer, Purdue football coach and athletic director, was present. Close by him sat Gus Dorais, who holds a similar position at the University of Detroit. Dorais was impressed by the manner in which the Detroit Free Press featherweight candidate, Al Nettlow, whipped Ray House of Michigan City, Ind., to qualify for a title match.

Charles Bidwill, president of the Stadium Operating company, entertained a large party. Included among his guests was Robert Little, president of the Pullman company.

Sheriff William Meyering was a late comer. He had neglected to reserve any tickets and upon his arrival he was informed that all ringside seats were sold. A friend came to his rescue with two.

Thomas Donovan, lieutenant governor of Illinois; Charles Fitzmorris, former chief of police of Chicago, and John Clark, alderman of the 30th ward, had adjoining chairs.

Harry Milne, sports editor of the Rockford Morning Star, solved the mystery of the whereabouts of Adam Smith, veteran diamond studded Golden Gloves aspirant from that city. Smith's two professional encounters were so disappointing to himself that he now is concentrating on his duties as a baker at Rockford.

George Halas, owner and coach of the Chicago Bears, national professional football champions, and his wife were two of Freddy Caserio's loudest rooters in his one round technical knockout over Charles Wozniak, C. Y. O. middleweight champion.

Max Marek, 1933 international Golden Gloves light heavyweight champion, weighed 183 yesterday, 31 pounds more than what he scaled for his first amateur contest three years ago. In 1932 Max was at 162 pounds, and last year he weighed 172.

John Pacek, who knocked out Patrick Mulligan, heavyweight champion of Ireland, in the international matches last year at Soldiers' field, was autograph hunting yesterday. He got signatures of every one of the 32 semi-finalists on the 12 page CHICAGO TRIBUNE's program. Pacek now is boxing successfully as a professional.

Ald. C. Allen of Peoria, who is chairman of the finance committee of that city, kept his Golden Gloves attendance record intact. He has been at the finals of every meet since its inception seven years ago.

Phil Kenneally, C. Y. O. lightweight representative, was the only boy who came in over his class limit. He weighed 136½, a half pound over the specified weight. Coach Dick Fitzgerald of the C. Y. O. then gave him a light rub. When he approached the scales again five minutes later he was within the limit.

Hower Outpoints Mueller in German Title Battle

BERLIN, March 9.—(AP)—Vincenz Hower retained his German heavyweight boxing championship by outpointing Hein Mueller in a 12 round bout tonight. Willy Seissler defeated Franz Duebbers to retain the lightweight title.

RACING OFFICIALS RULE OFF OWNER ON DOPE CHARGE

Florida Commission Bars J. Y. Christmas for Life.

Miami, Fla., March 9.—[Special.]—The Florida state racing commission today suspended J. Yancey Christmas for life for using stimulants on horses. The announcement followed a hearing in the commission offices here today.

Christmas is alleged to have used caffein on Nourrice, which ran in the seventh race on Feb. 23. A saliva test taken by State Chemist Charles E. Morgan showed that Nourrice was stimulated before going to the post.

Ordered to Sell Horses.

The commission, however, ordered Christmas to sell his horses instead of ruling them off the turf. The horses will be sold when the commission orders the date of sale, but they will be unable to race in the colors of the new owners for thirty days.

The day's feature race at Hialeah Park was won by Col. E. R. Bradley's Boy Valet, Florida Derby candidate, which came from behind and scored an easy victory over Time Clock. Bittybit, owned by A. A. Baroni, finished second, a length and a half behind Boy Valet. Time Clock could do no better than third, two lengths behind Bittybit.

Trainer Coburn Suspended.

A charge of having stimulated the horse Garlic in a race last Wednesday caused the suspension of George Coburn, prominent trainer.

The action followed a report by Dr. J. G. Catlett, Florida racing commission veterinary, and Charles E. Morgan, state chemist. Although Garlic won the race in which it was charged that he was stimulated, he was disqualified and the case referred to the commission.

EPSOM DOWNS OPENS.

Houston, Tex., March 9.—(AP)—Cold, rainy weather marred the opening of the spring racing season in Texas today and held to approximately 4,000 the crowd at the initial program of Epsom Downs here.

Favorites won both feature events. A. T. Tarn's Eisenberg, with N. Wall up, spurted in the stretch to best Jazz Age in a thrilling duel and capture the Arabia temple purse.

Mrs. R. Pollard's Lynnewood, ridden by Howard Hughes, finished ahead in the race for the Salesmanship club purse.

Postpone National Guard Games Until Next Saturday

Play in the Illinois National Guard Basketball league has been postponed for one week. All games scheduled for tonight will be played next Saturday at the Naval Reserve armory.

Jimmy Foxx Gives in; Signs 1934 Contract

Miami, Fla., March 9.—[Special.]—Jimmy Foxx, leading batter of the American league last year, who has been in the limelight as one of the most stubborn holdouts of the year, today came to terms with Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, and signed a one year contract.

The terms upon which Foxx and Mack finally agreed were not disclosed. The slugger had previously rejected an offer of $15,000, asking for an annual salary of $25,000. The agreement was reached when Mack came here today with the Athletics for an exhibition game with the New York Giants on Sunday. The game will mark the first 1934 appearance in uniform of Foxx, who will be at his regular first base position against New York.

The signing of Foxx ended the most important holdout case of the current training season. Mack originally had offered Jimmy $11,000 involving a 30 per cent cut from what he had earned last year. When Foxx refused the reduction, Mack boosted the offer to $15,000. The first proposition included a bonus contingent upon the attendance at the Athletics' home games, but Foxx pointed out that the loss of Mose Grove, Max Bishop, George Earnshaw, and Mickey Cochrane would make the bonus clause negligible.

The signing of Foxx terminated his threats to quit baseball and retire to his farm at Sudlersville, Md.

Actor to Fire Starting Gun for Bike Race

Edmund Lowe, moving picture actor, will fire the starting gun for the six day bicycle race which will open in the Stadium tomorrow night with thirteen teams competing.

Work was started on the track last night immediately after the Golden Gloves bouts. Pat Mulvey, the veteran track builder, promises to have the bowl ready late this afternoon so that the riders will be able to have a workout.

Fifteen teams made up of Chicago amateurs will compete in a one hour race before the six day event gets under way.

Among the outstanding six day teams entered are: Reggie McNamara and Dave Lands, Tino Reboli and Ed

GOLDEN GLOVES CHAMPIONS ARE HAILED BY 21,509

Thomas and Marek Wage Thrilling Battle.

taking a count, but apparently decided to rest a couple of seconds. In the meantime he wore a wide grin on his face which assured his followers and his seconds that he was not seriously hurt.

In the second round Thomas again pounded Marek around the ring and staggered him several times.

Now picture Marek, the proud champion, the old bulldog from Notre Dame, a kid who could take it, lunging out for the third round to make his great stand.

Marek centered his attack around Thomas' mid-section and had the Negro in distress. He rushed and threw punches from all angles with a spirit that hardly any human could endure.

Marek Wins Third Round.

Thomas, game to the middle of his heart, realized he was up against the most vicious attack he had ever encountered. His only defense apparently was to match Marek's offense.

The last two minutes were a slugging match. They came in toe to toe and slugged from then until the bell stopped them. Marek won the last round easily.

Marek had been hooted out of the ring after officials gave him the decisions against Smozy in his first bout. He had been greeted with the same derision when he entered the ring for his championship scrap with Thomas. But after Thomas had got the decision over him he became the hero of the night and enthusiastic fans carried him on their shoulders from the ring to the dressing room.

Here Are New Champions.

Most of the people in the crowd filed out into Madison street and into Warren avenue babbling incoherently. It had been the fight of a lifetime. Those who didn't babble on the way home were just too hoarse to utter a sound.

The new champions are:

112 pound division—Jesse Levels, Cleveland.
118 pound division—Troy Bellini, Cleveland.
126 pound division—Al Nettlow, Detroit.
135 pound division—Frank Bojack, Cleveland.
147 pound division—Danny Farrar, Cleveland.
160 pound division—William Treest, Joliet.
175 pound division—Joe Louis, Detroit.
Heavyweight—Otis Thomas, Chicago.

Marek wasn't the only former champion to go down in defeat. Fred Caserio was beaten by the booming fists of Bill Treest of the Joliet team.

This was another struggle which sent the huge crowd into a turmoil. In the first round Treest opened a cut over Caserio's eye. A second later Caserio punched Treest solidly on the nose. They went along, exchanging punch for punch, for the remainder of the battle.

It was a hairline decision which the judges awarded to Treest. It wasn't at all pleasing to the crowd. The pendulum might have swung either way.

Another big hero was Joe Louis, the poker-faced Negro kid from Detroit. He whipped all his preliminary opponents with remarkable ease and wound up by beating Ario Soldati from Rockford in his semi-final match and then trouncing Joe Bauer of Cleveland for the title.

Louis hit the lunging Cleveland fighter so hard in the last round that his right fist was fractured. It caused him to slow up slightly in the late stages, but his early lead was so great there was no doubt about the outcome.

Cleveland and C. Y. O. Win.

The Cleveland, O., Plain Dealer's boxing team won the out of town team trophy and the Catholic Youth Organization the Chicago team prize, with 24 and 9 points, respectively. The Detroit Free Press' team was second among those from outside of Chicago with 14 points. Among the contending Chicago teams the Savoy Athletic club placed second with 5 and Trafton's gymnasium third with 4 points.

Points were awarded on a basis of five for a championship, three for second place, and one for each boy entering the semi-finals. Cleveland won four first places, one second, and had one other boy in the semi-final round. Detroit's 14 points came from two firsts, one second place, and one semi-finalist.

Two C. Y. O. boys were runners-up in their divisions and three others entered the semi-finals. The Savoy A. C. had only one boy among the point winners, but he was Otis Thomas, the only Chicagoan to win a championship, and his victory won second place for his team. Trafton's gym was represented by one second place fighter and one semi-finalist.

Foresters Will Open Basketball Finals Tonight

The Catholic Order of Foresters Basketball league will open its finals tonight at the West Side Community clubhouse, 4711 West Madison street. Play will continue Thursday night and be concluded Sunday afternoon, March 18. The championship team and two other fives will play exhibition games in Pittsburgh and Columbus, O.

Lubansky to Meet Keevil Monday at Marigold Gardens

Izzy Lubansky, south side lightweight, is matched to box Frank Keevil of the north side in a six round semi-final to the Johnny Phagan-Fritz Heinz windup Monday at Marigold Gardens. Lubansky beat Lou Terry in his most recent bout. It was his fifteenth triumph in eighteen.

Walter Madey and Bob Stone, heavyweights, collide in a four round preliminary event. Matt Dour faces Buddy Byers and Jimmy Richards opposes Hugh Allen in other matches at four rounds.

Laddie Tonelli, Marseilles, Ill., welterweight, is due tomorrow to begin workouts for an eight round encounter with Johnny Terry at Rainbo Fronton next Friday. F. M.

MOON MULLINS—TOO MUCH TALKIE

AND HERE WE HAVE THE LATEST THING IN BATHING APPAREL DISPLAYED BY A BEVY OF BEAUTIES AT MIAMI BEACH.
BY JOVE! THERE IS MARIE, ANN, DOT, JOSEPHINE. ALL LOVELY GELS I MET THERE LAST WINTER.
WHY, SIR TUMMENDEN!
HUMM.
I WAS JUST THINKING, LADY PLUSHBOTTOM, THAT YOU AND MY BROTHER WILL NOT BE TOGETHER ALWAYS—AHH SOONER OR LATER ONE OF YOU WILL HAVE TO GO.
WHY, SIR TUMMENDEN, I NEVER SAW YOU SO SENTIMENTAL. OF COURSE WE ALL HAVE TO GO TO OUR REWARD SOMETIME, BUT—
YES I KNOW—AND I WAS JUST THINKING THAT IN CASE YOU, UNFORTUNATELY WERE THE FIRST TO GO, LADY PLUSHBOTTOM, MIAMI BEACH WOULD BE A SPLENDID PLACE FOR YOUR HUSBAND TO GO TO LIVE.

Golden Gloves Finals Blow by Blow

The round by round story of the final Golden Gloves bouts last night follows:

112 POUND CLASS

Jesse Levels, Cleveland, beat Johnny Brown, C. Y. O., Chicago.

FIRST ROUND—Levels scored with hard rights to Brown's head, hurting the C. Y. O. boy. They traded jabs. In close, Levels pounded Brown's stomach. Brown connected with a left hook to the head, but Levels countered with a straight left. Levels was short with a left and they exchanged body blows.

SECOND ROUND—Levels rushed the Chicago boy against the ropes and drove hard rights to the head. Brown was short with a straight left and received a two fisted attack to the head. They traded left jabs. Brown followed in with a hard right to the chin. Levels hurt Brown with a straight left to the face. Brown caught Levels with a sharp left hook to the face.

THIRD ROUND—Levels landed a hard right to the head and then drove two lefts to the same place. Brown was met by a hard right to the face. They exchanged terrific rights to the head. Brown sent in a hard right to the face and then sank a left to Level's stomach.

118 POUND CLASS

Troy Bellini, Cleveland, beat Tommy Barry, Springfield.

FIRST ROUND—Troy landed a long left to the head and followed it up with a right to the head. They exchanged body blows. Bellini used his reach to advantage in jabbing. Barry ducked a left lead and pounded Bellini's stomach. The Cleveland boy stabbed Barry twice with a straight left, but received a right to the jaw. Bellini landed a right to the head.

SECOND ROUND—They traded left jabs to the head. Bellini was short with a left hook, but his right landed on Barry's chin. Barry drove in two straight lefts. They went to work on each other's mid-sections with short body blows. Bellini shot a short right to the chin, but was wild with a left. Barry scored with a straight left to the face.

THIRD ROUND—Barry connected with two straight lefts. He repeated the process. Bellini connected with a short left hook to the face. In another rush Bellini landed two rights to the stomach. Barry was high with a countering right hand punch. Barry cracked Bellini on the nose with a hard right. They slugged until the bell.

126 POUND CLASS

Al Nettlow, Detroit, beat Andy Scavini, C. Y. O., Chicago.

FIRST ROUND—After they had traded light lefts, Nettlow was short with a right cross. Scavini rushed in, only to be greeted by a right uppercut. They traded sharp blows to the head. Scavini crashed in an overhand right to the chin. In a clinch they pounded each other about the head until separated. Scavini was short with a right uppercut, and his followup punches were blocked by Nettlow's arms.

SECOND ROUND—An exchange of left jabs opened the round. Nettlow beat Scavini to the punch with a right to the face. He then shook up the C. Y. O. boy with two hard rights to the jaw. An exchange of jabs followed. Scavini rushed in, but Nettlow danced aside. Nettlow landed two hard rights to the face, but caught a right cross to the chin. The Detroit boy shot an underhand punch to the stomach.

THIRD ROUND—Nettlow sent sharp, straight lefts to the face three times. Nettlow beat Scavini to the punch time after time. Scavini, now weaving and bobbing, landed a hard right to the mouth. They traded straight lefts and occasional booming right crosses. Scavini kept forcing and landed several punches to the stomach.

135 POUND CLASS

Frank Bojack, Cleveland, beat Aaron Wade, Peoria.

FIRST ROUND—They tried to maneuver each other into position for a right hand attack, after which Wade tied up Bojack as they came together. Wade was short with a right and took a straight left to the face. the Peoria Negro landed a right high on Bojack's head. They worked in close for a body exchange. Potential right hand knockout blows were blocked by elbows.

SECOND ROUND—Wade counted with a right to the stomach and then clinched. Wade brought his attack up to the head and landed a right to the chin. They traded lefts. Wade drove Bojack back against the ropes, but was unable to land an effective punch. They exchanged hard rights on even terms. Another exchange of rights followed. Bojack finally maneuvered Wade into position for a short right chop to the chin.

THIRD ROUND—Wade shot a sharp left hook to the stomach. As Wade came in swinging he was tied up by Bojack. A hard rally, featured by terrific right hand wallops to the chin, followed. Bojack wrestled Wade around, meanwhile pumping both hands to the stomach. Wade came back with a stinging left hook to the chin.

147 POUND CLASS

Danny Farrar, Cleveland, beat David Clark, Detroit.

FIRST ROUND—They rushed out and pounded each other about the body. Farrar, a southpaw, drove sharp lefts to the stomach. At long range Clark speared Farrar with two straight lefts to the face. Clark followed with a right cross to the jaw. Farrar rushed Clark into the ropes with a two fisted attack to the head.

SECOND ROUND—Farrar jabbed with his right, but was short, and Clark sank several rights to his stomach. Clark met Farrar coming in with a right, but Farrar scored with a series of lefts to the head. Clark appeared to be in distress. Farrar followed his advantage and staggered Clark with two more lefts to the head. They clinched as Clark tried to hold on. Clark scored with a right to the face. Clark's long right was blocked.

THIRD ROUND—Clark shot a right to the head, but took two lefts to the face. They pounded away with both hands to the head. Clark was wide with two rights intended for the jaw. Farrar swung two lefts high to Clark's head. The Cleveland boy rushed Clark into the ropes as the bell ended the fight.

160 POUND CLASS

William Treest, Joliet, Ill., beat Fred Caserio, Trafton's gym, Chicago.

FIRST ROUND—Caserio scored with two lefts to the head. Caserio pounded a left to the stomach, but Treest connected with a long overhand right to the head. They both missed with lefts and clinched. Caserio edged inside of a hard right and landed two lefts to the face. They traded lefts to the head. Caserio came out of an exchange with a bloody nose, but he evened matters by landing a right to Treest's nose.

SECOND ROUND—Caserio landed two straight lefts to the face. Treest countered with a left that appeared low. They worked in close and staged a furious body bombardment. Treest landed a long overhand right to the head. Caserio used short punches to good advantage at close range. Treest whipped in a looping left hook to the body and then scored with a hard right to the head.

THIRD ROUND—Caserio danced in with two short lefts to the face. They flailed away with both hands to the body. At close quarters again, they punished each other with short, vicious rights to the head. Treest stepped in to score a hard right to the face. Caserio followed with two lefts to the body. Treest feinted with his left and then swung the left to Caserio's head. They rocked each other with smashing lefts and rights to the head.

175 POUND CLASS

Joe Louis, Detroit, beat Joe Bauer, Cleveland.

FIRST ROUND—Bauer was short with a left jab. Louis countered twice with left hooks to the head. Louis ducked a hard right. Louis was short with a hook intended for the head. Louis blocked a left lead with his shoulder and brought up a hard right to the chin. Bauer was too high with a right and received two chopping rights to the chin.

SECOND ROUND—Louis sent a series of lefts to the head. Bauer rushed in but was high with his left. Louis swept in with a sharp hook to the head. Bauer started a right from his heels, but Louis easily avoided it. They traded left jabs. Louis followed with two more left hooks to the body.

THIRD ROUND—Louis counted with two left hooks to the head. Bauer swept aside Louis' guard and landed a right to the head. Louis punished Bauer severely with right hand shots to the head, but the Cleveland fighter kept bouncing back for more. Bauer brought up a sharp uppercut to the chin. Bauer was met with a stinging right to the head. Bauer hurt Louis with a right, but the Detroit Negro dropped him with a left hook at the bell.

HEAVYWEIGHT CLASS

FIRST ROUND—Thomas, a southpaw, stung Marek with a right and left to the head. Thomas sent Max to the canvas for a count of two with a left to the jaw. Thomas rushed in again and stung Marek with a left to the head. Max landed a right to the face, but took several punches in return. Thomas punished Marek with both hands to the head. The furious fighting had the crowd wild.

SECOND ROUND—Marek was wide with a right as Thomas sidestepped. Thomas hurt Max with a two fisted bombardment to the head. Marek was jarred against the ropes, but came back fighting. Max swung a hard right to the stomach. Thomas countered with a terrific left to the head that staggered his opponent. Marek lowered his head and swung both arms at his colored opponent like a fighter gone mad. Thomas staggered Marek with a right, but the Notre Dame student punched right back with both hands.

THIRD ROUND—Marek sent in a hard right to the chin. He swung under a lead and came up with a beautiful right to the head that hurt Thomas. Thomas came back swinging, however. Max pummeled Thomas about the stomach with both hands. Thomas took away the play for a moment with a hard left. Marek put up a glorious stand as he rocked the Negro boy with both hands to the head.

BIG 10 FOOTBALL HEADS ADOPT STANDARD BALL

Athletic directors of the western conference, meeting yesterday at the Windermere hotel, voted to adopt more rigid specifications for the size of footballs used in the conference. Heretofore variations in circumference of as much as an inch have been allowable. The new rule cuts this latitude to a quarter of an inch.

Even slight variations in size affect punting and passing, it was explained, and the new standardization will eliminate any advantage the home team may have by reason of its familiarity with a particular ball. The exact standard measurements have not been finally decided upon. In addition to athletic directors coaches Kizer, Hanley, Shaughnessy, and Zuppke were present.

MAROONS WIN GYMNASTIC TITLE IN BIG TEN MEET

The University of Chicago won the Big Ten gymnastic title last night at Bartlett gymnasium. It was the Maroons' fifth consecutive championship.

Chicago's victory, its 14th in 17 years, was won by a narrow margin from Minnesota. The Maroons scored 1,065.2 points, 26 more than the Gophers. Illinois was third with 987.45; Iowa fourth with 871, and Ohio State's one man team was fifth with 124.7.

Capt. George Wright, Chicago senior won three of five gymnastic events, the horizontal bar, the side horse, and the parallel bars. He placed second to another Maroon, Charles Adams, in the flying rings.

Metz Shoots 67 for Lead in Atlanta Golf

Atlanta, Ga., March 9.—(AP)—Dick Metz, 24 year old assistant to Craig Wood, pro at Deal, N. J., shot a smart 67 today to gain a single stroke lead in the opening round of the Metropolitan open golf tournament.

Conquering the combined hazards of the old No. 1 East Lake course and a stiff wind, Metz bettered par 70 by three strokes. His closest pursuers were the veteran Johnny Golden, Noroton, Conn., pro, and Tommy Wright, an 18 year old Knoxville, Tenn., amateur, who had 68s.

Five strokes behind the leader and tied for fourth were Paul Runyan, the youthful White Plains, N. Y., professional who has been one of the sensations of the winter tour, and Willie McFarlane, Tuckahoe, N. Y., veteran. Both had 72s.

Mortie Dutra of Detroit and Ky Laffoon of Denver were tied at 73, while five were bracketed at 75. These included Al Watrous, Birmingham, Mich., pro; Charles Lacey, Lakeville, L. I., pro, and Charles Black, Atlanta, amateur.

Bill Mehlhorn, Ralph Stonehouse, Horton Smith, Jimmy Hines and Phil Perkins were among those having 75s. Craig Wood, Metz senior professional in Deal, N. J., and the big money winner of last year's campaign, ran into trouble and wound up at 77.

MAROON FENCING TEAM CAPTURES BIG TEN TITLE

University of Chicago fencers displaced Illinois as Western conference champions last night at Bartlett gymnasium. The Maroons won two events and placed second in the third, to score 13 points.

The Illini scored 7 points; Ohio State, 5; Wisconsin, 5; Purdue, 2, and Northwestern, 1. The other four Big Ten schools did not compete.

Epstein of Illinois won his third foils title, and Young, who had defeated him in a dual meet, was second.

FOILS—Won by Epstein, Illinois; Young, Chicago, second; Silverman, Purdue, third; Cox, Northwestern, fourth.
SABER—Won by Julian, Chicago; D'Amore, Ohio State, second; Kaftan, Wisconsin, third; Benham, Illinois, fourth.
EPEE—Won by Young, Chicago; Segal, Wisconsin, second; Rauber, Wisconsin, third; Grahl, Illinois, fourth.

CICERO QUINTET CAPTURES TITLE IN MEN'S DIVISION

Mary Queen of Heaven of Cicero won the championship of the Men's church division of the Chicago district basketball tournament at White City last night by defeating the Edgewater Presbyterian quintet, 28 to 25, in the last minute.

Spencer Coals beat Empire Sportcraft, 24 to 10, to win the girls' rules title; Norwell Bears defeated Platt Orioles, 22 to 20, in the Boys' division; St. Andrew's Lutherans won from Bird Memorial, 18 to 14, in the Girls' church section, and Warner Brothers' Capitol beat Lever Brothers' Lux, 21 to 20.

WHITEY ECKWART, one of the most widely known trainers of fighters, is kept busy on the Pacific coast these days. . . . Eckwart was Pancho Villa's trainer when he died July 12, 1925, as a result of a fight with Jimmy McLarnin. . . . He also was trainer of Clever Sencio, another Filipino, who died Oct. 27, 1925, after a match with Bud Taylor. . . . Neither death was blamed on Whitey's training methods and he likes to tell stories of the two boys, particularly Villa. . . . He says that on one trip across the country Villa and his wife carried 22 trunks loaded with clothes. . . . "After every fight," says Whitey, "Pancho would buy three suits, two perfect fits and one a bit loose. He would wear the loose ones after he had gained three or four pounds before resuming training. . . .

BLACKHAWKS SET OUT ON CLOSING TOUR TOMORROW

Ice not being available at the Stadium yesterday because of the Golden Gloves bouts, Manager Tommy Gorman moved the Blackhawks to their old skating pond at the Coliseum and drilled them on defensive plays which he hopes will tend to cut down the scoring propensities of the Montreal Maroons and the Canadiens, one of which the Hawks are certain to meet next week in the start of the Stanley Cup playoffs.

Gorman will send the team through the same procedure this morning and will also school his new center ice player, Jo Jo Graboski, on a line with Johnny Gottselig at left wing and Lolo Couture at right.

The Blackhawks will leave early tomorrow morning on their last trip of the schedule. They will play the Detroit Red Wings, Montreal Maroons and Toronto Maple Leafs in the order named before returning to Chicago to tackle the league leading Maple Leafs in the last game of the regular season at the Stadium a week from tomorrow night.

WATSON WILLING TO BE NATIONAL G. O. P. CHAIRMAN

Approached, He Says, but Is Not Candidate.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 9.—[Special.]—Former Senator James E. Watson has been asked repeatedly by leading Republicans to become chairman of the Republican national committee, he asserted here today. He added he would accept the post if offered.

Watson, leader of the Republican party in the United States senate until defeated in 1932, was here to attend the annual midwinter meeting of the Indiana Republican Editorial association. His attention was called to a Washington report that he was being sought to take over the national party reins, supplanting Everett Sanders, another Indianan.

Denies Active Candidacy.

Washington quoted Senator Gerald P. Nye, North Dakota Progressive Republican and foe of Watson ideas, as saying Watson had a fine record in the farm fights in congress and would be more acceptable than some eastern conservative candidates.

Watson said, "I have been approached numerous times recently by Republicans, so-called Progressives, and members of the national committee, both men and women. The truth is, I'm in no sense a candidate. I have been fully out of politics. I wonder what impelled Senator Nye to say that.

"Of course, my relations with the Progressives personally have always been the finest. I imagine if the so-called Progressives in the party from the senate were to select a conservative, that person would be myself, on account of the fact that I always have been a rampant protectionist."

Fears for Fall Election.

Watson denied reports that he would seek the party nomination for congressman from his home district, the Tenth, or that he would seek the nomination for the senate seat held by Arthur Robinson, which will be filled in November. Asked about Republican chances of national success at the coming election, the former senator said:

"Frankly, I have grave fears that we can not elect any new senators. On the other hand, we ought to be able to elect seventy-five new congressmen."

Thus far, Watson said, there appears to be no organized opposition standing in the way of the renomination of Robinson.

Touching again on the national chairmanship suggestions, Watson said:

"With me there never has been any question as to personal likes or dislikes. I'm a party man always. When parties are dissipated, governmental chaos results.

"If the national committee meets and without factional strife or creation of a schism says, 'Jim Watson, because of his relations and understanding in the west, and in the middle west, and the east, too, is the logical chairman,' I would accept."

Funeral Today in Seattle for Mrs. Emma C. Hedreen

Funeral services will be held today at Seattle, Wash., for Mrs. Emma C. Hedreen, 76 years old, a former Chicagoan. She was the widow of Charles V. Hedreen, and had lived in Chicago for 35 years prior to moving to Seattle in 1922. Mrs. Hedreen died there Tuesday at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Esther Moe. Four other daughters and two sons survive. They are Mrs. Paul Isaacson of Seattle; Mrs. Nellie Jacobson, Mrs. Hilda Erickson, Mrs. Ruth Albright, and Chester and David Hedreen, the latter all of Chicago.

MOTOR ACCIDENTS TAKE FOUR LIVES; YEAR'S TOLL IS 230

Four persons died yesterday as the result of injuries incurred in motor accidents. These deaths increased the toll of traffic fatalities in Cook county since Jan. 1 to 230. The victims:

Robert Mohr, 7 years old, 700 South Tripp avenue. Died at the Garfield Park Community hospital of injuries incurred Thursday when he fell beneath the wheels of a truck while hitching a ride. Alfred Block, 1926 Maud avenue, the driver of the truck, was not held.

Charles Koehler, 66 years old, 2206 North Mulligan avenue. Died in the county hospital of injuries supposed to have been incurred when he was struck by a hit and run motorist at the intersection of Chicago and Grand avenues, March 3.

Vernon Cross, 56 years old, colored, 6355 Champlain avenue. Died at the county hospital of injuries incurred when he was struck by a car driven by Joseph Basso, 4333 Berkeley avenue, at 47th street and Drexel boulevard.

Alexander Laracey, 37 years old, 5520 South Hoyne avenue. Died at the Southtown hospital a few hours after he had been injured when his automobile collided with another car at 59th street and Damen avenue, overturned, and struck a post. Leroy Carlson, 24 years old, 929 North Long avenue, driver of the other car, was not held.

ZION'S VOLIVA, 64, SEES MILLENNIUM COMING IN 1946

Wilbur Glenn Voliva, head of the Christian Catholic Apostolic church of Zion, Ill., and also business head of the Zion Institutions and Industries, today will celebrate his 64th birthday. Yesterday he announced that he would work "from 16 to 18 hours on my birthday as I do on every other day." The one concession he will make will be his attendance at a dinner celebration with his wife, Ida; his daughter, Mrs. Ruth Bennett, and his three grandchildren.

"Much to the disappointment of my enemies I never felt better in my life and I'm confident that I'll still be working the same way when I am 100 years old. I lead a clean, honorable life and I don't overstuff my stomach. Ninety-five per cent of all illness comes from the stomach.

"I want to warn the world that the millennium will come in 1946. Then will come a time of Christian communism. Christ will rule the world," said Voliva, who is called "Overseer"—his title as head of the Zion church.

"I still maintain that the world is flat," he added.

The overseer has been head of the Zion church since 1906.

FUNERAL TODAY FOR WIDOW OF ARTHUR B. JONES

Funeral services will be held this afternoon for Mrs. Elizabeth A. Jones, widow of Arthur Blayney Jones, who was a trustee for the Marshall Field estate. Mrs. Jones, who was 79 years old, died Thursday at her home, 2204 Orrington avenue, Evanston.

She was active in work at the First Presbyterian church in Evanston and a director of Grove house, a convalescent home in the suburb. Mrs. Jones was born July 2, 1854, in Chicago, and moved to Evanston with her husband in 1883.

The services will be held at the home and burial will be at Rosehill cemetery. Surviving are a son, Howard B. Jones of Evanston, and four daughters, Mrs. Milton W. Wilker, Evanston; Mrs. Ralph Hayden of Monterey, Cal.; Mrs. Rudolf A. Clemen, Winnetka, and Mrs. Draper Allen of Birmingham, Mich.

EDITOR SEEKING HIS EX-WIFE IN SEARCH FOR SON

Paul R. Schlottman of Grayslake yesterday was seeking his former wife, Mrs. Grace Schlottman, and the Rev. James Inglis, former pastor of the Grayslake Congregational church, in an effort to find his son, John, 3 years old. Schlottman, who is publisher of the Grayslake Times, was awarded custody of the child and of his daughter, Muriel, 11 years old, on Thursday when he was granted a divorce in Lake county Circuit court at Waukegan.

Detectives under the direction of Schlottman's attorney, Bernard Juron, went to an apartment building at 2730 Hampden court, Chicago, where, it was reported, the minister and Mrs. Schlottman had lived for several months. They were told by the manager, Mrs. Ruby Van Kuren, that the couple had departed together on Feb. 2, taking the infant with them.

Later in the day Attorney Juron announced that he had information that Mrs. Schlottman is visiting friends in Indiana. The Rev. Mr. Inglis, he said, is living in Chicago and expects Mrs. Schlottman and her son to join him within a few days. The lawyer said that he would request a court order from Circuit Judge Ralph Dady, who granted the divorce, directing Mrs. Schlottman to give the child to the father.

Schlottman was awarded his divorce on the ground of cruelty after he had testified that his wife had fled with the Rev. Mr. Inglis. The preacher resigned his church duties shortly before leaving Grayslake.

OWNER OF BEAUTY SHOP NAMED AS BOMBER OF RIVAL

Ralph Love, 39 years old, 4827 North Damen avenue, a beauty shop operator, who was involved in a divorce suit last year, was reported to have been named by the grand jury in a true bill yesterday afternoon on the charge that he hired two men to bomb the shop of a rival, Michael Muller, at 2527 Devon avenue.

The witness before the grand jury was William (Bunny) Walters, 21 years old, 942 North Lawndale avenue, confessed bomber, who is held with Frank Currin, 31 years old, a former saloonkeeper, and Harry Fitzel, 23 years old, 1913 South Halsted street. Walters is reported to have testified that he and Currin were hired by Love, through George Patris, secretary of the Restaurateurs of Illinois, who is a suspect in a number of restaurant bombings.

Muller had made an agreement while he was employed by Love not to open a shop within a certain distance, and he broke this, according to investigators. This caused Love to hire him, Walters is reported to have told the jury. James Cosmos, 42 years old, 2005 Lawrence avenue, a restaurant owner and friend of Love, was also arrested by Lieut. John Treacy's bomb squad.

Patris, John Poulos, 3234 Southport avenue, a restaurant owner, and John Evorich, 721 West 17th street, a hardware clerk accused of furnishing pipe to make the bombs, were held in $10,000 bonds on charges of manufacturing explosives pending a hearing in the Felony court March 22.

FREED "LIFER" IS TAKEN HOME BY SON AND FRIENDS

Michigan City, Ind., March 9.—[Special.]—There was a big celebration in Hymera tonight for Otis Turner, 67 year old farmer who was released from the state penitentiary here this morning on an unconditional pardon signed by Gov. Paul V. McNutt, after another prisoner's confession absolved the old man of murder.

Turner, a grandfather, entered the prison last June to serve a life sentence imposed by a jury in Sullivan county on testimony that he was the slayer of Andy Reedy and his son, Oral Reedy. Enfeebled by illness, he broke down and wept for joy when his son, Paul, came with two friends to take him out of the place during the night. He cried all of the way home in the automobile.

Frank Vanderpool, another farmer from Sullivan county, finally confessed the killings in his cell, where he is serving a life term.

Free Major Charged with Talking About Superior

San Antonio, Tex., March 9.—(AP)—A nine member military court tonight freed Maj. William C. Ocker, veteran of the army air corps, of charges that he uttered remarks uncomplimentary to his commanding officer. In a verdict regarded by the defense as complete vindication for the 58 year old veteran, the court ended a trial that lasted nine days.

HERE'S NEW HEALTH FOR YOUR LIVER

Now banish bad breath, pimples, constipation; feel like a million!

That tired, drowsy feeling in the morning, that "dark-brown" taste in the mouth—if you would banish them and win back buoyant health, don't expect relief from salts, mineral oil, or candy and chewing gum laxatives.

For such remedies only move the bowels. While chances are you're one of the thousands suffering from sluggish liver which does not yield suf

WEEK'S FREIGHT TOTAL RISES TO PEAK OF YEAR

604,137 Cars Moved; 25% Over Year Ago.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 9.—The movement of freight traffic last week exceeded by a wide margin the most optimistic forecasts and emphasized the seasonal betterment that has occurred in industry and trade. The total was the largest for any week this year.

Carloadings for the week ended March 3 totaled 604,137 cars, according to figures released today by the American Railway association. Private estimates several days ago had placed the figure between 595,000 and 601,000 cars.

Compared with the corresponding week a year ago the increase was 122,929 cars, or 25.5 per cent. The substantial rise over 1933 reflects principally the curtailment of industrial activity last year as a result of the banking moratorium.

However, the latest carloadings figure represents a gain of 44,658 cars over the same 1932 week. For the week ended Feb. 4, last loadings were 4.3 per cent below the preceding period and 24.02 per cent above the Feb. 25, 1933, aggregate.

The total of carloadings for the year to date at 5,090,568 cars exceeded the figure for the corresponding period of 1932 for the first time.

Miscellaneous freight totaled 205,929 cars, an increase of 10,253 above the preceding week, 44,520 above 1933 and 9,313 above 1932; less than carlot merchandise, 162,397, an increase of 18,255 above the preceding week and 128 above 1933, but a decrease of 29,107 below 1932.

Grain Loadings Rise.

Grain and grain products loadings were 29,098 cars, an increase of 1,641 above the preceding week and 1,125 above 1933, but a decrease of 2,273 below 1932; forest products, 21,530, a decrease of 975 below the preceding week, but an increase of 6,168 above 1933 and 1,041 above 1932; ore, 2,646, a decrease of 565 below the preceding week, but 1,278 above 1933 and 550 above 1932; coal, 157,714, increase of 2,688 over the preceding week, 63,804 above 1933, and 62,247 above 1932; coke, 10,792, increase 724 above the preceding week, 5,913 above 1933, and 5,708 above 1932; livestock, 14,031, a decrease of 1,260 below the preceding week, 7 below 1933, and 2,921 below 1932.

GENERAL MOTORS FOREIGN SALES IN FEBRUARY JUMP

February foreign sales of the General Motors corporation totaled 11,195 units, an increase of 62.3 per cent over the same month last year and 49 per cent above the corresponding 1932 period, the company announced yesterday.

For the first two months volume aggregated 21,512, which was 71.9 per cent above 1933 and 58 per cent above 1932.

The recovery is world-wide, the announcement said, and applies not only to the corporation's products manufactured in the United States and Canada but also to the Opel product made in Germany and Vauxhall produced in England.

HITLER CREATES COMMISSION TO CONTROL MONEY

BERLIN, March 9.—(AP)—Chancellor Adolf Hitler has created a commission for control of the money market, with Dr. Hjalmar Schacht as chairman, it was announced today by the Reichsbank president.

Addressing the annual meeting of the bank, Dr. Schacht explained that the new commission would have discretionary powers. He said that despite the transfer arrangement and capital flight law, the exchange situation had not improved. The only success noted was "the fact that foreign nations are beginning to understand our situation better."

B. F. GOODRICH NETS $2,272,514; HAD LOSS IN 1932

The pamphlet report of B. F. Goodrich company and subsidiaries for 1933 shows a net profit of $2,272,514, equal to $7.72 a share on the 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock, and, after allowance for annual dividend requirements of preferred, to 18 cents a share on the common. In 1932 the company had a net loss of $6,582,140. The 1933 net income includes a credit of $2,374,937, representing the difference between cost and face value of the company's bonds and debentures acquired. There was a similar credit of $2,500,957 in 1932.

Middle West Units Report Lower Income

Declining revenues which resulted in sharp contraction of net income were revealed yesterday in annual reports of the two largest operating subsidiaries of the Middle West Utilities company—Central Illinois Public Service company and the Wisconsin Power and Light company.

Central Illinois reported gross earnings of $10,817,727, against $11,828,530 in 1932 and net income, after charges and taxes of $642,434, against $1,780,062. Last year's profit was equal to $2.51 a share on 288,881 preferred shares outstanding and compares with $6.17 a preferred share a year previous.

The Wisconsin utility's gross aggregated $7,568,116, compared with $8,280,692 a year earlier, and net amounted to $647,667, equal to $4.01 a share on the preferred stock, against $1,299,577, or $8.89 a preferred share, in 1932.

Says Customers Earned Less.

L. A. McGraw, president of Central Illinois Public Service, ascribed the reduction in income to lowered earning power of the company's 169,823 customers in farming and coal mining regions of central Illinois. Taxes were another "increasingly heavy" burden, he said, the 2 per cent state occupational tax and the 3 per cent federal electricity tax, which became effective during the year, adding to an already heavy load.

Capital of the company represented by common stock was reduced during the year from $21,909,450 to $10,413,720, he added, and capital surplus so created was used to charge off abandoned and retired property, premiums, discount, and expense of refunded bonds, and other adjustments. Drastic reductions in operating expenses were effected to offset declining revenues, the total for operating expense and maintenance dropping $546,379 during the period.

The company's cash position was strengthened by a cut in bonded indebtedness of $612,500 par value and purchase of $300,000 in short term treasury certificates.

Hydro Electric Output Cut.

Grover C. Neff, president of Wisconsin Power and Light, asserted that subnormal rainfall cut down hydroelectric generation of electricity about 30,000,000 kilowatt hours and required the production of power in steam plants at a higher cost. An addition is now being built at the Prairie du Sac dam which will add 15 million kilowatt hours a year.

Current assets are carried as of Dec. 31, last, at $2,268,227 and current liabilities at $1,708,394.

In both reports the companies stressed threatened competition from municipally owned power plants financed through public works administration loans.

Mr. McGraw, head of the central Illinois firm, said his company has vigorously protested the construction of competing plants "in an effort to show such practice would result in economic waste."

PUSH COLLECTION OF DETROIT BANK ASSESSMENTS

Detroit, Mich., March 9.—[Special.]—Receivers of the First National and Guardian National banks were preparing today to move promptly in the collection of $35,000,000 double liability assessment as the result of Thursday's decision by Judge Johnson J. Hayes in United States District court, upholding the legality of the assessment.

The receivers do not expect to be able to collect more than 50 per cent of this amount, however. The money probably will not be used for direct additional dividends to depositors, but will be used to reduce the debt of the closed banks to the RFC. Receivers point out that, in the long run, payments of assessments may result in an additional payoff to depositors, but added the date when such payoffs may be expected is remote.

The receivers today began preparation of a letter to all stockholders, informing them that the court's ruling says the assessments must be paid.

The Guardian National's debt to the RFC is $17,000,000; that of the First National, $55,000,000.

James O. Murfin, one of the stockholders' attorneys, said he expected to have his bill of claims for an appeal ready when Judge Hayes reconvenes court to enter his formal decree on April 9.

OUTPUT OF AUTOS IN MONTH NEARLY TWICE '33 FIGURE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

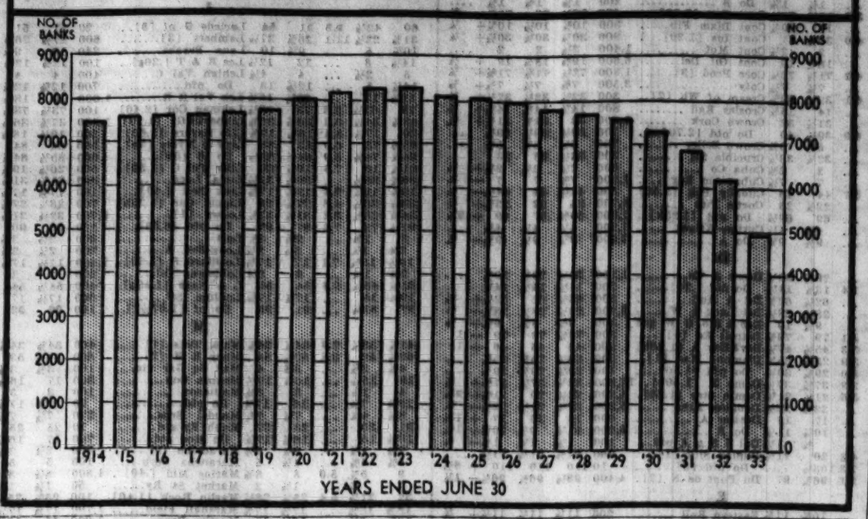
New York, March 9.—A total of 170,206 vehicles was produced last month by members of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, according to a preliminary estimate released today by that organization.

The estimate, which is based upon reports of factory shipments and includes operations of all but one major producer in the industry, compares with total production of 101,586 in the previous month and 93,402 in the corresponding month of last year.

On that basis, February operations represented a 68 per cent increase over the preceding month and 82 per cent rise over the same 1933 period.

For the first two months of this year output totaled 271,792 vehicles, against 207,193 in the same 1933 period.

Number of National Banks in the United States June 30 of Each Year



Set Up U. S. Bank to Export Silver to Cuba

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 9.—President Roosevelt today set up a $2,750,000 export bank to arrange for silver exports to Cuba so that a silver currency system can be established in the island republic.

SECRETARY CORDELL HULL.

The Cuban bank is the second in a chain of three export financing institutions which the President plans to create for the assistance of American foreign trade. The first bank is dealing with Russia and is now arranging for the exportation of 50 million dollars' worth of cotton and copper.

Names Nine Directors.

At the head of the Cuban bank the President placed nine directors, led by Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper. Arrangements for the incorporation and launching of the bank he placed in the hands of Secretary of State Cordell Hull and Secretary Roper. Other directors are:

R. Walton Moore, assistant secretary of state; George N. Peek, special adviser to the President on foreign trade; Robert F. Kelley, chief of the division of eastern European affairs, department of state; Chester C. Davis, administrator, agricultural adjustment administration; Tom K. Smith, assistant to the secretary of the treasury; Stanley Reed, general counsel, Reconstruction Finance corporation; Lynn P. Talley, executive assistant to the directors of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, and Harold H. Neff, assistant chief, securities division, federal trade commission.

U. S. Agencies Buy Stock.

Out of the bank's $2,750,000 capitalization, the President, in his order, directed that $250,000 has been common stock purchased with public works funds and controled by Secretaries Hull and Roper. The remaining $2,500,000 is to be in preferred stock purchased by the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

Loans are to be made to American exporters of silver so that they may ship the white metal to Cuba. The President said he had no idea of how much silver would go in the first allotment. Ten million dollars' worth may be the ultimate total, according to reports.

A. & P. TEA SALES FOR MONTH 5.18% ABOVE YEAR AGO

Sales of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company in the four weeks ended Feb. 24 increased 5.18 per cent over the corresponding period of last year, amounting to $64,271,548, against $61,104,862, the company revealed yesterday.

Expressed in tons the volume was estimated at 377,782, against 409,632 in 1933, a decline of 31,850 tons, or 7.78 per cent. Average weekly sales in February were $16,067,887, compared with $15,276,215 last year, while average weekly tonnage was 94,446, against 102,408.

Crowley-Doherty Hearing Postponed Until March 30

Hearing on the Crowley-Doherty company, investment firm at 120 South La Salle street, scheduled yesterday in the Felony court, was postponed until March 30 because the report of the firm's receiver, George H. Mason, has not been completed. The concern was placed in receivership in January.

RESERVE BANK ARMS; STATIONS GUARDS AT STRATEGIC POINTS

The foyer of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago is taking on the appearance of an armed camp. Two "pill boxes" in which guards will be stationed are being installed at strategic points in the main lobby of the building. At least four uniformed guards are also on hand in the lobby throughout the business day.

Officials of the bank made no comment on the installation of the boxes. The reported presence in Chicago of John Dillinger and the recent theft from the treasury building in Washington of 10 faked gold bars and $75 in authentic gold coin were commented on in connection with the bank's step.

While the reserve banks are no longer technical owners of gold, they act as warehouses for the treasury, which took over all the monetary gold in the country under the terms of Roosevelt monetary act. In addition the bank has on hand at all times large amounts of currency.

GET $2,767,500 MORE OF GOLD; DOLLAR STEADY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 9.—Gold imports of $2,767,500, of which $1,083,500 from England was additional for Thursday and $1,684,000 arrived from Canada today, were reported today by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. This brought the total of gold imports since Feb. 1, to $548,662,900. The net gain in monetary gold stocks in the period, through imports and releases of gold from earmark has been $510,186,900.

Foreign exchanges continued quiet with only small net changes or none shown. Sterling was up ⅛ cent at $5.08, while the franc at 6.58 cents was unchanged.

Gold advanced 2 pence a fine ounce in the London open market to an equivalent of $34.74 an ounce at which price nearly $3,000,000 of metal was bought by various interests, including a small amount for export to the United States.

The higher gold price bore out one belief that Great Britain is aiming for a gold price of 144 shillings an ounce. That figure would give the pound a dollar value of $4.86, or about its old parity. This seemed logical to some local foreign exchange men in view of the fact that it would mean much to Great Britain, to reduce the dollar equivalent of the pound, when trade competition becomes more acute.

ASSAIL PLAN TO LET ROOSEVELT ADJUST TARIFFS

Directors of the Illinois Manufacturers' association yesterday voted opposition to the proposal allowing the President to negotiate reciprocal tariff rates without taking the matter before congress.

Objections included too much authority for the chief executive; fears that too much flexibility would be used to the destruction of many important American industries, and lack of a defense on the part of manufacturers because advance knowledge of proposed changes would not be known.

A resolution said "the bill would take from the congressional representatives of the people one of their most important functions. It would alter completely our traditional method of making tariff rates—a most important function—by taking them out of the hands of congress and vesting them in one individual."

WAGES IN STEEL INDUSTRY RISE DURING JANUARY

New York, March 9.—(AP)—The American Iron and Steel institute announced today results of a survey which showed that average earnings per hour and total wages of employés in the industry increased during January, although employment declined slightly.

The institute said the number of employés for the month was 393,013, compared to 394,943 for December. Total January wages for workers on hourly, piecework, or tonnage basis amounted to $26,773,393, against $26,439,830 for the previous month, the survey showed. Average earnings an hour in January were 58.3 cents, compared to 57.3 cents for December.

Pressed Steel Car Gets Hopper Rebuilding Order

An order to rebuild 100 seventy ton hopper cars for the Donner-Hanna Coke corporation has been received by the Pressed Steel Car company, it was learned yesterday.

Credit Bank Survey Here Is Finished

The survey to determine the credit needs of business in connection with the proposed establishment of a string of 12 federal intermediate banks has been completed in this district and a report made to Washington. The results of the survey, however, will not be made public here by the Chicago reserve bank.

Advices from cities in the Chicago reserve district indicate that local industries for the most part are getting what credit they need from their own banks. From all quarters, however, there is expressed a willingness to accept a share of any new easy money that the federal government passes out.

Bankers Claim Misunderstanding.

Bankers assert there appears to be some misunderstanding of the purpose of the proposed new banks. Such institutions would furnish credit only when longer term loans than the local banks could furnish safely were sought. In any case, however, the local banks will be asked to underwrite 20 per cent of the total loan with the intermediate bank taking the remaining 80 per cent.

Dispatches from Washington stated that the final draft of the bill setting up the new banks in each reserve district will be completed some time next week. The work has been held up pending receipt of the reports on the surveys made by the 12 reserve banks.

May Provide Longer Loans.

As expressed by administration leaders the purpose of the legislation is to enable industry, particularly smaller industries, to obtain loans of three years or longer maturity, which they cannot get at present.

Behind it, too, is seen the administration's answer to criticism directed at it that, while urging bankers to extend credit through one branch of the government, it has been cracking down through the controler's office on bad loans.

H. O. WETMORE IS PROMOTED BY FIRST NATIONAL

Horace O. Wetmore was elected an assistant vice president of the First National bank yesterday by the board of directors. Mr. Wetmore is a son of the late Frank O. Wetmore, who was with the bank for more than 40 years, and was chairman of the board at the time of his death in 1930. He has been an assistant cashier.

Two other promotions were made by the board. C. Edward Dahlin and Homer J. Livingston, assistant attorneys, were elected attorneys.

Mr. Wetmore's election marks the second promotion recently of a son of a former head of the institution. James B. Forgan Jr., son of the former president, was made a general vice president and director last month.

Otis Elevator Company Gets $300,000 Contract

Contracts totaling $300,000 have been awarded the Otis Elevator company for the installation of elevators and escalators in the William H. Block department store in Indianapolis, Ind.

Grand Union Store Sales Gain 6.5% Over Year Ago

The Grand Union company's store sales in the four weeks ended March 3 totaled $2,082,771, against $1,955,590 a year ago, an increase of 6.5 per cent.

STOCKS SEESAW; TRADE TURNS TO CANADA ISSUES

Rumor Dominion to Devalue Currency.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 9.—Rumors that Canada is preparing to devalue its dollar focused speculative activity on the shares of a number of corporations domiciled or operating in the dominion in today's stock market dealings. Canadian Pacific, Dominion Stores, International Nickel, and some of the Canadian gold and silver producers, such as Dome and McIntyre, were in particular demand, mostly at higher prices.

Dominion Stores was boosted more than 2 points and Canadian Pacific rose 1¾ to the best level of the year. Better Canadian freight movements helped the demand for the railroad issue to some extent and impressive reports on the progress of business recovery in the dominion, where there are no NRA codes to hold a threat against future profits, were also credited by brokers with providing stimulus to the demand for Canadian securities.

Silver Issues Strong.

Silver shares in general, reflecting advices from Washington that the house coinage committee would meet tomorrow to consider reporting the silver bill, also came in for some constructive attention. U. S. Smelting advanced a point and American Smelting half as much. Stocks of some of the lesser companies of the division showed moderate improvement.

Outside of these two groups, the market was a mixed affair, with prices generally drifting uncertainly in the narrow grooves they have been following for the better part of two weeks.

Stocks like U. S. Steel, American Can, Du Pont, Chrysler, and Westinghouse were firm in early dealings, but as the session progressed sagged from a fraction to a point when fresh outside demand was not forthcoming. A number of low priced stocks, on the other hand, moved ahead. Oils were firm and the utilities held around yesterday's close on light trading.

Most Rail Stocks Steady.

Most of the railroad shares also managed to hold their own. Exceptions were Atchison and Union Pacific, both of which eased a point or so. Belgian National Railways preferred reached the highest price since it was listed in 1928.

Homestake Mining rose 7 points on rumors of an important advance in the treasury's gold price.

Such news as the wires brought in was generally favorable to the bull side. Trade reports on the whole were reassuring.

On the other hand, followers of the airplane group had to stomach the growing prospects that a drastic reorganization of the aviation setup probably will be necessary under President Roosevelt's stipulations for reletting airmail contracts to private companies. United Aircraft, the big leader of the group, sold off nearly 2 points mainly on this probability. Wright suffered a similar loss and smaller declines were recorded by Douglass and Bendix.

Trading was at a slow pace throughout the session, turnover declining to around 1,416,000 shares.

CLEARING HOUSE CHAIRMANSHIP STILL VACANT

The executive committee of the Chicago Clearing House association has taken no action to fill the chairmanship made vacant by the death of Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National bank. E. E. Brown, Mr. Traylor's successor as head of the First National, has been elected a member of the committee.

Howard W. Fenton, president of the Harris Trust and Savings bank, is vice chairman of the committee, and might ordinarily succeed to the chairmanship. The presidency of the clearing house, however, is already held by a Harris Trust representative, Frank R. Elliott, vice president. It is believed likely that a representative of another bank will be named to one of the two positions.

Magma Copper Will Pay 50 Cents Out of Surplus

New York, March 9.—(AP)—Directors of Magma Copper company declared a dividend of 50 cents a share out of surplus, payable April 16 to stock of record March 29. A statement by the directors said the dividend was not to be regarded as establishment of a permanent policy.

Report Chicago Interests Buy Atlas Tack Stock from Philbin

Chicago interests have purchased the controling interest in the Atlas Tack corporation from Philip H. Philbin, the California promoter whose operations in the stock caused a sensational investigation in New York last December, according to reports yesterday.

The reputed purchaser of the Atlas stock is the Guardian Securities company, 2300 Lincoln parkway, Arthur Greene, president of Merchant and Manufacturer company, of which Arthur Cutten is a director, is reputed to be the man behind the Guardian company.

Reported To Be a Trust.

It is said to be an investment trust which Greene operates personally. The company is not listed in the telephone directory, but Mr. Greene lives at 2300 Lincoln parkway. At his home last night it was said he has been vacationing in Florida for three weeks and will return to Chicago this morning.

Stock of the company staged a sensational advance last year, rising from $1 to $35 a share, and then cracked sharply. It is now selling at $9.50 a share. The investigation of the New York attorney general brought out that Philbin made a profit when the stock crashed, while other investors were taking heavy losses.

Investigated by Exchange.

The disclosures resulted in an investigation by the New York Stock exchange and the tightening of rules by the business conduct committee.

Kermit Roosevelt's name was brought into the inquiry when it was revealed that he was elected a director of the company last October shortly before the sensational market operation began.

Philbin was arrested because he refused to answer questions of the attorney general's securities division, but the case was thrown out of court.

Trade Makes New Gains as Spring Nears

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 9.—"Measured by every yardstick of comparison, business generally shows improvement over the record for the same period of last year, last month and last week," says the Dunn & Bradstreet weekly review. "Increased pay rolls, the release of funds by reopened banks and the commencement of PWA activities are proving a powerful stimulus to the current trade revival in nearly all districts.

"So long have been the strides toward recovery that manufacturers now foresee shortages of merchandise within the next six months. Moderation of the weather was one of the strongest single factors, releasing an avalanche of demand for spring goods.

Business Best in Four Years.

"On the basis of the sales of the current week distributive volume for March gives promise of topping the comparative totals of the last four years, with a larger percentage of gain for the spring season possible, as the peak of the buying interest is not yet discernible.

"The business activity barometer compiled by Dun & Bradstreet has reached a new high for the current year, rising to 66.9 in its sixth successive weekly gain. When compared with 45.9, which the barometer registered for the corresponding week of 1933, there has been an advance of 45.8 per cent, and it now is only 7.7 per cent below the peak of 1933, when 72.5 was struck for the week ended Aug. 2.

Retail Sales Rocket.

"After the temporary slackening in some branches toward the end of February, retail sales are skyrocketing and more than taking up the slack caused by the neglect of spring goods during the week immediately preceding.

"With demand stimulated by the special pre-Easter sales, the moderation in weather conditions brought out throngs of shoppers, which on some of the most favorable days had all the semblance of the Christmas shopping period.

"Wholesale markets are assuming much of the activity which characterized operations last fall, when frantic efforts were being made to get orders placed before imminent price rises."

NATIONAL STEEL NEARLY DOUBLES INCOME IN 1933

New York, March 10.—(AP)—The pamphlet report of the National Steel corporation shows net earnings in 1933 of $2,812,406, equal, after depreciation and depletion, to $1.30 a share, compared with net earnings of $1,662,920, or 77 cents a share in 1932.

In a letter to stockholders, Ernest T. Weir, chairman of the corporation, stated that earnings in the final quarter of the year were reduced by strike conditions in Weirton. He added that all of the plants are at present operating normally.

The company engaged in an extensive building program in 1933, expending $3,287,671 for new plant facilities and replacements. Two additional open hearth furnaces with a capacity of 250,000 gross tons of steel, together with auxiliary equipment, was installed at the plant of the Great Lakes Steel corporation, a subsidiary.

Funded debt of the corporation was decreased by $2,238,333, which included provision for sinking fund requirements until August, 1935, on the 5 per cent first mortgage sinking fund bonds.

COLGATE MAKES A DEFENSE OF BONUS SYSTEM

S. Buyard Colgate, president of the Colgate-Palmolive-Peet company, yesterday told stockholders at the annual meeting that bonus payments to corporation executives are justified as an incentive, to increased effort.

A stockholder asked Mr. Colgate if salaries should not be sufficient inducement to officers to give their best efforts without additional "bribes." Mr. Colgate replied that salaries were sufficient to meet "living expenses and so forth" while officers looked to bonuses for additional compensation.

Another stockholder asked if some reasonable amount of earnings should not be shown on the common stock before such payments were made. Mr. Colgate said he did not wish to say what such an amount should be.

Stockholders reelected all sitting directors. Mr. Colgate said the number of shareholders has increased to 6,217 from 2,100 in 1930.

REFRACTORIES TO REDUCE HOURS, MAINTAIN PAY

Washington, D. C., March 9.—(AP)—The code authority of the refractories industry today announced that it had agreed unanimously to reduce working weeks from 40 to 30 hours without reducing pay.

This was one of the first favorable responses by a code authority to the President and Hugh S. Johnson's plea for a slash in hours of its employés without a reduction in pay.

The code authority said, however, that its decision would be submitted to members of the industry.

The NRA announcement said that the action, if ratified, would result in the reemployment of about 2,000 additional men. The refractories industry, makers of crucibles, firebrick, and other materials used in the production of iron, steel, glass, and pottery, employs about 20,000 workers.

Goodyear Tire of Canada Raises Common Dividend

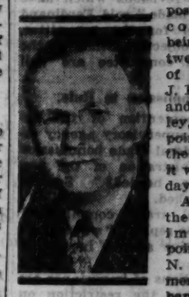
New York, March 9.—(AP)—Directors of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company of Canada have declared a quarterly dividend of $1.25 a share on the common stock, placing it on a $5 annual basis, compared with $4 a year paid previously. The dividend is payable April 2 to stock of record March 15.

STAGE BATTLE FOR CONTROL OF DEPOSIT CORP.

O'Connor Opposes Stronck as Director.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 9.—A battle for the control of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation is being waged between Controler of the Currency J. F. T. O'Connor and Leo T. Crowley, newly appointed head of the corporation, it was learned today.



J. F. T. O'CONNOR. [Acme Photo.]

At the heart of the struggle is the impending appointment of H. N. Stronck, former Chicago banker, as a director of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation. Backed by Crowley, Stronck is being bitterly opposed by O'Connor.

Marvin H. McIntyre, secretary to President Roosevelt, is endeavoring to patch up the dispute before presenting Stronck's name or that of any other candidate to the President for approval and submission to the senate, high officials revealed.

Balance of Power at Stake.

Behind the question of Stronck's appointment is the balance of power on the corporation's three man board of directors. E. G. Bennett, whose resignation has opened a vacancy on the board, and Chairman Crowley are supporting Stronck, who has been Bennett's assistant. They are contending that Stronck's appointment will insure continuance of the corporation's policies.

Meanwhile, however, Controler O'Connor, who is an ex-officio director of the corporation and who frequently has been a minority on the present board, has carried his battle to Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. and to some senators.

Chief objection which O'Connor is urging against Stronck is that his appointment would leave eastern banks without representation on the directorate of the corporation.

Chairman Crowley is from Madison, Wis.; O'Connor is from Los Angeles, and Stronck, although he previously lived in Chicago, now makes his home in Tucson, Ariz.

Appointment Denied.

Published reports that Stronck is to be named to the board of directors have drawn denials from W. Kenneth Hays, publicity director of the board, who indicated that the denials were inspired by O'Connor and who admitted that he had not discussed the question with Chairman Crowley. Hays was brought to the corporation from Los Angeles by O'Connor.

Involved in the question of Stronck's appointment is continuance of most of the corporation's present ranking personnel and policies. O'Connor is understood to desire the removal of Walter Owens, secretary of the corporation and its operating head. Although the outcome of the dispute remained in doubt today, Chairman Crowley was reported as hopeful that his frequent visits to the White House and to Secretary Morgenthau's office will bring about Stronck's appointment over O'Connor's opposition. Secretary Morgenthau is understood to have been instrumental in bringing Crowley to Washington and to be a close friend.

CANADIAN ROADS POOL RUNS; SAVE A MILLION MILES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., March 9.—Train schedules on several domestic runs will be pooled by the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National railways, effective Sunday, March 11. It will accomplish a saving of approximately 1,000,000 train miles per annum, and a saving to each company of $500,000 per annum.

It is announced that the conductors and trainmen affected by the pooling will retain their employment, being placed in other departments.

The two Canadian railways have gross revenues in the first two months of 1934 aggregating $6,700,000 over the corresponding two months a year ago.

REVISED STOCK CONTROL BILL READY MONDAY

Will Permit Margins to Fall to 40 Per Cent.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 9.—The revised Fletcher-Rayburn stock exchange bill will be ready for submission to the senate banking and currency committee on Monday. The bill, said Senator Fletcher, chairman of the committee, has not been rewritten. The changes, he explained, involve some of the more controversial sections such as those dealing with marginal trading, over-the-counter transactions, corporation reports, exemption of securities such as municipal and railway bonds, and segregation of broker and dealer activities.

"I think the revisions which have been or will be made," said Ferdinand Pecora, counsel for the committee, will meet the objections that in the opinion of the committee are well founded."

Trade Commission to Rule.

"Will the contention of the exchanges that a supervisory agency instead of the federal trade commission be given administration of the proposed law be heeded?" Senator Fletcher was asked.

"The federal trade commission," Senator Fletcher replied, "will remain the administrative agency in the revised bill."

Two modifications of importance are those which ease the restriction on marginal requirements and permit exchange members to trade for their own account and act as brokers on a cash basis. The margin change permits brokers to carry customers until their margins drop to 40 per cent. The original provision required 60 per cent at all times.

The committee heard no witnesses today. Senator Fletcher said that on Monday the committee will hear William C. Potter, chairman of the board of the Guaranty Trust company, and Percy H. Johnston, president of the Chemical Bank and Trust company, and also chairman of the New York Clearing House.

No Extensive Hearings.

Senator Fletcher indicated that the committee will not hold extensive hearings on the revised bill. If they are had they will be limited to two or three days, as the program is to report the bill to the senate on Thursday or Friday of next week.

The New York Stock exchange will submit to the committee on Monday financial statements covering receipts and expenditures by or on behalf of the exchange and its subsidiary corporations for the last three years. A digest of replies to questionnaires submitted by the exchange covering all aviation stock transactions from Dec. 1 last, to Feb. 9, the date of the air mail cancellations, is also expected Monday. The replies to questionnaires submitted by the exchange last week covered only the period from Jan. 26 to Feb. 9, inclusive.

TESTIFIES LONG FREIGHT TRAINS PERIL EMPLOYES

Witnesses for railroad employés yesterday before the Illinois commerce commission testified to the hazards and economic disadvantages of long freight trains. Pursuant to a state legislative resolution, the commission is conducting an investigation as to the operation of trains more than one-half mile in length, as the result of complaints from the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

Richard Abram told of instances where employés were seriously injured because of the sudden stopping of long trains. He also asserted that the railroads must adopt smaller and faster freight trains if they are to compete with motor carriers and other forms of transportation. He declared that many shipments were delayed until a sufficient number of cars was loaded to make up the required tonnage in mile long trains. The next hearing will take place on March 15.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 9.—The listed bond market continued its advance today in active dealings, with all classifications of issues averaging higher on the day. United States government long-term bonds, although less active than on the previous day moved up 1-32d to 11-32ds point with the exception of the Fourth Liberty 4¼s, called and uncalled, which were slightly easier. Easier money rates were a factor.

New Highs for 1934.

Issues that advanced to new marks for 1934 were some loans of American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, Union Pacific, Chesapeake & Ohio, Pacific Telephone, Pennsylvania Railway, Reading, Shell Union Oil, Norfolk and Western, Public Service Electric, New England Telephone, Northern Pacific, Duquesne Light, Kansas Gas, Kansas City Power and Light, Bethlehem Steel and Morris & Essex.

The turnover totaled $14,986,000, about the same as in the preceding session. Treasury bonds accounted for about $1,500,000 of the total.

Australian Group Active.

Bonds of the Australian group were among the most active of the foreign section of the list, moving up fractionally to more than a point to establish new highs for the year in a number of instances. French government loans were up fractionally while German issues showed considerable irregularity. Argentine government bonds showed about the first strength in the South American group.

Domestic bonds on the curb exchange ruled active and higher, with the gains ranging up to 5 points. Foreign loans were generally lower.

HOLC BONDS.

Bonds of the Home Owners' Loan corporation were quoted yesterday at 96½ bid, 97½ asked.

United States Tobacco.

Investors' Guide: Please give me the rating on United States Tobacco listed on the New York Stock exchange. Thanks.—H. H. O.

Answer: United States Tobacco company was formed in 1911 to acquire the businesses of eight predecessor companies, the oldest of which had been formed in '27. It is the largest snuff manufacturer in the world. It also produces smoking and chewing tobaccos.

The capital of the company is marked with unusual stability, coupled with a steady growth. With the exception of 1933 and 1914 earnings showed slight increases every year since incorporation.

Net income in 1933 was $3,396,000, or $7.03 per common share, against record net of $3,535,000, or $7.55 per common share, for 1932. In 1931 net was $3,021,000, against $2,951,000 for 1930 and $2,771,000 for 1929.

At the close of 1933 current position, as usual, was strong. Current assets totaled $25,058,000, and current liabilities were $3,888,000.

Capitalization consists of 23,771 shares of $100 par 7 per cent preferred, excluding treasury stock, and 457,850 shares of no par common.

With plant facilities sufficient for normal needs and a strong current position the company has been able to disburse the greater portion of earnings to its stockholders. The stock pays $1.10 a quarter. An extra of $5 a share was paid Jan. 2, 1934.

Both the preferred and common are high grade stocks.

Missouri Power and Light.

Investors' Guide: Please give me your rating on Missouri Power and Light 5½s, due 1955.—C. W. E.

Answer: The principal community served by Missouri Power and Light company, a subsidiary of North American Light and Power, is Jefferson City, Mo. It also supplies utility services to 198 other communities, reaching a population of 164,000 in Missouri. About 8[illegible] per cent of gross comes from sale of electricity.

Earnings statement for 1933 is not yet available. During previous years however, charges were covered by wide margins. They were earned 2.20 times in 1932, 2.28 times in 1931, and 2.43 times in 1930. Effective Jan. 1, 1934, the Missouri public service commission ordered a new rate schedule to be put into effect. This, it is estimated, will cut down gross revenues about $180,000 a year. In 1932 gross amounted to $2,921,000.

Current position at the close of 1932 was favorable. Current assets were $1,005,000 and current liabilities were $366,000.

Funded debt consisted solely of $3,000,000 first 5½s, due 1955, and 4½s, due 1958, both of equal priority. They are a business man's investment.

U. S. CANCELS HOG ORDERS; PRICES DIP 5 TO 15 CENTS

Cattle Are Steady; Lambs Turn Higher.

Federal buying orders for hogs were suddenly canceled at all points in the country yesterday. Prices here sank 5 to 15 cents when this news arrived, the market turning weak after getting away to a comparatively strong start.

It is estimated that at the present rate of distribution the relief corporation is carrying enough pork to last at least another month. This is the second time the government orders have been stopped. Those canceled yesterday were far from being filled. The program was to buy 15,000 daily for 20 market days, but packers have been on the market for the account of the government for only six market days on this new order and their purchases have been about half the original quota.

Planned to Check Decline.

Simultaneously with the increasing of the processing tax to $2.25 per hundredweight on March 1, this new buying order was thrown on the market to offset the influence of the heavy tax, but it was intimated at the time that should the market hold up, the government might withdraw its orders.

There was an acute scarcity of choice grades of hogs yesterday and these showed the least weakness, but the bulk of the market was down 10 to 15 cents at the close. Trading turned sluggish for a time in midsession, but later in the day a good clearance at the decline was indicated, with large local packers among the most aggressive buyers.

Choice light butchers topped the market yesterday at $4.75, equaling the preceding day's highest mark, but the general average at $4.50 showed 5 cents' loss.

Cattle Alleys Quiet.

Yesterday was "cleanup" day in the cattle alleys and a clearance was effected on a mostly steady price basis. The few scattered lots of good steers in the meager receipts showed some strength, but hardly enough sold in each division to put the list of quotations to a test. No load lots were good enough to bring more than $6.35, while 5 head averaging 870 pounds sold at $6.75. However, the trade is carrying a nominal quotation of $7.50 for prime yearlings.

A mild rally in lamb prices followed a long deadlock in the market yesterday. Buyers and sellers were at grips over prices which are sharply lower than a week ago. Sellers scored on the late afternoon rounds when order buyers absorbed several strings of lambs for eastern trade at 10 to 15 cents advance. City butchers paid up to $9.35, while shippers bought at $9.25 and under. Aged sheep were firm.

LARD HIGHER IN LIMITED TRADE; EXPORTS DECLINE

Selling pressure on lard was limited yesterday, and with better support, futures closed at net gains of 5 cents. Cash lots were up 5 cents to $6.50 for regular and loose lard, and leaf advanced 12½ cents to $6.75.

Liverpool lard was unchanged to 3d lower. The export business was disappointing, with only 70,000 pounds cleared from New York on Thursday.

Cash bellies were unchanged at $8.12½. Fresh pork loins are moving fairly at 12½ to 15 cents. Distributors reported a fair business for dry salted bellies. Prices:

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, March 9.—(AP)—COTTONSEED OIL—Bleachable was firmer today on increased covering and buying of September and October by houses with Wall street connections, promoted by the strength of crude oil and the firmness of lard and grains. Final prices were 10 to 12 points net higher. Sales were 293 contracts, but 126 were in the way of exchanges from May for September at 45 points difference. Bleachable spot, nominal: March closed, 5.20c; May, 5.39c; July, 5.64c; September, 5.84c; October, 5.90c.

LIVESTOCK TRADE IS VASTLY BETTER IN LAST 2 MONTHS

Slaughter Rises 8.6%; Value Up 35%.

Vast improvement in the live stock industry and a much broader consumer demand for meat is seen in the slaughter and valuation figures for the first two months of 1934. The number of animals slaughtered under federal inspection over the entire country increased to 13,862,000 head, a gain of 1,101,000, or 8.6 per cent, over the same two months of 1933. The value increased 35 per cent.

The higher value per head, rather than the heavier tonnage, has increased the farmers' returns from live stock. Of greater significance is the fact that consumers have absorbed this near record crop of cattle, hogs, and sheep at the higher level of prices.

Farmers Get $40,000,000 More.

The corn belt farm dailies places the value on the two months' slaughter at $155,800,000, as against $115,600,000 in 1933, an increase of more than $40,000,000. The cattle slaughter for February at 732,638 was the heaviest for that month in sixteen years and 29 per cent above the average of the last five years. Only one February slaughter on record is heavier. The per head value of cattle increased $4 on this near record slaughter. The total for the first two months of the year at 1,563,994 head compares with 1,180,932 in 1933.

Hog Killing on Smaller Scale.

Slaughtering of hogs was on a smaller scale, the total for February at 3,433,419 comparing with 5,390,940 in January and with 3,647,017 a year ago. During the first two months of the year 8,824,359 hogs were killed under federal inspection, comparing with 8,346,634 a year ago. Including the processing tax on hogs, the per head value in February was $4.90 above the February, 1933, price.

Lambs brought $2.75 per head more in February than a year ago, with the slaughter at 1,159,117, against 1,249,958 a year ago. The two months' total at 2,565,763 compared with 2,581,480 in 1933.

BUTTER BREAKS SHARPLY; EGGS OFF ONE-EIGHTH CENT

March and June butter broke sharply on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, closing at a net loss of ¾ cent per pound, or $144 per car for the day. November butter deliveries were off ⅝ cent. Eggs eased ¼ cent. Potatoes were unchanged. Butter storage reports showed 400,000 pounds more butter out than last year, the movement falling considerably under the pace of the last two months.

There was no change in the egg news. New buying and new selling continue fairly active in October eggs.

Sales: Butter, 97 cars; eggs, 44 cars; potatoes, 2 cars. Deliveries: Eggs, 4 cars; potatoes, 1 car. Prices:

SATURDAY—11:00 ONLY.

First of all, this opportunity demands promptness! Be here not a moment later than 11:00 a. m. Saturday, March 10. This is not a broadcast invitation. It is not for or to all men. Those who attend must have family responsibilities, be in good health, between 25 and 45 years of age, and able to furnish three character references. We have plenty of money for real character and working power. Past exp. means little. Men coming into this business are from all trades, businesses and professions, but they succeed equally well. What you have done is less important than what you can do. This is a sound company with openings for sound men, paying generous comm. and bonuses. You have nothing to buy, deposit or invest. We lead in the electric unit field world-wide, in this important branch of business. New men in this business often make from $35.00 to $50.00 their first week—from $150.00 to $225.00 their first month—and continue to grow in earning power until they make from $4,000.00 up to and in some cases beyond $7,500.00 a year.

Be prepared to start right in on a full time basis. When you earn more you get it. You don't have to wait for death or promotion of others to make a better place for you. Everybody here, without respect to length of service, is on a like basis. Men with longer experience are naturally expected to earn more money. This is clean, sound money. It "sticks." It does not run through your fingers. For every $2000 to $25.00 you earn you give employment for 6 days to an American workman. Our product is American-made and internationally endorsed. We're prepared to teach you how to do this business, but it's up to YOU to learn and apply these principles that mean PERMANENT SUCCESS AND INDEPENDENCE! If you are not afraid of the weather, if you will come in smartly and be here IN TIME, then we shall look for you not later than 11:00 Saturday morning. Room 910, at 222 N. Wells-st.

SATURDAY—11:00 ONLY.

First of all, this opportunity demands promptness! Be here not a moment later than 11:00 a. m. Saturday, March 10. This is not a broadcast invitation. It is not for or to all men. Those who attend must have family responsibilities, be in good health, between 25 and 45 years of age, and able to furnish three character references. We have plenty of money for real character and working power. Past exp. means little. Men coming into this business are from all trades, businesses and professions, but they succeed equally well. What you have done is less important than what you can do. This is a sound company with openings for sound men, paying generous comm. and bonuses. You have nothing to buy, deposit or invest. We lead in the electric unit field world-wide, in this important branch of business. New men in this business often make from $35.00 to $50.00 their first week—from $150.00 to $225.00 their first month—and continue to grow in earning power until they make from $4,000.00 up to and in some cases beyond $7,500.00 a year.

Be prepared to start right in on a full time basis. When you earn more you get it. You don't have to wait for death or promotion of others to make a better place for you. Everybody here, without respect to length of service, is on a like basis. Men with longer experience are naturally expected to earn more money. This is clean, sound money. It "sticks." It does not run through your fingers. For every $2000 to $25.00 you earn you give employment for 6 days to an American workman. Our product is American-made and internationally endorsed. We're prepared to teach you how to do this business, but it's up to YOU to learn and apply these principles that mean PERMANENT SUCCESS AND INDEPENDENCE! If you are not afraid of the weather, if you will come in smartly and be here IN TIME, then we shall look for you not later than 11:00 Saturday morning. Room 910, at 222 N. Wells-st.

Crowd of 21,509 Packs Stadium to See Golden Gloves Champions Crowned—Four Army Mail Pilots Killed

CROWD OF MORE THAN 21,500, EXCEEDING NORMAL SEATING CAPACITY, PACKS CHICAGO STADIUM TO SEE CHICAGOLAND GOLDEN GLOVES CHAMPIONS CROWNED; 32 FIGHT FOR RIGHT TO MEET POLISH BOXERS. View of crowd of 21,509 which filled the Chicago Stadium last night for the Golden Gloves championship fights. The crowd, which included representatives of almost every nationality, was the largest to see an indoor boxing exhibition since the record was established at the Golden Gloves show of 1931, when 23,100 managed to get inside the world's largest indoor arena. The eight Chicago champions chosen last night are to meet the champions from Poland at the Chicago Stadium on May 18. In the meantime the Chicagoans will go east to battle New York in the annual intercity matches on March 28. (Story on page 19.) [Kaufmann & Fabry Photo.]
